Farewell Party Given Mr. Traynor

Monday night the Stake officers of the L. D. S. church gave a combined farewell party for Jacob H. Traynor, and a welcoming reception for H. M. Larson of Portland, who is taking Mr. Traynor's place both as stake clerk and superintendent of the Grande Ronde hospital.

The affair was held in the L. D. S. Amusement hall, and over one hundred guests were present. All towns in the stake were represented, including Baker, Union, Cove, Imbler and Mount Glenn.

An excellent program was presented, after which the guests were served delicious refreshments.

Mr. Traynor was presented with a beautiful oak rocking chair as a token of appreciation of his untiring service as a member of the stake board. He is to leave soon for Idaho Falls where he will take charge of the L. D. S. hospital, one of the largest institutions of the state.

The modernized acceptance of the Egyptian idea of personal adornment by means of trinkets is seen in the lovely pieces of carved ivory—the quaint and queer motifs and designs often traced in effective coloring and pendants with matching earrings, charms and bracelets which are much in evidence. Romance, adventure, history, ideals and aspirations all have in the past influenced the making and the wearing of beautiful and unique articles of personal adornment. Costume jewelry in its modern aspect is but another expression of human desire for love of beauty and a beauty dignified by value of record, antedating the future of human nature.

Costume jewelry has a definite place in modern dress. It does not in any sense infringe on the territory of real jewelry; it is in a class by itself, and it has a dignified and useful mission—that of increasing our knowledge and acceptance of the fitting in dress and accessories of dress and satisfying our natural longing for individual expression of beauty, by wearing those things that delight and please the human eye, the mind and the heart of all mankind.

The following item was taken from a Portland paper, and will be of interest to La Grande people who are acquainted with the bride.

Of interest to their many friends in Portland is the announcement of the marriage August 1 of Mr. Claud H. Stensloff of Salem and Miss Roma Jacobson of La Grande. The wedding took place in Corvallis with the Rev. J. R. N. Bell officiating. Miss Edith Balliff and Mrs. Franklin Miller of Portland were the only attendants. Mrs. Stensloff is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. Jacobson and is a graduate of Oregon Agricultural college, where she was a member of Alpha Chi Omega sorority. Mr. Stensloff's home is in Salem and he is also a graduate of Oregon Agricultural college, where he was a member of Kappa Sigma fraternity. The young couple will make their home in Salem.

The Mission Society of the Zion Lutheran Church will meet Thursday at 2 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Fred Matthen, 2710 North Ash. A full attendance is desired.

Mrs. Powers Entertains For Visitors

In honor of Dr. and Mrs. Adam Miller of Brooklyn, New York, who come West to spend their summers, Mrs. Grace Powers of Medical Springs, entertained at a picnic for thirty Sunday, which is an annual event. Different acquaintances which Mr. and Mrs. Miller have met during the summer, and older residents of the country were present. Dr. and Mrs. Miller left Monday for their return trip to New York, going by way of Boise, Salt Lake, and stopping off at principal places such as Denver, Estes Park and Chicago.

Uncle Dunham Wright had arranged a log cabin, and had it all dolled up fine, and took the entire party of picnickers down and told them the history of the cabin, and when he first landed to the present day. After a grand big dinner the picnickers went back to the cabin and he told how he appreciated the trip with President Harding to Meacham. In detail he told the President of the time, he had drifted into the country and elaborated on the man's good quality and eulogized the president and his good wife. He also stated that just 30 days from the time they were with President Harding at Top O'Blue Mountains, he had made the trip to Alaska and then back to California, where he lay a corpse. He also told Mrs. Harding's devotion to her husband, and compared the time of when the president was living to now in her sorrow, which the entire American nation shares with her in her bereavement. Uncle Dunham also showed the party the first plow that he plowed up buffalo heads with when he first came to the country, and the first solum mill which he used after first coming here.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Elliott, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hyde, Mr. and Mrs. Parker, Mr. and Mrs. Christley and W. C. Calder, all of Baker, Mr. and Mrs. Miller of Newidage, and Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Short and C. H. Seranton and family of this city were among those present at the picnic.

Pendleton visitors from La Grande Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Herzinger and daughters, the Misses Florence, Mahel and Ruth. They are former residents of Pendleton and made the trip here by motor. They were accompanied by Miss Florence Forshaw, who has been a guest at the Herzinger home.—Pendleton E. Ore.

A charming little party was given Friday, August 3, at the park in honor of Cedric G. Price, Jr., the occasion being his sixth birthday anniversary.

The afternoon was spent in playing games, after which a dainty four-course luncheon was served.

Those enjoying the day were: Edna May Price, Lidama Hollister, Janet Binger, Ester Eileen Price, Margaret Davy, Lloyd Davy, and Master Price.

Mrs. A. H. Johnson assisted her daughter, Mrs. C. G. Price, of Berkeley, in entertaining the small guests.

Miss Lucille Wolgamood, whose marriage to Cyril Proebstel will take place on Wednesday evening at the Presbyterian church, was honored last evening when Miss Mary Overman and Miss Meda Gillette entertained with a miscellaneous shower at the home of Rev. and Mrs. Franklin G. Haling.

Petunias in shades of pink and lavender were used in decorating. The honoree received many charming gifts. The evening was spent in sewing.

Guests were Miss Wolgamood, her mother, Mrs. P. J. Wolgamood, Miss Ruth Proebstel, Miss Emily Garney, Miss Hazel Bursell, and Mrs. Sylvan Cumard.—Pendleton E. Ore.

The Mission Band of the Presbyterian Church will be entertained by Miss Young and Mrs. G. H. Baker, 906 D. Avenue, on Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. All members are most cordially invited.

Sunday night at the Presbyterian Manse occurred the wedding of Mrs. Alice Beckwith, formerly of West Virginia, to L. L. McKennon of this city. Rev. William Crosby Ross performed the ceremony.

The Missionary Society of the Christian church will meet at the home of Mrs. A. L. Voeltz, in Fruitdale, Thursday afternoon, August 9. Those wishing to attend will meet at the church at 2:00 p. m. and cars will be provided for their conveyance.

The Baptist Ladies Aid, which was to have met with Mrs. Devine Friday afternoon has been postponed.

Mrs. Helene Stearns, one of the good vocalists of Union, will sing the solo at the Baptist church Sunday morning services. "The Silent Voice," is the title of her selection.

Miss Kathleen Campbell, who has a studio in Eastern Oregon Music company's store where she instructs in vocal, was a visitor among the musical people of Walla Walla last week, returning to La Grande Sunday.

The Silhouette for Fall

Is Slim with a Parisian Tendency to Flare

Each day's arrival of new costumes brings a further revelation of the leading style trends for Fall. Slim lines are emphasized, but with a bit of a flare injected somewhere to give a smart accent. In frocks it may be a series of circular tiers, in coats a circular knee flounce or a godet that ripples at one side. Lingerie frills are quite a la mode and many a tissue wrapping is brushed aside to reveal bonny trimmings of Scotch plaid taffeta. There's quite an array with more on the way. Better stop in and look.
