WALLACE REID HAS ODD ROLE IN NEW COMEDY

Star Is a Domestic Happiness Expert in Paramount Picture "Clarence."

If you can visualize a man who is a collectorist, a domestic happiness expert, a former mule driver, who doesn't cuss and still is a man, then you have a fairly good mental picture of "Clarence," whose exploits form the basis of the Paramount picture of the same name coming to the Arcade theatre tomorrow. But even with this mental picture you have not been told of the straggly hair of Clarence, nor of his huge tortoise-shell spectacles and lots of other idiosyncrasies which help make him an unforgettable figure in this production.

Above all else, Clarence is an extremely likable chap, and all because he happens into the Wheeler family just in time to prevent the family breaking up. Barking and biting has set the nerves of each member on edge and the inevitable is about to happen, when along comes Clarence, and with a calm word here, a soft caress there and a clever display of diplomacy and tact at all times, he rebuilds the tottering house of cards into a mansion of peace and happiness.

Just how Clarence does this cannot be adequately described for there is a subtle something to it which defies description. Both Tarkington, however, saw it and wove it into the famous play from which the picture was adapted. As "Clarence," Wallace Reid has never done anything which quite equals his droll humor and likableness in this part. He receives excellent support from Agnes Ayres as Violet Pinney, while May McAvoy makes a sparkling success in the sub-deb role of Cora Wheeler.

The picture is a William de Mille production and is the first of a humorous nature that this capable actor has given to the screen public. Clara Beranger wrote the screen play.

SHERRY'S LAST DAY.

It is difficult, after seeing "Hungry Hearts," the photoplay at the Sherry theatre, to know whether the acting, the direction, or the story itself should receive first mention. Each is of the highest order, and the combined result is one of the most distinctly fine screen achievements that happen once in a while.

The picture is an adaptation by Goldwyn of Henry Nezcak's volume of short stories of New York life published under the same title. The book created something of a sensation upon its publication two years ago, for a truer, more vivid picture of immigrant life has seldom been presented. In the process of transference to the screen the atmosphere of the original stories has been retained with remarkable fidelity by both the director, E. Mason Hopper, and the scenarist.

"Hungry Hearts" is a dramatic, soul-stirring picture; but by no means is it all pathos and tears. Delightful humor abounds in both situations and titles, which were written in part by Montague Glass, creator of "Fotash and Derlimer."

As to the cast, in no picture we have seen recently do the individual players seem to fit their roles so perfectly. As the mother Rosa Rosanova, well known Russian actress, teaches superb heights. Helen Ferguson gives a sympathetic, finished performance as the daughter, Sara; and Bryant Washburn portrays with considerable skill the part of the young lawyer.

A New York woman has left her fortune to found a great dog hospital, but all the country's wealth is not going to the bow-wow.

BREAK CHEST COLDS WITH RED PEPPER

Ease your tight, aching chest. Stop the pain. Break up the congestion. Feel a bad cold loosen up in just a short time.

"Red Pepper Rub" is the cold remedy that brings quickest relief. It cannot hurt you and it certainly seems to end the tightness and drive the congestion and soreness right out.

Nothing has such concentrated, penetrating heat as red peppers, and when heat penetrates right down into colds, congestion, aching muscles and sore, stiff joints relief comes at once. The moment you apply Red Pepper Rub you feel the tingling heat. In three minutes the congested spot is warmed through and through. When you are suffering from a cold, rheumatism, backache, stiff neck or sore muscles, just get a jar of Rowles Red Pepper Rub, made from red peppers, at any drug store. You will have the quickest relief known. Always say "Rowles."

The rest of the cast, including E. A. Warren on the father, George Siegmann as the landlord, Otto Lederer and Abe Hirsch, does equally fine work. A two reel comedy also showing.
