CAN TERMINATE LABOR TROUBLES

So Believes Sherman Rogers of New York, Who Advances His Ideal of Cure.

ST. LOUIS, June 20.—If employers would spend half as much time cultivating the friendship, respect and good will of labor as they do fighting labor organizations there would not be a labor problem, Sherman Rogers, of New York, today told the delegates to the fourteenth annual convention of Rotary International here.

"We waste too much time talking about the labor agitator," the speaker said. "He can only be recognized as the logical friend of the worker whose management has refused to extend its friendship."
 "I was in the Seattle shipyards working as a helper in 1917 when Charles M. Schwab made his tour of the American shipbuilding institutions. We'd heard he was a labor hater."

"The first instant the great steel man looked us over it was apparent to every man in the bunch that Mr. Schwab really liked him. He stepped on that platform Charles M. Schwab, autocrat, millionaire magnate. He stepped off that platform, 30 minutes later friend Charles. In that short 30 minutes he had destroyed the hatred that agitators had been building for 15 years."

"The world is built on ideals. Labor wants to be square. If labor follows the wrong leader it is not because they want to misunderstand but because the right leader has been asleep at the switch and hasn't given the men a chance to understand him."

"There are three sides to every question—your side, the other fellow's and the right side. I don't believe there was ever a question in either modern or ancient history where either side to the dispute was 100 per cent right."
 "Ninety-five per cent of men, whether they wear broadcloth or overalls, want to play the game square. Lack of contact means lack of understanding."

"The employer has spent a lot of time selling his honesty, his fairness and personality to the banker, the wholesaler, the retailer and the public. How much has he spent trying to sell that same personality, honesty and fairness to his workmen? Solving a labor trouble is not a mysterious affair. It is simply a proposition of using common horse sense."

London Military Expert Bares Russian Army Data

(By Associated Press)
 LONDON, June 20.—Much of the mystery and speculation which have existed concerning the strength of the Soviet Red army is said here to have been cleared up by a military correspondent of the London Daily Mail who has just returned from Moscow. He says that at the beginning of 1922 the strength of the army had fallen from 350,000 to 300,000. At the present time there are 280,000 men in the infantry, 60,000 in the cavalry, 70,000 in the technical units, and 80,000 in the navy. The Cheka's frontier units contain 50,000 men, and its internal units 60,000. The army has 2,000,000 rifles, 14,500 machine guns, 5,700 light machine guns, 3,000 cannons, more than 3,000,000 shells, and 1,000,000,000 munitions. The war establishment of a division consists of 15,000 men and 6,000 horses, comprising three infantry regiments, three squadrons of cavalry, three batteries of field artillery, three howitzer batteries, and the usual contingents of sappers, engineers, munitions, columns, etc.

There are 22 airplane factories, but only five are now working. The aviation department, which is in the hands of a committee of three with Trotsky at the head, expects to have 10,000 airplanes in 1924, with corresponding personnel.

The correspondent adds that the Bolsheviks also have received many shipments of airplanes from Italy, England and Germany. Realizing the necessity of producing officers from the working class, the Bolsheviks have established many military schools. They are more numerous and better equipped, the Daily Mail expert says, than similar schools in the United States and England. The schools embrace special classes in general staff work, engineering, infantry, cavalry and signals.

A LOWER DEATH RATE EXPECTED

Questionnaire Discovers Shortage of Dressmakers

(By Associated Press)
 SANTA BARBARA, Calif., June 20.—The decline in the tuberculosis death rate of the last two decades from over 200 per 100,000 population to less than 100 in the registration area of the United States, is in large measure to be credited to the organized campaign against tuberculosis which has been carried on by the official and non-official agencies during this period," said Dr. Francis J. Dublin of New York before the National Tuberculosis Association here at today's meeting. Dr. Dublin is statistician of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company.

A careful study of the statistics gathered from all over the world by Dr. Dublin gave a direct answer to those who from time to time have questioned the value of the anti-tuberculosis campaign, and have looked upon the working of natural selection and other influences, not under human control, as probably the most significant factors in the fall of the death rate. Dr. Dublin maintained that the larger part of the decline of the tuberculosis death rate was due directly to factors under man's control, and that with the development of these factors through the anti-tuberculosis and other social agencies, the amount of control over tuberculosis will be greatly increased and the death rate will be subsequently very much lower.

"Not all, but a large part, of the credit for the declining tuberculosis death rate can be assigned to the anti-tuberculosis movement," said Dr. Dublin. "No one knows all the facts in the matter of the lowered prevalence of the disease. It would be unreasonable to deny that there are persons so constituted that even under favorable living and hygienic conditions they may become seriously sick with tuberculosis, and would respond to any treatment known to the medical profession, but such a group comprises probably a very small part of the whole population. What the anti-tuberculosis movement is attempting to do is to modify the living and work habits of the great mass of persons of average endowment by inheritance; persons who unknowingly or otherwise misuse their bodily economy, and thus needlessly terminate their life-span."

"With the continued rise in the level of general intelligence and economic well being, the amount of control over tuberculosis will be increased. What may happen in the future is indicated by the phenomenal drop in the tuberculosis death rate during very recent years, when the standard of living among wage earners rose sharply. Better homes, higher real wages, more time for rest and recreation, and intelligence to utilize to the full these helps to better health, have reduced the tuberculosis death rate of the wage-working population after the war. The anti-tuberculosis campaign itself is an index of the higher intelligence and the social conscience which characterizes an advanced civilization."

German Capital Seeking Investment in Far East

(By Associated Press)
 LONDON, June 20.—German trade magnates are seeking control of the coal, iron and oil of China, according to information supplied to the British Board of Trade from trustworthy sources.

The Stinnes interests have $2,000,000 already invested in coal concessions in Ho-nan, Hu-nan, and near Pukow. This group has found oil in Che-kaing, and is interested also in coal near Hang-Chow. The big Siemens corporation of Germany has $4,000,000 invested in coal interests in Shantung, Ho-nan, Hu-nan and near Hang-Chow. In Szechuan this company has something like $1,000,000 invested in coal and iron concessions. Thirty-eight German engineers are now waiting in Shanghai for instructions to proceed to various centers.

The pressure of the new economic conditions imposed upon Germany by the results of the great war and the difficulties arising out of the payment of reparations, has prompted German capitalists to seek a profitable outlet for their capital in the east. In pre-war days the main interests of Germany lay in the west. Many of the western markets are now more or less closed to her, and reports are accumulating of schemes for the extension of the commercial interests of Germany in Russia, China and other eastern markets.

Questionnaire Discovers Shortage of Dressmakers

SCRANTON, Pa., June 20.—In the opinion of the country's chief department store expert, American women are suffering from a shortage of dressmakers. This fact was revealed a few days ago by a questionnaire sent out by the Woman's Institute of Domestic Arts and Sciences, Scranton.

Executives of the largest department stores in the country's principal cities were asked whether there was a shortage of professional dressmakers in their community. One hundred and thirty-three replies were in the affirmative. The existence of a shortage was denied by 58 executives, located principally in New England cities.

The shortage of dressmakers was found to be general from coast to coast, with the exception of four New England states. It was declared to be particularly acute in Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, and Michigan.

SHIPBUILDING INCREASES

(By Associated Press)
 LONDON, June 20.—The shipbuilding industry of Great Britain is showing a marked contrast to the dullness prevailing a year ago.

The British India Company has let contracts for 18 oil-burning vessels, aggregating approximately 162,000 gross tons, including two steamers of 21,000 tons each. The entire fleet will be used for the Indian mail and freight service.

RECALL OF GOV. PIERCE TALKED

 place be given to Dr. McClure, also of Portland.

The Western American, in its issue of June 7, carried a double column editorial under the caption "Fair Warning to Office Holders," in which notice was served on the governor and his official family that "the power that moves them can break them" and that "there is an honest majority of 50,000 voters in this state who will vote according to conscience and regardless of party."

Apparently the final decision as to whether the recall movement will be generally and actively launched rests with Gifford, following his investigation and conference with the governor.

King Aids Homeless Ones
 ROME, June 20.—King Victor Emmanuel has arrived at Catania to assist in relieving the distress of thousands made homeless by Etna's eruption. Palomba and Santa Spirito are reported destroyed.

Reaches Outskirts
 SATANIA, Italy, June 20.—The great lava torrent from Mount Etna, bearing in its flow great masses of earth and volcanic stone, has already reached the houses on the outskirts of the town of Linguaglossa. Green fields, orange groves and vineyards have been swallowed up, and for miles around the atmosphere is suffocating with volcanic smoke and a rain of black smoke and ashes which is covering the countryside like a pall.

Several of the small houses in Linguaglossa have been shaken down by the frequent earth shocks, and the town is directly in the line of lava, and is doubtless doomed to destruction.

Linguaglossa Doomed
 The molten stream is traveling about 40 yards an hour, and unless some miracle happens, Linguaglossa will go under during the night. Confronting it is a lava bed 800 yards wide and nearly 30 feet deep.

Jason Lee preached the first sermon west of the Rocky mountains at old Fort Hall near what is now Pocatello, Idaho in July 1824. The university officials, headed by Rev.

Didn't Need an Alarm Clock

The foggy morning of Springfield, Mass., awoke the other morning long before the alarm went off. The bright sun shined from the yard and took a little boy into which ended as usual by a sled. Mother and six others, dropped to the cellar when the house was wrecked, escaped serious injury.
