SHORT AND SNAPPY

The sweet stuff with the sheer silk hosiery certainly earns its summer pleasure. Sitting in the house is unbearable. Loafing on the porch is one squirm and scratch after another as the mosquitoes come zipping around looking for something to light upon.

Legislatures have made some progress, but they still refuse to make the playing of saxophones a crime.

God has given mankind everything essential to happiness except appreciation.

MOTHER LOVE AND DOG DEVOTION IN STRONGHEART'S "BRAWN OF THE NORTH"

Strongheart, the wonderful police dog who sprang into such prominence as a motion picture star in "The Silent Call" has made another picture which is coming to the Star for an engagement of three days beginning Friday. It is a Laurence Trimble-Jane Murfin production entitled "Brawn of the North," a First National attraction.

The story is most unusual from the standpoint of thrilling action and tense emotional scenes. It is a story of a dog's faithfulness and loyalty to his mistress, a loyalty that surmounts all his natural instincts. For Strongheart, suffers his temptations, very similar to those given to men; and they attract him to such an extent that finally his human mistress declares him worthless and attempts to kill him.

But his loyalty remains steadfast and the action which leads up to the climax carries with it heart throbs and thrills, melodrama and pathos, threading through a double love story.

FAMOUS CLASS "LORNA DOONE" OPENS AT ARCADE TODAY

Romance comes riding across the screen in picturesque seventeenth century garb in the sumptuous production of "Lorna Doone" which opens at the Arcade theater today for a three day run. From a novel that has been a favorite with three generations, Maurice Tourneur has produced a film that combines the beauty of an old world painting and the thrills of a modern melodrama.

Contrasted with the early scenes of the wild moorland where peasants in quaint homespuns and linseys live under the terrorized sway of the wild outlaw band are vivid glimpses from the magnificent court of King James where "Lorna" is taken in regal style after her rescue by the herculean "John Ridd" from the wicked "Doones." John's fight when he tears a hole through the thatched roof of the banquet hall where Lorna is being forced into marriage with Carver Doone and the big battle when the aroused peasantry burns the Doone village to the ground are two of the most dramatic episodes ever screened.

Madge Bellamy, the new Thomas H. Ince star, is an ideal "Lorna." She bears a striking resemblance to the romantic heroine for whose sake the handsome "John" risks so many perils. In the beautiful costumes which she wears in scenes at the court and Westminister Abbey she might well be mistaken for the model from whom the famous painting of "Lorna Doone" was made.

John Bowers, as the conquerer of the terrible Doones, who murdered his father, surpasses anything that he has done in screen characterizations while the most picturesque figure in the play is that of "Sir Ensor Doone," the exiled nobleman who has become the leader of the wild outlaws. Frank Kenan, the creator of "Yosemite," plays this role superbly. Donald McDonald as the hated "Carver Doone" has produced a character that will be numbered among the screen's most hated "heavies."

The novel has been screened with an evident disregard for expense for the settings are rarely beautiful while the photography attests the innate artistry of the producer.

BEBAN'S REAPPEARANCE IS A SIGNAL TRIUMPH

Picturization of His Famous "The Sign of the Rose," a Screen Classic.

DON'T MISS THIS PICTURE

"Heart" pictures are becoming more and more frequent but they will have to go far to surpass "The Sign of the Rose," in which George Beban stars. It is his first picture in a year or more. His reappearance makes us realize how much he has been missed. There is no star to compare with Beban in his own particular field, and few who rank higher in their own.

Again he is an Italian. It would be difficult to picture him otherwise. As Pietro Baletti, a laborer, who by chance is hired to bring a Christmas tree to a wealthy home, Beban is his familiar self—simple, awkward, eager. But with what compelling artistry does he achieve this! Not by so much as a fraction of a second does he lose is grip on the audience.

It is at this point that the plot really begins, a plot which causes the baby daughter of the house to be kidnapped by her unscrupulous uncle in order to obtain money to pay a pressing debt. How suspicion is fastened on the Italian and how, because of that suspicion, his own little girl is run down and killed by a rich man's automobile—all this is built up scene by scene with astonishing suspense. Not a scene, in fact, fails to disclose a link in the chain that seems to be drawing closer around poor Pietro's heart.

The story is skilfully developed as it is acted by all concerned. Special mention should be made of Dorothy Girard as Pietro's daughter. Looking not more than eight this child proves herself an actress of skill, authority and appeal. Helene Sullivan as the fashionable mother, is sincerely the character she portrays, and Chas. E. Elder, Gene Cameron, Arthur Talmage Stanhope Wheatcroft and Louise Calmetti are equally excellent. Don't miss "The Sign of the Rose." It is being shown today and tomorrow at Sherry's.

"Ah, well," sighed the philosophic jit owner, "the who steals my car steals trash."

Cement Starts Things—and Keeps Them Going

Scores of industries keep producing, armies of workmen are kept busy, to supply demands arising from the use of portland cement.

Unlike most common articles, cement not only starts things but keeps them going. On every construction job it creates demand for an almost immeasurable volume of other essential materials and services.

Just take the one most closely related class of these—sand, gravel, crushed stone—the "aggregate" for concrete. Simply to get these out of the earth and prepare them for use during the season of active demand, requires the employment of at least 50,000 men.

Hundreds of thousands more are engaged in concrete work on construction jobs.

One would hardly think that the water in concrete amounted to much. Yet more had to be pumped or measured for this purpose last year than was used altogether in Duluth or Fort Worth.

Transporting the cement and "aggregates" for concrete keeps more locomotives and freight cars busy than there are on the New York Central Railroad.

And those engines burn coal, 6,500,000 tons a year, as much as 6,500 miners take out.

And so the list might be lengthened indefinitely.

The cement industry depends on a great number of other industries. They also depend on it. In a very real sense, these are [illegible] industry.
