Marriage Licenses Issued—Licenses to wed were issued from the county clerk's office Saturday to John E. Lane and Patricia Keefe, of Imbler, and Lester A. Huntley and Clara Bickford, of La Grande. One was issued yesterday to Floyd Sanders and Belle Mason, of La Grande.

No Fires for 30 Days—La Grande Fire Chief C. O. Murchison today said that for a period of thirty days the fire engines have not been called from the station for a blaze within the city limits. The last fire, which was of a minor nature, occurred March 24, when the Kelley Apartments porch was damaged by flames. Although 30 days seems almost a record, Mr. Murchison states that in 1920 no fires were had during a period of 36 days.

How Much Do You Weigh?—Ever watch people weighing themselves? It's funny to see them. Heavy-set women shun the scale. They simply won't step on that is, if anybody else is looking, no difference how much they are urged. They don't seem to have any curiosity about their weight—if spectators are about. Men seem different. The big fat fellow actually seems pleased when the indicator wobbles between 225 and 230. When it finally comes to rest he looks around with such a self-satisfied air, waiting for the world to admire. But the woman inclined to rounding curves doesn't do likewise—not she.

Hot Lake Arrivals—The following names appear on the list Lake Shastina register: W. C. McCormick, Boise, Ida; H. J. Most, Boise, Ida; Miss B. M. Hines, Los Angeles, Cal.; Henry Zwicker, Pendleton; M. Boskovich, La Grande; Martin Zupun, La Grande; Christine Griffith, Baker; Josephine Brauman, Baker; Mrs. W. Stoddard, Baker; Mrs. W. Rolfing, Halfway; Emma A. Smith, Union; Perry Blanchard, La Grande; E. N. Morris and wife.

Green Barber's Life is Hard—Where do barbers come from? La Grande barbers say it is practically impossible to get young men to learn the trade in the city any more. The barbering business has changed greatly from what it used to be. It used to be that a youngster would want to learn the trade, come into the shop as an apprentice, but now, like every other profession, there are barbers' colleges where they teach the rudiments of the trade. After the young barber has graduated from his school, however, he isn't a finished barber by any means. He still has to have the rough edges knocked off him and this he gets by experience in a shop. The life of the green barber is a hard one. He gets a chair in a shop, the proprietor sees he's a greenhorn and out he goes. He gets a job in another shop where they are short, and stays there until the rush is over or an expert barber is secured and then he's turned out in the cold again. Thus the inexperienced barber lives a hand to mouth existence until finally in his travels he picks up the tricks of the trade and lands a steady berth. Most barbers come from the small towns.

FROSTY SCHOOL SEASON CLOSED

COVER, April 24.—Mr. Fannie Grimes held their last all-day meeting on Saturday. Owing to the busy season, the attendance was small, but the lecturer's hour in charge of George Miller was quite interesting, consisting of vocal solos and readings, also a roll call on "Give your ideas of a community management." All present expressed their views and decided to prepare a community exhibit and take it to the county fair and ask all friends and neighbors to take an interest in the movement. Brother M. L. Carter attended the Pomona Grange at Toloconet and made a fine report. Two candidates were initiated into the mysteries of the order.

Miss Zolpha Beach closed her school in Frosty district on April 20th with a program of songs, drills and recitations, followed by a big feast which was enjoyed by Mrs. Emerson Williams and daughter, Jean; Mrs. E. S. Morris and children; Mr. and Mrs. L. V. Johnson and family, and Mr. and Mrs. N. P. Knight. Miss Beach returned to her home in Union Friday afternoon.

Rev. and Mrs. Quinn and Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Beach of Union, were Cove visitors on Friday.
 L. V. Johnson and family, Mrs. Matthea Beach and daughter, Esther, were La Grande business visitors on Saturday.
 Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Daniel spent Wednesday with Mr. and Mrs. N. P. Knight.
 Earl Baker and family have moved to the C. E. Lawson farm for the summer.

APPLE BLOOMS DEVELOP
HOOD RIVER, Apr. 23.—Indications now point to a fairly full bloom in Hood River orchards by next Sunday. In the lower valley the trees today would have been in heavy bloom but for the cold rains that struck the district the middle of last week. Since then, with clear nights bordering on frost, blossoms have made no progress.
 Road conditions of the valley are excellent, according to Roadmaster Nichols.

POSTAL EXAMINATION UP
PENDLETON, Apr. 24.—Examinations will be held May 12 in Pendleton under civil service regulations for postmasters for Athena and Stanfield. Henry Barratt, Athena business man and farmer, is reported the only candidate at Athena and Bob Starkweather is reported the candidate at Stanfield. The Athena office pays $1700 and the Stanfield office $1400.

THE MARKET
PORTLAND, Apr. 24.—Cattle were steady, prime yearling steers $8.75 to $8.85; hogs one quarter lower, prime light $9 to $9.25; sheep steady; eggs firm, buying prices 21 to 27 cents, selling prices 22 to 30 cents; butter easier.

FARM CREDITS ARE CAUSE OF POLICY CLASH

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, April 24.—Dual administration provisions of the agriculture credits act have brought about a clash as to policy between federal agencies charged with directing the new farm credit system. The situation has reached the stage, it was said Monday, where Secretary Mellon proposes to attempt to "straighten out" differences which have arisen between the federal farm loan board and the office of the comptroller of the currency.

Disagreement between the two units of the treasury arose first, it was said, when the loan board issued a circular suggesting that national banks might organize adjunct loan corporations under state laws as an added facility for those seeking to use the new credit system.

This suggestion, it appeared, was thoroughly disapproved by Comptroller Cressinger, who was said to have viewed the action as a move by the loan board to upset a long established policy of the comptroller's office which had discouraged organization by national banks of any adjunct corporations which would not be subject to supervision under the national banking laws.

Chain Mail Control
 Officials of the farm loan board contended that they would have complete control of the corporations whose organization they had suggested, but that did not satisfy the comptroller's office.

Secretary Mellon was said to be prepared to determine whether anything detrimental to the general treasury policy had been done and whether the Lammot-Anderson sections of the credit law contemplated encouraging the formation of red-counting corporations under state laws that might prove "dangerous" to the national banking system.

Mr. Cressinger was said to have maintained that the farm loan board's suggestion that the adjunct corporations be organized under state laws, offered to national banks a means of building up institutions where the problems of ascertaining exact financial conditions would be difficult.

The farm loan board has backed its stand with the assertion that such corporations were contemplated in the law and that its duty was to point the way to those desiring to affiliate with or participate in the operation of the new credit plan. It claimed also, it was said, that the law gave it control for examination purposes as complete as that now held by the comptroller over the national banks.
