Gasnier Film Rates Public's Loud Praise.

It is evident that Gasnier, who directed "Daughters of the Rich," knows the screen value of a virile and absorbing story. His latest production not only fulfills this story's requirements, but is one of the most lavishly staged ever filmed as an Al Lichtman attraction.

In quality of entertainment, "Daughters of the Rich" even surpasses those two previous Gasnier productions "Rich Men's Wives" and "Poor Men's Wives." The novel by Edgar Saltus, adapted for the screen by Olga Printzlau, is replete with melodramatic action of the higher class. Intriguing characters lead to Russia, France and the Orient, providing scenes of unusual beauty, gorgeous costuming and thrilling action. Not only is the story filled with action but its human appeal offers to all classes of theatre-goers entertainment of a high order.

B. P. Schulberg has chosen an unusually fine cast for "Daughters of the Rich." Gaston Glass, who scored such a personal success in "The Hero" is cast in a still more sympathetic role in this picture. The youthful Glass, since he made his first big success in "Humoresque," has come to the fore rapidly, attracting as many theatre-goers as stars who have had long careers on the screen.

Ethel Shannon, recently signed on a long contract by Schulberg is more than fulfilling the faith placed in her ability. In this, her first large production, she shows remarkable versatility for so young a player, and makes an auspicious beginning of what promises to be a successful career.

Stuart Holmes, the rogue of many silversheet dramas, discards villainy and gives a clear-cut characterization to the role of a Russian noble. Miriam Cooper, a local favorite of long standing, is sweet and appealing in the most sympathetic role of the story. As an American heiress, beatiful Ruth Clifford displays a bewildering wardrobe. Miss Clifford's work, always genuinely sincere, is unusually convincing here. Truly Shattuck, former vaudeville headliner, who has forsaken musical work for the silent drama, will be welcomed among the faces already familiar to us on the screen. Winsome Vola Vale completes the capable cast.

Star Theatre

Real Life Characters in "The Custard Cup"

The author of "The Custard Cup," produced by William Fox, has an accurate and sympathetic understanding of human nature and has filled her story with kindly feeling and the optimism that makes for happiness and contentment. The picture, which will be shown at the Star Theatre Wednesday only, was directed by Herbert Brenon and features Mary Carr. It contains a collection of characters that will readily be recognized as having been taken from life.

Dwellers, for the most part, of a small section of the city, known as "Custard Court," the petty jealousies, kindliness and underlying stratum of crime and dishonesty that is to be found in the world at large are all enacted here with the same intensity, and form a drama that is at once vital, humorous and absorbing.

While much of the action takes place in and around the homes of this small community, there are stirring dramatic scenes in other parts of the city and sensational river episode that is filled with breathless suspense. G. Marion Burton who adapted the story to the screen, and director Brenon have enlarged upon the dramatic incidents of the orginal work and built up a strong climax to the screen drama.

As Mrs. Penfield, the optimistic foster-mother of a family of waifs whose pet name for her is "Penzie", Mrs. Carr brings out the bright and helpful nature of the woman who smiles bravely in the face of poverty and carries happiness and cheer to her friends and neighbors.

The supporting company is a very able one. Among its members are Myrtle Bonillas as Gussie Bosley, Peggy Shaw as Lorene Percy, Leslie Leigh as Mrs. Percy, Frederick Esmelton as Jeremiah Winston and Ben Lyon as Dick Chase. The trio of lovable waifs is played by Miriam Battista, Jerry Devine and Ernest McKay.

The common objection to prize fights appears to be that there is too much prize and not enough fight.

Says Albania Is Quiet.

TIRANA, Albania, July 14. (By Mail)—W. F. Stirling, official adviser to the Albanian government, who has just completed a tour of the whole country, says the reports of insurrection and fighting in Albania are pure inventions, and that the country was never more tranquil.

The state of publice security is remarkably good, Mr. Stirling declares, and no Balkan country was ever more orderly. The Albanians are a keen and interprising people, anxious to develop their country and attract foreign capital to assist them in exploiting its wealth.

Fascisti Number 1,000,000

ROME, July 21. (By Mail)—A recent meeting of the Grand Fascisti council issued a communique stating that the Facist position is regarded with entire satisfaction, and claiming that its adherents now number more than a million.

When a girl says she loves a fellow, it only means that she wants him to help her love herself.

Twisted Cords

Running through the telephone cord are a number of delicate, flexible wires.

"Kinks" are formed when this cord is allowed to become twisted, and some of these wires may be bent or broken.

This means a "noisy" telephone line. You cannot hear or be heard as well. In fact, a twisted cord may cause a complete interruption of your service.

Keeping the telephone cord straight will give you greater satisfaction in the use of your telephone.
