SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT IS REACHED

Turks Agree on Settlement With Powers on All Points Discussed.

PEACE EXPECTED IN SHORT TIME

Both Sides Forced to Give Way Before End of Three Months' Conference at Lausanne.

LAUSANNE, July 9.—Ismet Pasha proved himself a great diplomat, for by the Near Eastern peace arranged in principle between Allied and Turkish representatives early today, he achieved signal victories for Turkey. Turkey and Greece agreed to lay down arms at last and European troops will evacuate from Turkish soil. Turkey obtained abolition of capitulations, and comes back into Europe through the recently into Thrace.

(By the Associated Press.) LAUSANNE, July 9.—Ismet Pasha, leaving the Near East conference about midnight, informed the correspondents that an agreement had been reached on all points.

Peace Within a Week. LAUSANNE, July 9.—An accord has been reached between the Turks and the allies and peace probably will be signed within a week.

Thus the Near East conference, which has been in continuous session for more than three months, has had a successful outcome, or a considerable period of the settlement hung in the balance on the question of the Ottoman debt, concessions and the evacuation of Constantinople by the foreign troops. Both sides were forced to give way in a measure at the end, and it was apparent at the first session Sunday that a termination of the discussion was close at hand.

Long Discussion. It was after several hours' discussion Sunday night that the allies and Turks reached their accord on all outstanding problems, which have long been threatening to wreck the conference, and having unexpected difficulties over minor points, peace should be signed at Lausanne almost immediately.

The allied plenipotentiaries informed the Associated Press correspondent that the draft of the proposed conference, and having unexpected difficulties over minor points, peace should be signed at Lausanne almost immediately.

The United States objected to the confirmation in the treaty contracts entered into before the war, which had not received all necessary formalities. It was argued that these were too general, and too vague, and the plenipotentiaries were liable to be applied to all sorts of unknown contracts.

Agree to Clause. The allies and Turks agreed on an amended clause specifying the concessions they wished to refer, including the Vickers-Armstrong and Turkish Petroleum company concessions.

CHERRY HARVEST ON NEXT WEEK

While there will be some growers start picking cherries this week the big doings will not open up in dead earnest until about a week from today, according to Gayhart Stockland, one of the Cove growers who is over today.

Cherry harvest is one of the gala occasions of the Cove country for it is then that camps are pitched in the orchards and society forms temporarily for the harvest giving, all who engage in the work of picking cherries a chance to revel in pleasure as well as earn a very fine remuneration for the work done.

That the crop this year is par excellence is admitted by all the growers and Cove will send to the markets of the world the best cherries grown for years in that region as well as marketing a very heavy crop.

It must be understood that while Cove is the great cherry center Union is now producing a lot of cherries each year. Harvest time will be on in Union about the same time as with Cove.

Board Facing $7,000 Deficit

A deficit of over $7,000 is faced by the Old Oregon Trust association, according to statements today by officials of the organization following a meeting of the executive committee held here yesterday. The deficit may prove to be larger but the above mentioned sum is positive.

A great portion of the amount short is, however, covered by guarantees from the various towns in Eastern Oregon.

The losses yesterday were determined as far as they could be by some outstanding bills which not yet been entered and it was decided not to pay any accounts until they are all in, which will be in a few days. When the auditor determines the exact deficit the accounts will be settled, probably about the first of next week.

The entire executive committee was present.

WILLIAM R. DAY CALLED BEYOND

Former Associate Justice of the U. S. Supreme Court is Dead at Mackinac Island.

MACKINAC ISLAND, Mich., July 9.—William R. Day, former U. S. Supreme Court justice, died at his cottage here today. The name of William R. Day is indelibly linked with that of McKinley. When the latter was elected President, Justice Day was little more than a child, but he was born in 1847. He had graduated from the University of Michigan, studied law in a law office, taken a few law lectures, and began the practice of his profession. He had been elected judge of the common pleas court in the balance of the Ohio, where he was in 1889. President Harrison had offered him the position of judge of the district court for the northern district of Ohio, but ill-health forbade his accepting.

Shortly after the election in 1897, President McKinley let it be known that he would make John Sherman, then old and near the end of his career his secretary of state and that he would name his fellow-townsmen, William R. Day, as assistant secretary of state.

It is doubtful if the new assistant secretary of state had ever met a foreign ambassador until he came to Washington in 1897. Sherman could not carry many of the burdens of his office. The untrained diplomat in the second position in the department had to shoulder the responsibility of the department in such a tactful way as not to offend his superior. How well he filled the office, and a year later the office that Sherman had occupied as Secretary of State was expressed later by McKinley when he said: Day absolutely never made a mistake.

It fell to Secretary of State Day to attempt to avoid the crash with Spain over Cuba. The shrewd moves to avert war were his. To him, later, came the work of restoring peace. President McKinley selected him as chairman of the commission of the United States to meet the commissioners of Spain in drafting a treaty to end the war. The treaty of Paris is a monument to him.

With this duty over, President McKinley made him a circuit judge of the United States for the Sixth Circuit. Here he served, until President Roosevelt appointed him to the bench of the Supreme Court of the United States in 1902.

A man of slight build with a thin face, Justice Day never enjoyed robust health.

Colorado's Oldest Resident Missing; Probably on Peak

COLORADO SPRINGS, July 9.—Pat Murphy, 102-year-old pioneer—the oldest man in Colorado and the oldest Knight of Columbus in the world—is missing, whether on the rugged slopes of Pike's Peak, which he planned to climb in realization of a life-long ambition, or elsewhere, is not yet known.

Pat came to Colorado Springs from his ranch near Monument on the divide several days ago to celebrate the Fourth of July. Early Friday he slipped away, presumably to climb peak and up to a late hour Sunday night had not returned.

Blood hounds will be put on his trail Monday unless daybreak brings developments.

ANNIVERSARY OF WEDDING CELEBRATED

President and Mrs. Harding Observe Their 32nd Wedding Anniversary at Ketchikan, Alaska.

KETCHIKAN, Alaska, July 9.—President and Mrs. Harding celebrated Sunday, one of the most memorable of their 32 wedding anniversaries by arriving in Alaska, the first chief executive and first lady of the land ever to visit the great northern territory.

Landing at Metlakahla, site of the historic missionary effort of Father Duncanson, known as the "apostle of Alaska," the presidential party spent three hours, twice as long as had been intended. The president here heard of the natives' struggle for food against the increasing inroads of the salmon industry. Members of the presidential party visited the church erected as the result of Duncanson's efforts, and talked with the Indians.

Ketchikan accorded the president and his party a noisy welcome, fishing boats, tug, motor boats and other craft meeting the Henderson at the entrance to the harbor and escorting the transport to the dock. Every boat was black with people.

The town which has a population of 4,000, was decorated with flags and flowers in honor of the most distinguished visitors in its long history. The weather was perfect, clear and pleasantly cool.

The Henderson steamed into the bay at Metlakahla at 6 o'clock and President and Mrs. Harding stepped on Alaskan soil for the first time at 7:15 o'clock. The Henderson anchored off the lower end of Annette island most of the night so as not to arrive before daylight.

The presidential party came ashore here at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon. The dock was crowded with people. The Henderson and Ketchikan bands playing patriotic airs. A long cheer which echoed and re-echoed from the hills and mountains behind the city, went up when the president stepped down the gangplank.

The presidential party was taken in automobiles to a speakers' stand in the heart of the city, where two or three thousand people were gathered. Governor Scott C. Bone, who, with Dan Rutherford, delegate to congress from Alaska, joined the presidential party at Metlakahla introduced President Harding. Governor Bone declared the president's coming meant the dawn of a brighter day for Alaska.

Flying Boat Search Fails

PORT STANLEY, Ont., July 9.—The body of Lieutenant L. J. Roth, the pilot of the ill-fated United States navy balloon A-6698, was found in a basket of an airship fourteen miles south-west of here today.

WASHINGTON, July 9.—Navy officers doubted whether the body found off Point Pele, Ont., was that of Lieutenant Nulls, as the body had a blue serge suit while Null wore a forest green uniform.

WINDSOR, Ont., July 9.—A body, believed that of Lieutenant T. B. Null, the second missing American balloonist of the ill-fated balloon A-6698, was found today in Lake Erie, off Point Pele.

CLEVELAND, July 9.—The flying boat Nina of the Aero-Marine Airways company, inc., returned here late Sunday after a six-hour search of the Canadian and American shores of Lake Erie in a fruitless effort to find some trace of Lieut. L. J. Roth and T. B. Null, lost when the naval balloon A-6698 fell into Lake Erie Friday night after leaving Indianapolis Wednesday in the national eliminations air race. No trace of the basket of the balloon was found.

Gas Bag Found. The gas bag of the balloon was found 25 miles off Port Stanley, Ont., Saturday morning by the steamer Colonial and taken to Port Stanley on a tug Saturday night. Uniforms of the two lieutenants were found in the meshes of the bag.

ACTIVITY RATE OF INDUSTRIES AT HIGH POINT

Iron, Steel and Railroads Serve as Barometer of Financial Aspect of Conditions.

NEW YORK, July 9.—Reports from industrial districts showed a maintenance of a high rate of activity. Pig iron production in June, while slightly smaller than the record-breaking May performance, exceeded that in any other month. The small falling off being accounted for by such factors as weather conditions. One more blast furnace was active on July 1 than at the start of the previous month and early shutdowns were limited for the most part to July 4.

Steel products were stated to be passing into consumption readily consumers showing a disposition to hold deliveries. Prices remain firm and the trade looks for a continuance of the present scale of operations.

Railroad carloadings again added their testimony to the maintenance of industrial momentum. The rate now has exceeded one million cars a week for five consecutive weeks thus equaling the record made in the fall of 1922.

With regard to the resumption of buying for forward delivery which is the question which has been occupying the attention of the markets for some time, nothing new developed. It is still considered early, however, to forecast the trend of fall trade.

Discount Rate Advance. The advance in the Bank of England's discount rate from 3 to 4 per cent was not considered inimicable to the domestic situation.

Usual events such as the turn of the half year, the early July holidays and an advance in the Bank of England's discount rate were dominating influences in the financial markets of the past week.

Passage of July 1 settlements resulted, as had been anticipated, in a distinct easing in the money market, call money on the New York stock exchange lending as low as 4 per cent. Meanwhile the weekly federal reserve statement showed that member banks had borrowed heavily from the reserve system, partly to secure currency to meet the July 4 market demands and partly to provide credit called for by the mid-year dividend disbursement and the like.

Accompanying these changes came a marked easing in the pressure of liquidation which had been apparent in the chief speculative markets. A certain amount of selling, both by tired longs and traders on the short side, was apparent in the stock market.

LA GRANDE PIONEER PASSED ON TODAY

J. C. Holmes, a pioneer resident of La Grande, died this morning at two o'clock at the termination of an extended illness. Despite the long standing illness, his demise came as an unexpected shock to his large circle of friends and to his relatives.

The remains are at the Behnenkamp chapel pending funeral arrangements.

Guy Fallow Still Lives

The condition of Guy Fallow who attempted suicide Friday at noon by shooting himself in the head with a .32 automatic revolver is reported this afternoon by hospital authorities to be practically unchanged. His pulse shows very little difference and he is still unconscious.

Many of the medical authorities consider it miraculous that he remains alive as the bullet, pierced his brain. Whether the chances for recovery are heightened today or not could not be ascertained as physicians refuse to give any positive statement as to his chances for life.

Flowers, in large quantities, have been sent to the hospital by many friends of Mr. Fallow, and every attention is being given him by those in charge.

11-INNING GAME WON BY PIRATES

Baker Outthits La Grande But Gets Short End of 3 to 2 Score; Game a Thriller.

P W L Pct.
Baker 9 7 2 .778
La Grande 11 8 3 .722

The Colts, mighty ballplayers though they be, met their David yesterday—and got clouted in the forehead with a slingshot. La Grande tackled the Goliaths and emerged bearing the honors of victory—even though it took them eleven innings to conquer the Queen City diamonds.

By winning yesterday La Grande advanced one step up the ladder. All they have to do now is beat Cove twice and let Cove beat Baker. Then a free-for-all would result because that would tie Baker, Cove and La Grande for leadership and the old season would have to endure a few more games. It's a big job but after watching the Bakerites on the visit yesterday, the Pirates feel as if they are equal to the task.

How It Happened. When the curtains descended on the ninth inning the score stood, two all after both teams had attempted to bring in a runner in a last rally. The tenth inning went by like lightning; only three men facing either pitcher and when the eleventh was half over, with Baker subdued one, two, three, Jimmy Rosenbaum came up to bat with the crowd wildly cheering for a run. Postbury apparently didn't like that noise or something went wrong because he passed Jimmy to first. Tex Knight seized a bat and smashed a grounder out for a fielder's choice. Jimmy getting caught on second. Then Tex did his stunt by swiping second and trotted into third on a passed ball.

Gunner Peterson, at bat, went gunning and scored a bullseye—and the game was over.

SMUGGLE CHINESE AND OPIUM

MANILA, June 3.—Smuggling of Chinese and opium into the Philippine Islands from ports in British North Borneo continues on an extensive scale, according to Vicente Alderson, insular collector of customs, who has just returned from a visit to half a dozen ports in the southern part of the Philippine archipelago.

Collector Alderson declared that the immigration laws of the Philippines need to be changed to provide a penalty for those who are found to have entered the islands through illicit means. He says lack of this kind of a provision in the present law is being taken advantage of by the Chinese immigrants.

Mohn, the plaintiff's husband.

He had been married for fifty years and was the father of fifteen children, fourteen of whom are living. In 1915 his wife passed on, since which time the deceased has lived with some of his children.

Among those attending the funeral services today are Mrs. F. Keown, Mrs. S. B. Wilson, Roland Hopper and wife, Phil Hawley and wife, Philip Smith and wife, Wesley Andrews and wife, of Baker, Charles D. Asks Co-Operation To Halt Spread of Alfalfa Weevil

"Farmers all over the country should cause a close examination of all bedding and clothing of men they are hiring, especially those who hail from the harvest fields of Malheur county and from South Idaho," stated H. H. Weatherspoon, district horticulturist, in a communication to the Evening Observer today. Approximately five per cent of all persons carrying camping equipment have weevil worms in their bedding. It seems only a question of time until they will get by us and a general distribution will follow all over the north west.

"At our inspection station at Baker last week," Mr. Weatherspoon continued, "four men found eight weevil worms in the bottom turn-up of a man's trouser leg."

This is a vital period relating to the spread of the alfalfa weevil and W. J. Dreck, in charge of the Baker

15-YEAR OLD GIRL KILLED IN SMASHUP

Miss Marie Shaw Fatally Injured in Auto Wreck Sunday Morning.

DRIVER IS HELD FOR MANSLAUGHTER

Injured Girl Passed on at Hot Lake About an Hour After Accident Occurred.

Miss Marie Shaw, 15, of Union, was fatally injured when an auto in which she was riding, crashed into a stone fence near S. E. Miller's residence in North Union, throwing her into the fence and crushing her head, chest and otherwise injuring her. She was rushed to medical aid but died about an hour later at Hot Lake, her injuries proving too serious for human aid to be of any avail.

Three other occupants of the car escaped with minor injuries. The accident occurred about one o'clock Sunday morning, the party being on their way to Hot Lake, where Miss Shaw was employed, after attending a dance at Union.

Sidney Turner, about 21, of Union, the driver of the car, was placed under arrest Sunday afternoon on the charge of manslaughter and was arraigned this morning. He was placed under bonds of $2500 to await the action of the grand jury.

This afternoon the bonds had not been raised. Authorities claim that Turner was under the influence of intoxicating liquor at the time and that he was placed in the car at approximately 50 miles per hour. The car was a Dodge roadster.

District Attorney Ed Wright and County Coroner Hal Bohnenkamp conducted an investigation at Union yesterday morning after which the warrant for Turner's arrest was sworn out. An inquest will be held tomorrow morning at Union.

Miss Shaw leaves her mother, Mrs. E. H. Shaw, of Union, and a sister, Vera Shaw, also of Union.

THE ROAD TO ALASKA IS PAVED WITH GOOD INTENTIONS
