HOW IS MONEY MADE

"BY THE interchange of something for something at a profit?"
Get out of doors, you folks who are cooped in wheel chairs; a month ago a young man, getting $25 a week, came with us—last week and the week before his commissions were $75 for his week's pleasant occupation, building a business all his own, some difference! We're the largest silk hosiery mill in the world, built the business in three years, and have millions of satisfied customers; if you live in La Grande and like to work, this is an opportunity. See Mr. Gerber at the Foley Hotel, Thursday evening at 7:30 p. m.

Fox Farming A Prosperous Industry, According to Biological Survey Report.

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, May 24.—Blue fox farming on the islands off the north-east coast of Alaska is becoming a highly prosperous industry, according to reports of representatives of the biological survey, United States department of agriculture, who made a trip of investigation to Alaska recently. A breeding pair of blue foxes is worth from $250 to $400, and some breeders sell from 20 to 30 pair a season. A pair is worth from $150 to $250.
Some of the island farms are near the mainland, other 100 miles or more from the shore; many are timbered and have abundant shrubbery, while others, the reports state, are almost entirely barren.
White and blue foxes are not different species, but merely two phases of the same fox. The white is the normal winter coat of one phase, and in summer the coat of the white fox is brown and lustrous. The fox which is dark bluish gray or mottled in winter and roots gray or brown in summer is an abnormal representative of the same species. Most of the blue foxes in Alaska have come from the Pribilof Islands or from Siberia. Ranchers usually have from

MANY VETS OFF FIGHTING LIST

(By Associated Press)
SALEM, May 24.—Statistics received by General George A. White, adjutant general of Oregon, from the federal government indicate that if the United States ever enters another war, very few of the men who fought in the World war will be available for duty and the country must depend upon a new generation.

"At this time," says General White, "only a million or so of the 4,800,000 in the World war would be accepted for duty, while two years from now only 600,000 of the World war fighting men could be depended on."

"After 1925, the number of veterans recedes rapidly until by 1930 only 20,000 veterans would be first time fighting men. The figures are carried on to 1945, at which time it is estimated that only 5,300, or enough for a single combat brigade, would be available from among the 18-year-old youth who performed such valiant service against Germany in 1917 and 1918."

"Development of dependents, such as wives and children, is the principal cause of taking the 17 vets off the fighting list for future wars," he said.

the convention was originally called to "crystallize opinion concerning the development of the Colorado River, the discussion of Indian affairs has since been included in the agenda." This, he says, will bring hundreds of persons to the convention who otherwise would not have attended.

General Hugh Scott, former Indian fighter but in late years a peace-maker among the Red Men, will attend the meeting, the secretary stated. Zane Grey, author; Armando Santez, head of the international commission in charge of the boundary line between the United States and the southern republic, will attend or will have a representative; senators, heads of federal departments, governors, and noted leaders of the west will attend, according to Mr. Kruckman.

When at last he discovers it and catches the idea, no doubt Borah will come out strongly in favor of the second Commandment.
