THE HOME GARDEN

A VEGETABLE ORNAMENT.

Parsley is the ornament of the vegetable garden. Its use is as much ornamental as for flavor in cooking. Salads and other dishes garnished with its beautiful mossy curled leaves are always attractive. Then, too, the finely-chopped leaves are used to sprinkle over various dishes as a finish, and the chopped leaves become an important part of the flavoring of soups, stews and other dishes.

Parsley is very slow to germinate and should be sown as early as seeds can be put into the ground. It may be used as an edging to a flower bed with good effect and as only a few leaves are needed at a time, such as are necessary for kitchen use may always be secured without destroying the ornamental effect.

A few plants of parsley are sufficient for the garden, and they should be given about eight to ten inches in which to develop their mossy foliage. The seed should be planted thinly and the space marked off, so that it will not be overrun with weeds before the parsley puts in an appearance, as it often may wait a month before doing so. But once up it makes fast growth, the young plants resembling celery.

It may be planted with radishes in the same manner as carrots are so, radishes planted, the radishes serving to mark the row and being out of the way before the parsley appears. It likes good soil, but is not particu-

Western Naphthenic Crude

Best for Motor Oils

ZEROLENE, made from selected Western Naphthenic Base Crude, vacuum-distilled by our exclusive process, will increase your car's power and gasoline mileage by about 5% more than you can get when you use the average higher-priced oil.

In addition, your car will run from 25% to 50% farther before carbon-removing operations become necessary. Both these facts have been proved by repeated demonstrations in the laboratories of this Company and on the road.

Insist on Zerolene—even if it does cost half as much. Consult our Correct Lubrication Chart to determine the right body of Zerolene for your car.

lar, and will give a sufficient crop of leaves to supply all needs in most any location, even in the shade.

If anyone has a fancy for decorative effect in the garden, a row of parsley, a row of beets, and a row of chard will give an attractive foliage effect.

The most chivalrous way to shield the woman in the case is to refrain from letting her in for anything that will need shielding.

ROMANCE DEAD HERE? TREES BELIEVE CHARGE

Romance is not dead in La Grande. As one travels back and forth through the city's park, past the various big trees and possible places where there is room for a pair of initials, one finds pair after pair that have been made.

Memories of 1,000 forgotten lovers are above the newly carved initials, true to all tradition scrooled within a heart.

The big penknives are still at work, although there is a tendency today to make the initials smaller and work in a verse now and then when they have time, usually eliminating in perhaps one or two lines and a desultory flourish.

If he is ignorant and lazy and perverse and envious, you are safe in assuming that he thinks he is one of the oppressed.

"and some day--- you may be President!"

IS it a lofty ambition? Perhaps. But no father fails who sets high ideals for his son. Persistence, frugality, thrift are always subjects for parental concern.
