LETTER WRITING BORNEO BONANZA

(By Associated Press)
SAN FRANCISCO, April 18.—Letter writing is the most lucrative business in Borneo, according to C. E. N. Wade, for the past four years British postmaster general of North Borneo, who recently arrived here. "When letter writers," he said, "come to Borneo, they write all the correspondence for the great multitude of natives, only a few of whom are literate. Many fortunes have been amassed by these people in this work, and today they are among the richest in the land."

SAGE TEA TURNS GRAY HAIR DARK

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Bring Back Color and Lustre to Hair.

That beautiful, even shade of dark, glossy hair can only be had by brewing a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray or streaked, just an application of two of Sage and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundredfold.

Don't bother to prepare the mixture; you can get this famous old recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients at a small cost, all ready for use. It is called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound. This can always be depended upon to bring back the natural color and lustre of your hair.

Everybody uses Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair has disappeared, and after another application it becomes beautifully dark and appears glossy and lustrous.

THE HOME GARDEN

What is Home without a Garden?

THE EARLY TURNIPS

Early turnips and green peas, maturing at the same time, provide material for an attractive dish. Boil the turnips whole until tender. Scoop out the center and fill with green peas, cutting the bottom of the turnip square so it will stand upright. Fill the hollow with green peas, placing a few peas about the turnip in the dish. Pour hot cream and butter over the combination.

Turnip seeds for a crop to mature with the peas should be sown as soon as the ground can be worked. They should be thinned early to 6 inches apart to secure fast growth. Sow the seed thinly and half an inch deep, and give them at least 1 1/2 inches apart in the rows. Tomato plants may be set at three foot intervals between the rows to take the place of the turnips when they are harvested and allowed to grow along without interference with the turnips. Cultivate frequently.

These early season white turnips grown rapidly are usually of finer quality, milder in flavor and tenderer of flesh than the late maturing crop for winter use. The turnip is not grown as frequently for an early crop as it deserves, usually being planted in July and broadcasted then. The old broadcasting method is a waste of seed and ground space for a very considerable portion of the seed thus sown will not produce plants with roots worth pulling as they will not have room to develop. The turnip likes rich, well worked soil with commercial fertilizer applied.

What to Eat and Why

Making a Big Word an Easy Part of Your Diet

Car-bo-hy-drates make up about 60 per cent of the average diet. They produce heat and energy. They are largely secured from the grain and vegetable starches.

In the long, slow baking by which Grape-Nuts is produced from wheat and malted barley, the grain starches are partially pre-digested. They are changed to "dextrins" and "maltose"—forms of carbohydrates so easy to digest that they form the basis of the most successful baby foods.

Many people have digestive trouble caused by the food-starch in its original form, but Grape-Nuts has been famous for a quarter-century for its exceptional ease of digestion, and assimilation, and its splendid, building nourishment. It is a food for strength and energy, delightfully crisp and appetizing, made today by the same formula which first brought this charm for taste and aid to health to the world's dining table. Grape-Nuts contains the iron, phosphorus and the essential vitamin, so often lacking in modern, "refined" foods.

Many servings of real food value in a package of this economical food. At your grocer's today—ready to serve with cream or milk. Grape-Nuts—the Body Builder. "There's a Reason." Made by Postum Cereal Co., Inc., Battle Creek, Mich.
