Filipino Sprinter, Once Humiliated, Is Now Hero

MANILA, July 24. (AP)—By winning the 100 and 220-yard runs at the recent Far Eastern Olympiad at Osaka, Japan, Fortunato Catalan, Filipino sprinter, won the honor of representing the Philippines at the Olympic games to be held in Paris in 1924. Catalan has covered the century in 24.5 seconds, within one-fifth of a second of the world's record held by Carlo W. Paddock, H. T. Drew, and H. J. Eddy. Catalan, who is a farmer boy from the interior of the island of Leyte in the Philippine archipelago, failed in his first attempt to make a school track team, and was relegated to the kitchen as a cook's helper in order to defray his expenses. His failure was in 1915 during the East Visayan athletic meet held in the province of Cebu. The little Filipino continued his training and next year made the district team in the inter-district meet. His showing was good and he was given his second chance for the provincial track and field team. This time he did not disappoint his coach. He won the 100 and 220 events. It was not until 1917, however, that the Leyte boy won permanent recognition as a sprinter. In 1919, during the Far Eastern games in Manila, Catalan defeated Madono, the crack Japanese sprinter, and in the Far Eastern meet in 1921 in Shanghai, he won every event in which he started, earning the reputation of being the meet's greatest individual star. This year, while he won both his events, the time was poor, due to a heavy, muggy track. Catalan's time for the 100 was 19.25 seconds, and his time for the 220 was 22.15 seconds, which lowered the former Far Eastern record of 22.45 seconds, despite the condition of the track. In both events, the Filipino defeated Takagi and Omura, crack Japanese sprinters, who took second and third, respectively, in each event. A reformer is one who thinks women should eschew colored shoes and use the natural black leather as God made it.

SUNDAY SERMON INTERESTING

In his introductory sermon on last Sunday Morning, Dr. Timmer Grant Keith of the First Methodist Episcopal church chose for his text words in Exodus, "Go Forward." He said in part: From the beginning Christianity has been a Movement. This element has differentiated the Christian religion from the great ethnic religions. It does "go" Christ said to his disciples "Go ye into all the world." And this unique man who from his birth carried the sinlessness of his innocent youth through an active career, declared that His disciples should carry His Gospel to the end of the earth. The preacher said: "The field of action therefore for the gospel which is to 'Go forward' is nothing less in its extent than the world. Jesus said 'The field is the world.' John Wesley said: 'The world is my parish.' We are world citizens today, living in La Grande yet we belong to the world. We are interested in the ongoing of the world. That which has to do with commerce in foreign countries so interested in America that every man engaged in commerce reads what is of interest in the commercial world, the world over. The same is true in every department of our lives. In the matter of the Kingdom of God we who are particularly interested in matters pertaining to this Kingdom want to know how fares the Christ business around the world. We want to know how the church and the children of God is pathing its way in its scope than the entire world. When Moses said to the children of Israel 'Go forward' and Jesus said to his disciples 'Go Ye' he set for them a gigantic task. The old ethic of christianity was that of merely saving the soul of the individual, but the new practice must be the saving of the life of the individual and the saving of the entire organization of society. The Christ spirit must dominate in the lives of men as through men to heaven and save society. The words may fairly suggest in a general way the task of the church. First the church is set for the correction of the lives of individuals and through individuals society. And second, the church must direct the lives of men as especially of children, so that their every energy will make a valuable contribution to the best interests of humanity. To enter its field and perform its task the church must have a well organized program for service. The world in all its movements so far as nature and God has to do is well organized. The business of today is organized and every successful man or company has his affairs organized.

SILVER FOX GETS MEDICAL ATTENTION

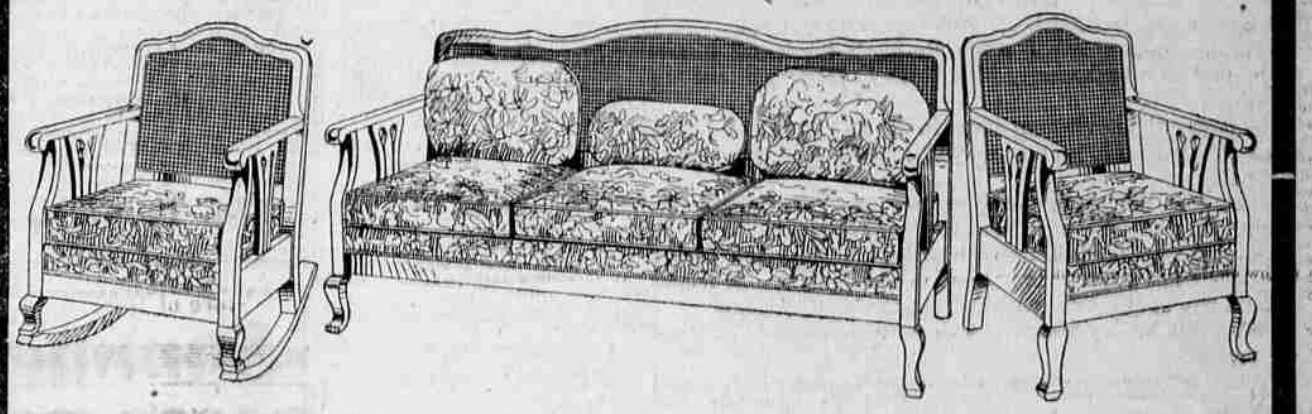

(By the Associated Press) SPOKANE, Wash., July 24.—Surgical and medical care for foxes that rivals the care given human beings in the modern hospitals is reported by R. M. Robinson, president of a silver fox farm near here. The animals are raised for their pelts, which often brings thousands of dollars each. One of the most interesting cases of fox surgery here followed the discovery of four small round stones in the small intestine of a fox whose respiration and pulse was fast and whose temperature was 106 Fahrenheit before the operation, according to Dr. H. M. Beckman who performed the operation. An anesthetic treatment was given and the stones successfully removed with the knife, the same cure and sanitation being observed as in the case of humans.
