In honor of her small daughter, Melba Helen's sixth birthday anniversary, Mrs. Earl Shepherd entertained Thursday afternoon, twenty-four small children, at a most attractive and enjoyable party.

The home was decorated in the color scheme of yellow and white, which blended harmoniously with the pastel tints of the little misses' dresses.

The afternoon was spent in playing games and having a general good time. Prizes were given to the winners at games.

Those present were Melba Helen Shepherd, Barbara and Beverly Guye, Ben and Gloria Grace Grundy, Kathleen Williamson, Deborah Lloyd, Gladys and Lawrence Roberts, Robert Baker, Pat and Dell Kennedy, Julia Smith, Irene Spencer, Bernadine Roberts, Marie Baxter, Leona Jackson, Clema and Virginia Shaw, Virginia Shepherd, Helen Sherman, Helen Fallows and Jack Cosman.

Rainbow colored decorations adorned the Country club rooms Friday afternoon, when Mrs. W. G. Sawyer entertained with a delightful party in honor of her small niece Dulcinea Nancy Carse, who with her mother, Mrs. C. E. Carse, is visiting here from Portland.

The afternoon was spent in playing games, Sally Siegrist winning the prize at the game of pinning the tie on Buster Brown.

Attractive little favors were given each small guest as they were seated for refreshments.

Mr. and Mrs. Turnipseed will visit in Portland for a few days and attend the Rose Show, and from there they will visit for a time in San Francisco, before going on to Alabama. Fashion Notes

Increasing in Favor.
Paris.—Black watered silk is increasingly favored for three-piece costumes, in spite of the fact that black was supposed to be out of style. One very smart model in black watered silk with a Louis XV, draped coat seen today, had a bright little, Persian twist-coat of cashmere.

Suit of Rubberized Material.
Paris.—For the damp seaside and also for rainy days, there is the tailored suit of rubberized material. Such materials are pleasurable and nowadays lack the disagreeable rubbery odor. They are thin enough, too, so as not to be too warm for summer wear.

Both are Squat.
London.—The parasol as well as the umbrella is a very squat affair today; no matter how brilliant its hue, a guest at the Savoy carried her umbrella upside down by means of a ivory ring at the end of the ferrule.

Lace Frocks in Vogue.
London.—Lace frocks are very much in vogue this season. They are seen by the dozens at small dinners, luncheons and other choice eating places. Blend lace with a dash of black with is much favored with dyed lace in such beautiful shades the lace gown may be any unit.

Odd New Sweater.
New York.—One of the new sweaters shown here today looks a good deal like a bit of old fashioned wall paper. There is much criss-crossing of dark lines, forming little diamond shaped spots. And in each spot is a big dot of color. No sleeves or plain sleeves are the rule, the long V-necks being as popular as the button shape.

Gauntlet Gloves in Vogue.
New York.—Gauntlet gloves in silk as well as in doe skin and other leathers are among the seasonable accessories today. The silk gauntlet often has a strap at the wrist, and the gauntlet is finished with a

Stop that dandruff, stop the hair from falling out. It can be done in a very few days without fail by using our Germicide and Dandruff line of vivid green, red or purple stitchery.

Gingham Gowns Swanky.
New York.—The black and white checked gingham frocks seem especially swanky this season. Some of them shown today are made with narrow black and white frillings. Others are bound with black and white braid. With a bright red hat, such a frock is a joy on any summer's day.

Limit on Matching.
New York.—One excellent idea of the season is to have all the accessories of a tailor match. This idea is even carried so far as to have the handle of the parasol match that of the wrist bag.

Hen Feathers on Wraps.
Paris.—Hen feathers are used as trimmings on many of the new evening wraps. The feathers of the guinea hen, in their natural tints or dyed, form a fringe on the collars and edges of velvet cloaks. They are even seen as an edge to collars of fur and marabout.

For Hot Weather.
New York.—The slipper negligee of crossbar voile is a pleasant thought for hot weather. These comfortable lounging robes are to be had today in pastel tints, ruffled and embroidered.

Leaky Gas Connections

Gasoline can not only drive a car at terrific speed—it can reduce it to a mass of molten metal. A leaky connection—a short circuit or hot engine—the car is enveloped by fire—the gas tank explodes. It will pay you to repair a gas leak at once.

There are other common causes of fire, some of which cannot be easily detected. Even a minor blaze in your car or garage means an outlay of money for repairs. It is wise to insure your car against such loss.
