Your best hot-weather "Eats"—Sandwiches

Strawberry Sandwiches
Bread should be cut thin and buttered lightly. Slice large firm strawberries and spread over slices. Sprinkle with blended powdered sugar and cinnamon and cover with second slice. These should be made just before time to serve.

Chicken and Olive Sandwiches
Butter the desired number of slices of bread, and on half of these lay thinly sliced pieces of chicken. Over the chicken spread a mixture of minced olives moistened with mayonnaise. Cover with second slice. These should be made just before time to serve.

Watercress Sandwiches
Spread between thin slices of bread a filling made as follows: One-half cup of butter, six tablespoonsful of minced watercress, one teaspoonful of lemon juice. These ingredients should be thoroughly creamed. Slices need not be buttered.

For the Bread-goodness that is the foundation of sandwich-goodness, insist on the loaf fullest of Bread-flavor and deliciousness—

DUSTIN FARNUM STARS IN NEW FOX WESTERN

An excellent story, exquisite outdoor scenes, and fine acting mark "The Hunter," the latest William Fox production starring Dustin Farnum, which will be shown at the Star Theatre Saturday and Sunday.

A melodramatic vehicle of unusual power is here given to the famous Fox star, and his work attracts the multi-tude of his histrionic characteristics to comply with the demands of the role assigned him. Farnum is called upon to be the patrolling, yet stern tamer of a New York society belle, Doris Dawn, in the terminology, as the girl to be shaken from her equanimity and temperament, acquires herself creditably. Together they form a team of excellent performers in a picture of romance, action and thrills.

The story is from the prolific pen of William Patterson White, the noted writer, and was adapted for screen- ing by Jack Strumwasser, Colin Campbell directed.

The photographic beauty of the Fox feature is due to the care practiced in the selection of "location" in the Californian Rocky Mountains and in a still larger measure to the cameraman, David Able.

ONE OF THE BEST IS "THE NEER-DO-WELL"

One of the best photoplays seen in La Grande in many months is "The Neer-Do-Well," which was given its first showings at the Arcade Theatre last night. The story, by Rex Beach, is based on the regeneration idea.

Kirk Anthony (Thomas Melghan) lives up to the title of the production, and his father is thoroughly ashamed of him. One night at a party his friends are feeling gay and they decide it would be a good joke on the unassuming Kirk to ship him to Panama penniless.

So it is that Anthony finds himself far from home and with no means of communication. Then the thrilling moments and with provoking episodes begin. He gets himself into great trouble with the authorities, and more serious still, finds himself desperately in love with a beautiful Spanish girl, played by Ida Lee. How he becomes a real man and wins a charming woman for his wife makes up an interesting story. The cast is made up of highly capable players, including Gertrude Astor, John Miller, Gus Winberg, Jules Cowles, Lawrence Wheat and George Orison.

"The Neer-Do-Well" will be the attraction at the Arcade Theatre until Saturday night.

SHERRYS—LAST DAY

Barry Forgets Speech to President Harding. Prepared Speech Fails Him on Meeting Chief Executive.

"What'll I say to President Harding?" Wesley Barry, the juvenile featured player of "Hard to Handle," the Harry Rapf production sponsored by Warner Brothers, was sorely puzzled on this subject.

Wes had received a reply from President Harding, stating he would be delighted to grant the freckled idol of serendipity an interview when he toured through Washington. The lad felt he ought to do justice to such an occasion. He asked his friends what he should do, but having no precedent, they could not enlighten him. Finally, he decided to prepare a speech and for weeks was busily engaged in rehearsing many florid phrases.

He was ushered into the sanctum of the chief executive, dropped his eye to the floor, and began with "Mr. President, this is indeed one of the proudest moments of my life."
