Fashion Notes

For Little Miss
Paris—An odd effect, but a pretty one, is given by one of the new party frocks for a 5-year-old miss shown today. From shoulder to elbow, the frock is made up of a wide, flat, embroidered bertha. The diminutive remainder is a crinoline of fine, finely plaited and ending just above the knee.

Variation of Sleeveless Gown
Paris—Still another variation of the sleeveless gown is with us today. This time it takes the form of armlets of ribbon flowers, placed near the elbow. The flowers are attached to the shoulder of the gown by two or three ribbons. There should be a flat plaique of matching flowers at the girdle if one is to be right up to the minute.

Greek-Egyptian Blend
London—Greek and Egyptian modes are today blended gracefully in both evening gowns and negligees. The skirt may be entirely Egyptian, with draperies in front and the effect of light swathing. The bodice may be entirely Greek, with peplos effect and flowing sleeve veils.

Initialed Garments
London—It is proper, today, to have every garment initialed. One sees the owner's monogram on chiffon sleeves, on the front of the hat, on scarf ends, on shoe buckles, as a motif in embroidery round the belt of a costume blouse, and on the tab which finishes a collar or cuff.

Plum Color Coming Into Vogue
New York—Plum color, a long-neglected shade, is gradually coming into its own. For one thing, it combines exquisitely with many of the green tones today in vogue. And for another thing, it is an effective shade by itself for a tailored suit in the soft new serge.

New Lingerie Comfortable
New York—Some of the new lingerie from Belgium is of very fine linen, cool and comfortable for late spring and summer. Many of the night gowns and envelopes of today—or rather these nights—have a deep bertha with just a touch of embroidery at the edge. Others have insets of lace, one tendency being to make the lace inset wider on one side than on the other.

Black Gown's Advantage
New York—In many ways there is more style and comfort today in a black gown than in a gown of any other color. The return of the black silk crepe gown is hailed with rejoicing. It is useful on so many occasions and looks so different with every different necklace or hat.

PARK SOCIAL NEWS

(Special to The Observer)

THE PARK, May 3.—Clarence Vanorder found a brand new baby coat, left in his stable Sunday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Vandervanter's youngest baby girl, Doris, seemed to be quite ill Tuesday morning, when her fever was 101—but, a short while after she was playing and seemed to be much better. All of their children had a spell of "cold."

Mrs. Liddle Vandervanter's uncle, Henry, is building a screened-in porch for the Vandervanter home.

Urbett Lay had dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Vanorder Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Lay entertained a jolly party of guests for dinner Sunday. Among them were Mr. and Mrs. Leon Brown, of Baker, and Geo.

Horgan and his sister, Miss Dolly through.

Horgan, also of Baker. A delightful time was enjoyed by all.

A new family has moved onto the Hall ranch—their names have not been learned, but it is reported that Mr. Hall will run his dairy as usual on the old place, which was sold last fall.

Guy McNair, fire warden, was up on his place Tuesday. It is presumed that he will move his family from Union to the ranch for the summer.

Jack Haley was up the Creek Sunday.

L. E. Ingram, logging at North Powder, was visiting with his family Saturday and Sunday.

J. H. Hunter and "Little Jack" repaired the telephone line Monday from their place to the summit. They found the wire grounded to the bare wire fences in two different places.

There's Only One Good Reason Why!

DID you ever see a car crow-hopping it up a hill like a broncho buster trying to fan a savage cayuse up the front steps of an old Western saloon? The get-there is something for the other fellow to bet on—not you.

There may be a mixture of reasons for the cowboy's inability, but there's only one reason for the by-vigorous-efforts car's weakness. That is a mixture of air and poor gasoline.

You'll never develop a case of up-and-back because your car hops up the hills if you fill your tank with Veltex gas.

There's get-away, power, more speed when you want it and more pull on the hill in every gallon of Veltex. She's a rarin'-to-get-you-somewhere gas that gives your engine a new lease on life—VELTEX, THAT'S HER.

FAITHFUL FOUR AT WORLD'S TIP

Four Lonely Canadians On Guard at Wrangel Island, In Arctic Regions.

OTTAWA, Ont., May 4. — Four lonely Canadians, marooned on Wrangel Island at the top of the map, have been waiting since 1921 to have that bleak Arctic region proclaimed Canadian soil. The four are the members of a landing party left by Vilhjalmur Stefansson, the explorer, on his visit to the island several years ago. While the former members of his expedition possess their souls in patience and hunt muskox and seal for a living, Stefansson is negotiating with the Canadian government to reimburse him for the expense of his polar voyage, and accept sovereignty over Wrangel Island in payment.

When members of the Stefansson party raised the Canadian flag on Wrangel Island in 1921, there was some discussion as to the propriety of the action. The flag has remained, with three men and a boy to guard it, but no step has been taken here to assert formal sovereignty over the northern area. Stefansson, who fitted out his own expedition at a cost of $25,000, when he failed to interest the Canadian government in his plans, now argues that his addition to the Canadian domain should be worth at least that much money.

The main value of the island at present according to Stefansson is strategic. He says that it is directly in the path of an ideal trans-polar air route across the world.

WARFARE STARTED ON PINE BEETLE

(By Associated Press)

EUGENE, Ore., May 4.—Warfare against the west pine beetle, a pest in forests of southern Oregon and northern California, was launched recently when A. J. Jacobs, head of the forest insect control work, was sent to Klamath county, Oregon, to supervise the campaign there.

In that region, which is most infested by the beetle, more than a million acres of yellow pine, all of high quality, and valued at more than $20,000,000, will be examined for beetle infestation which during the past ten years has destroyed 10 per cent of the timber of that section, according to statistics furnished by the forest department.

More than 100 men are already at work cutting the infested timber and burning the bark. Later, approximately twice that number will be employed at the different camps.

It is expected that another year's work on the project will be sufficient to curb the beetle menace and measures will then be taken to prevent a recurrence.
