SHERRY'S TODAY AND TOMORROW

"Where is My Wandering Boy Tonight," the melodramatic offering that comes to the Sherry theater beginning today, promises an unusual treat for lovers of homely drama that gets under the skin. It is a splendidly photographed production and tells a story that touches every human heart and does it in a way to grip the interest and hold it in its clutch to the last flicker of the picture. "Where is My Wandering Boy Tonight," is one of the best of the sentimental titles, has heart interest in abundance. And the strain on the feelings is lightened at times by situations calling for quiet chuckles rather than laughter.

The dominating note is simplicity. Three of the four principals are small-town folks—the mother, her son and the latter's sweetheart—and the two former live in a cottage. The sweetheart is the employee of the town's banker—prosper and banker combined. The fourth member of the quartet is a girl of the show in the city. In the situation revolving around the boy and the show girl there are flashes of Broadway life as it was in the old days—of a cabaret, with dancing girls and clinking glasses and riotous mirth.

The acting opportunities lay within the quartet outlined. Virginia True Boardman is the mother, and it is a fine and a feeling character that she gives us of a role containing pitfalls. She will reach the heart of the boy and of the man, Colleen Landis is the boy, Carry Decker, and gives a strong performance. His role is that of a lad in love with a girl in his own town but also fascinated by the visiting show girl. Later he goes to the city to see her. It is then he learns that without means he cannot approach her interest. He returns home and robs the bank. When his funds are gone he is discarded. He turns about and goes straight, refunding bit by bit the money he has stolen. The transformation is sudden; we are not permitted to see the struggle that brings about the change in spirit.

Ruth "Betsy" Miller is a charming Lorna Owens, the village sweetheart of the boy. She carried with honor the role of fellow-sufferer with the mother and wins a large measure of sympathy. Kathleen Key has the harder and unpopular part of the cold-blooded show girl without redeeming qualities—and carries it through with splendid finesse.

All in all this new picture will warm the cockles of your heart for it runs the entire gamut of human emotions, with thrills, tears and sobs. The entertainment at the Sherry theater begins tonight. A knockout thriller is also being shown.

PICTURE BASED ON PETER B. KYNE'S NOVEL

"The Pride of Palomar" Scheduled for Showing Here.

Peter B. Kyne's "Pride of Palomar," besides appearing in book form, ran as a serial in Cosmopolitan magazine. It is familiar to many thousands, and the announcement that it has been produced on the screen by Paramount Productions for Paramount is one which will greatly interest local picture fans. The picture comes to the Arcade Theatre for three days, commencing today.

To many also the fact that Frank Borzage who created "Humoresque," and other notable pictures, directed "The Pride of Palomar" will be an assurance of the high quality of this production.

The picture has a powerful theme. It deals with the struggle of a young Californian for possession of the family ranch in California against the father of the girl he loves. The girl, played by Marjorie Daw, has to face the consequences of her love between her father and her lover, and it is absorbing and thrilling to see how she solves the problem.

Forrest Stanley and Miss Daw are the featured players of an all star cast, which includes James Burrow, Joseph Dowling, Warner Oland and other artistic screen artists.

A normal man is one who thinks his wife was rather fortunate to get a husband of his quality.

It must amuse the heathen to reflect that the thing that endangers our civilization is our civilization.
