PHONE REPAIRED AT THE PARK

THE PARK, Jan. 27.—Clarence Vanorder with team went down the road to locate the trouble on the telephone line. He found it at the High Valley road, below the Hall ranch, and repaired it. Thanks to him we are again connected with Union.

Mr. Lola Wigwagsworth reports that her little family, the two babies Little May and her "bloss" of the house, March La Blande, not mentioning Frank the proud father are as well as can be at Haymo Flat. Frank Wigwagsworth was busy hunting his doubloons. He had to come measuring four feet in diameter, which caused him some little trouble, breaking two extra horses back with him home and repair the broken rig taking two extra shornas back with him to haul the big log.

The friends and schoolmates of Elva Vanorder are pleased to see her smiling face at school again, being well from a long spell of the "near" flu. Joseph Day is still at work over at the Creek. Kenneth Vanorder is again trapping for coyotes. They are quite plentiful, he reports.

Ed Gilgrippe is cutting wood with his drag saw with Joe Foster, on the Ed Miles ranch. Corrie Gale, an angler of repute on Catherine Creek, has done his playing on his fruit ranch near Union, the last three weeks. He is now cutting wood with a drag saw for his father-in-law, L. P. Ingram of Union.

Miss Gladis, the little daughter of the proud parents Mr. and Mrs. Claude Wood of Union, was 23 months old on the 23rd of the month and the year '22. The announcement of the marriage of Miss Vera Heiby, with Barney Leefer of La Grande was read in The Observer by her friends on the Creek, who wished them a life of bliss and happiness throughout their long matrimonial journey.

Mrs. Irene M. Gruppe is contemplating taking apartments with her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Orla Gruppe, of La Grande.

By letter Oswald Valenichlor, boss man of Union City, one of the champion fishermen of Catherine Creek, states that his friends can rest assured that he is enjoying the best of health. While he is preparing for a large output of honey he is also preparing for a good long fishing spell up the creek next season. It is hard to tell which is the best fishing on this creek, between Mr. Valenichlor, Frank Harris, of La Grande, Tom Mitchell and Eddie Gato of Union. For science and technicality, it is believed that Frank Harris can't be beat. But when it comes to sheer luck and hard work, and the knowledge of the nature of the fish along Catherine Creek, Oswald, it is believed, knows every rock, which is the honey to Thompson, a distance of 10 miles on the North Fork and some eight miles on the South branch. Mr. Gale and Mr. Mitchell are both scientific and workers after time.

Comparative Price Do Not Assure Values

3,732 handkerchiefs were recently advertised by the Edw. Malley Co., of New Haven, Conn., to sell at 6 cents. I was not stated in the advertisement that the former selling price had been 29 cents. In explanation of this the Malley Co. stated that "as intelligent merchants, appealing to an intelligent public, we wish our advertisements to have the power of convincing our patrons of our values, without fortifying them with even the truth when the truth has the outward semblance of falsehood."

Comparative prices are rarely an evidence of comparative values. Honest advertising is the best policy. We stick to the truth.

WOLF PACKS IN ONTARIO KENABECK, Ont., Jan. 26.—Wolf packs are increasing in number in the central part of the district of Temiskaming. They are of the grey lumber wolf variety, and are preying on the red deer which make the district their habitat. Bands of a half dozen to fifteen have been seen in close proximity to settled areas. Mining camps in the Montreal river district, about half way between Cobalt and Elk Lake, report numerous packs on the forage and driving other wild animals to cover.
