OAT AND BARLEY CROPS INCREASE; WHEAT DECREASES

WASHINGTON, June 9.—The principal grain crops of the country will be smaller this year than last, with the exception of oats and barley, both of which have been planted on larger acreages than a year ago, according to the department of agriculture monthly report. No reports have been made yet on corn. Winter wheat shows slightly improved prospects, resulting from May conditions, and a crop of 581,000,000 bushels is forecast. This is a little more than was indicated a month ago and about 5,000,000 bushels less than last year's crop. In Kansas there was a reduction of more than 10,000,000 bushels in the forecast, compared with a month ago, and in some other states there were slight decreases.

The season's first forecast of spring wheat production reported this prospective yield at 236,000,000 bushels, or 40,000,000 bushels less than last year's crop, which was placed at 276,000,000 bushels in revised statistics Friday. The spring wheat acreage is 5.1 per cent less than last year's. North Dakota's crop promises to be about one-third less than a year ago, while Minnesota and South Dakota will have slightly smaller crops. Montana and Washington show increases over last year.

Smaller crops of apples and peaches than last year are indicated, although they will be larger than the average crops of the five years, 1917-21 inclusive.

FIGOT COPPER ORE DECISION

(By Associated Press)
 SALT LAKE CITY, June 9.—A lively legal battle is expected as a result of the Utah Copper company's appeal from the decision of the state engineer granting the application of Henry N. Standish of Bingham for water from streams from which he expects to recover the copper content.

This method of recovering copper values has become common in the vicinity of Bingham in the past few years. A wooden tank, carrying salts of copper in solution, is run through the tank, the copper replaces the iron by chemical process. The Utah and other mining concerns claim that the copper thus derived, comes from their claims, and that it belongs to them. The state engineer found that the water applications had been filed in due course to appropriate water from the natural stream bed, and that the granting of such application is within his jurisdiction.
