Take these tablets when troubled with constipation or indigestion and they will do you good.—Adv.

Harley Councell, who had his arm badly broken a week ago is getting along nicely now, although he suffered terrible pain for three days afterwards. Harley had taken his aunt, Mrs. S. A. Scott, and two little children, Mildred and Billy, of Caldwell, Idaho, who had been here visiting Mrs. Mary Councell, to the depot at Hot Lake, and the Ford which he was driving "kicked" him on the arm as he went to crank it to start home, breaking the large bone and chipping and twisting the other. Why Suffer from Rheumatism?

Do you know that nine out of every ten cases of rheumatism are simply rheumatism of the muscles or chronic rheumatism, neither of which require any internal treatment? The pain may be relieved by applying Chamberlain's Liniment, which makes sleep and rest possible, and that certainly means a great deal to any one afflicted with rheumatism.—Adv.

Fashion Notes

Silk hose play a very important role in a smart woman's outfit. The kind known in Paris as No. 44, of a cobweb quality, is most popular, while the most popular color is still "beige-rose," as also all shades of browns and tans.

Then there are shoes. Hardly two women wear the same kind of shoes. There are thousands of specimens about and all seem different. One thing, though, seems sure. Sandals have lost their universal popularity to some extent. They still figure exclusively at night, but are much less worn with day gowns. There seems a sort of incongruity in wearing shoes with absolutely no protection to the feet and their transparent hose in combination with gowns which are designed for walking. The best dressed women don't wear them any more out of their proper place, and have reverted to the buckled slippers known as escarpins, with Cuban or French heels which are certainly not novel. Another kind of shoe which is worn is the "Riche-lieu" slipper of suede or patent leather, with very large buckles, which again shows a reversion to ancient styles.

This does not exclude the various kinds of strappings which one sees here, there and everywhere. These have been so much done and so much overdone, that really smart and well dressed women are reacting against these elaborations by reverting to a simpler style of shoe.

This is a season of subtle toilette, carefully harmonized, rather than elaborate costumes. The theme of shoes has ever held a decided interest for all women, and never was this more true than at the present moment. Shoes are undoubtedly indicative of their wearer's character, tastes and position in life. Some of the smartest women insist on one type of shoe which suits their own style and type of foot, and wear it in many fabrics and leathers, and at all occasions. This is really a very clever thing to do, but one must be sure of one's foot number and be very sure, indeed, that one has found the perfect last for one's foot. The women of rare taste never wear boots or slippers that give her foot a vulgar or abnormal line, and never wears shoes that are of the extreme or of a common and cheaply looking variety.

Cashmere Crepe for Flounced Skirts. Paris.—Cashmere crepe is one of the materials which today lends its effect prettily to the idea of the deeply flounced skirt. Gowns of this crepe with three deep flounces and a simple, plain bodice, are much affected by young girls.

Veil Must Match Eyes. Paris.—The veil to match the eyes is an innovation today and a happy one. The veil is blue or deep brown, comes just below the eyes and ought to be a perfect match. In the case of hazel eyes, however, a green veil gives a fascinating green tinge greatly admired.

New Shiny Tint Vogue. London.—It is interesting to note, as one may at such smart gatherings as a tea dance at Claridge's how wide a vogue the new "sherry" tint has achieved today. Most of the blondes whose skin is not too pink are wearing sherry because it brings out so strikingly the values of gold.

Debutantes Surprise Again. London.—Rather unexpectedly the debutantes are appearing in white or ivory today rather than in colors. The white taffeta frock, knife pleated, is frequently seen. Its trimming is invariably white silk flowers or silver leaves.

Style for Slim Only. New York.—One of the things noteworthy about clothes at the Belmont races and other big society gatherings recently is the tendency of stripes and designs to be horizontal. Even when a gown has no stripes running around it, the skirt and in some instances the whole frock often has wide bands of horizontal ruffles or flounces. It is a style for the slim only.

So Far, It's a Draw. New York.—The struggle for mastery between hoop earrings and pen-dants still goes merrily on. At present, one style is as fashionable as the other. The prime necessity is that, whatever the style, color, or material, the earrings must be as large as the face can bear.

Two Types of Hat. New York.—A glaucous at any fashionable gatherings today will prove the popularity of two types of hats. One is the close little poke bonnet.
