CONTRIBUTES TO U. OF O. UNION FUND

EUGENE, May 3.—(Raiph Poston, a student of medicine and a senior at the University from La Grande, has signed a pledge stating that he will contribute $100 to the student union fund, a sum being raised by the University students to be used in erecting a building for student purposes.

Since the campaign began a little over two months ago, $7,000 has been raised by campus societies and living organizations for the student union fund. Phi Sigma Pi, a fraternity of which Poston is a member, has recently subscribed $1,000 to be used in erecting the student union plan. Many members of the senior class have endorsed the resolution pledging them to give $100 and class officers are confident that the subscription will be 100 per cent.

Making Trouble for the Parents

There are, of course, some young men and young women who lack the sense to profit by wise counsel, and have to learn by bitter experience. Sometimes certain types of high school girls, just to assert what they consider their rights, will smoke cigarettes in public. They do not count the cost of publicity they may get if the school authorities catch them, and the annoyance and grief they may cause their parents. They can learn only through suffering where a word of caution would save others.

Not long ago a school board of an Arkansas town laid down some strong rules against the use of face powder and paint. Regardless of what may be thought of the board that interests itself in such matters, or as to whether it has a legal right to impose such rules, the publicity for violators could not be pleasant for them or their parents.

One girl was expelled for insistence on using face powder. She appealed to court, but the latter, while declaring that it did not think much of the rules in question, refused to compel the school authorities to reinstate her. Her case was then carried to the state supreme court and the girl lost again.

It may be trivial for grown men and courts to be concerning themselves with such things, but just the same it is very foolish for school children to set out to defy the rules; certainly not without consultation with their parents. If the parents think the rules are wrong they will take the matter up with the proper authorities. Where children defy the school officers they invariably make a mess of it, creating trouble for themselves and for their parents.

In after years it may not be pleasant for the Arkansas girl in this case to reflect that she is on record in her state as using too much face powder.
