Fathers' Day—June 17—

The guy that thought of Mothers' Day had the right idea, but that left Dad out in the cold. Now some bozo has arranged and set aside a day for Dad. He's the guy that had the worn-out pockets from digging down in his daily dozen to shelling out enough to keep our waist-line from expanding. He's the guy that did the dirty work of punishing us for our sins. He was Dad—and some Dad at that! He deserves a day and we're here to pay due homage to that day. He deserves it.

Trade Wants Stability. ATLANTA, Ga., June 15.—Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover, in a letter read to the National Credit Men's convention Wednesday declared what American business earnestly wants is stability. "Instability is not only due to economic causes," he said, "but it is also to a considerable degree purely psychological. An understanding of the forces which comprise the ebb and flow in our industry by so great an association as yours and the constant participation of these ideas out into the business community through your members is to me one of the most promising association efforts in American history."
