

REASONS WHY YOU'LL WANT TO WEAR P.N. PRACTICAL FRONT CORSETS

P.N. PRACTICAL FRONT CORSET

TO SEE IT, IS TO TRY IT, TO TRY IT IS TO WEAR IT.

Are you like the woman who knew that she wouldn't going to enjoy a certain show, even before she went, because it wasn't like Grand Opera, or do you see first and comment afterwards?

P. N. Practical Front Corsets

are different. They are not like the ones you see in the window. We know if you see them you'll want to be convinced that you'll wear them. A combination of both a lace and front lace corset, they have kept their good points and eliminated their faults.

give a social tomorrow evening in the Lane Chapel on First and Cross streets. A short program will be given and the evening will be spent in a general good time and in playing games.

The Loyal Sisters of the Christian Church entertained with an ice cream social last evening at the home of Mrs. Gutzberg on Cove Avenue. A good attendance was present, and with the weather fair, the evening was enjoyed by all who attended.

Fashion Notes

New Veil Mode. Paris.—The most remarkable twist which the veil mode has taken so far this season is that which hangs a bit of embroidered nothing on the extreme edge of the hat, later in front and allows the veil to extend only from ear to ear.

Eyelet Embroidery Use. Paris.—Eyelet embroidery, so timely smart always in its effect, is used lavishly today on linen frocks. Sometimes eyelet depends for its effect on being worked in a contrasting color. This year, however, the eyelet is the same shade as the usually brilliant frock.

Voile, Gray and Green. London.—Voile with a rather dark background of gray, a shade of gray tinged with green, is popular at present. It is flowered and the trimming sometimes consists of hand-made taffeta leaves arranged about the waist and neck of the gown.

Brilliant Buttons on Coats. New York.—A clever thought, and one as yet not too overworked, is that of trimming a summer coat with brilliant buttons of enamel or of painted wood. And then getting earrings to match.

Shoes Not So Bright. New York.—Fashionable shoes appear today to be departing from the brighter colors. The smart shades just now are champagne and all the grays. Kill, which is soft and cool, has come distinctly into vogue.

Two-Tone Georgette Crepe. New York.—Two-tone georgette crepe makes some of the new lingerie being worn today, which is both light of weight and beautiful. Frills and inset panels of self-material add a delightful touch.

High Waistline Struggle. New York.—The high waistline is having rather a struggle to return. It is not met with so frequently this season as was predicted. But it is seen on a goodly number of the evening wraps worn by young girls.

Fur on Sunshades. Paris.—Fur has become such a popular summer trimming that now it adorns the most sumnerlike of accessories. Some of the new parasols have tufts of fur on the sunshade and on the handle.

Lamp Shade Hat. London.—There is a type of hat being worn here today and which is becoming more and more popular as the season advances, that bears a startling resemblance to a large lamp shade.

Eye Flounce, Latest. Paris.—The eye flounce is the very latest idea today in veils. It is a whip of veil hanging only so far as to shield the eyes.

Intriguing Combination. London.—The combination of organdy with crepe de chine is an intriguing one. Very fine organdy in dawn pink, for example, is draped over crepe de chine in a watermelon tint; or pale green organdy is draped over lavender.

Beach Umbrella Vivid. New York.—The beach umbrella designed to go with the swimming costume is a thing of amazing color and design. It is smart today to have bathing cap, sash, shoes, cap and umbrella in the same or harmonizing shades of some brilliant hue.

Carbuncles. New York.—The doctor, not the doctor, fixes up the kind of carbuncles the deep red sort, that are in favor once more. Earrings like heavy golden shields, two inches or more in length, have a huge glowing carbuncle set in the center.

COULDN'T SWIPE SAFE. COEUR D'ALENE, Idaho, July 15.—After working hard to remove a two-pound safe from the second floor of the Liberty theatre here recently, and after stealing a light car from a private garage in order to carry the safe away, a pair of burglars abandoned the safe a block from the theatre, returned the car to its garage, and left with nothing at all for their pains.

The heavy safe had been moved down a winding stairway, through the theatre, up over the stage to the alley, and then to the running board of the car, upon which it was lashed and carried for a block. Contents of the safe, valued at about $100, were untouched.

Like Looking at the Sun. If you were to look into one of the great rotary kilns in a cement mill, you would see only a glare of light so intense that it would be like looking at the noon-day sun. For a few moments after, you would be unable to see anything.

But borrow the workman's colored goggles to protect your eyes, and peer through the peep-hole again. Then you will see a tornado of powdered coal—or gas or spraying oil—bursting into a sheet of sun-white flame. Into the other end of the kiln flow the finely ground limestone and clay—the materials for cement.

In their three-hour journey through this inferno, the materials undergo many changes. Moisture and gases are driven off as the rotation of the kiln tumbles materials about, subjecting them to gradually increasing heat until the sun-white flame half melts to glass-hard clinker. This clinker, an entirely new chemical compound, when pulverized becomes portland cement.

Scientific control marks every stage of the burning process. Producing the required 2,500 to 3,000 degrees Fahrenheit of heat consumes great quantities of fuel—30 pounds of coal, or its equivalent, for each 94-pound sack of cement.

For the whole cement-making process, the consumption of coal is approximately 50 pounds a sack—more than half a ton of coal to a ton of cement.
