

PARK SOCIAL NEWS BUDGET

The Park August 14—Game Warden J. W. Waldron and two deputies were up on the creek, enforcing the game laws among the many outers who are camped along the banks.

Fire Warden Gay McNair, was up at the Forks, Sunday looking over the camp fires—which are many, these days of recreations.

Oswald Volsinkler, Island City's prominent Bee-man, a champion angler of this creek, is stopping at "The Big Log Cabin" during his twenty-sixth annual vacation—which will be about two weeks this year. He reports a favorable season for his honey bees who are continuously and faithfully working for him. He brought along a good supply of honey, which is certainly a treat for the folks at the Forks.

Clarence Edwards, ranger for the Baker Cattle Association, accompanied with his wife, Deliah, were angling visitors at the Cabin. They went home with their limit of fish, happy and contented.

Jerry Morris, and wife, of the Voruz Furniture Store, Baker, were casting hooks and lines for the water of the creek. They went home satisfied with their catch, and filled up with joy at the scenery.

Roscoe Bond, of the Hansen and Weiss Furniture store, Baker, with Mrs. Bond, enjoyed a delightful trip by auto to the camping place on the creek, just below the old Thompson Place. They had all the fish they wanted to eat and went home with a good supply of the delicious trout.

Kenneth Vanorier and Lester Miller, from the Park, stopped over night at the Log Cabin enjoying a good visit with the folks there.

Gilbert Minthorn, Chief of the Cayuse tribe of Indians, from Cayuse Oregon, was up at the Forks with a party of seven of his people. Their camp is located on Ed Miles ranch of Lower Catherine. They are fishing and picking huckleberries.

William Ambrose, from La Grande, was up Sunday, fishing in the South Fork, going home late, but had his limit of good size Dolly Varden and brook trout.

Bert Vantervander, is about through haying. He has a fine crop of hay this season, being reported the largest he ever cut on the ranch. Clarence Vanorier, will be done haying in a few days—and reports that he will have hay for sale this winter, if he does not increase his herd of cattle.

Joseph Lay and his boys are very busy making hay while the sun shines. He contemplates a fishing trip on the creek after haying.

Tom Galbreith, of Weiser Idaho, is herding a band of sheep for Ed Miller. His camp is on the Main Ridge at about two miles south of the South Forks.

A jolly party, consisting of Mr. and Mrs. Jay Oliver and baby girl, Keating, Oregon, and Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Brown and children, stopped over night, camping out at the "Big Log Cabin" on the way to the Millah River. Mr. Brown has sheep grazing on Uncle Sam's forest reserve. They also stopped on their return, reporting a fine time in the higher mountains of the Rockies.

George Lee, and Ross Jones, have two bands of the finest sheep in the country, now on the Minam River. Emile Lyons, and Orin Pierce, two professional shepherds are taking care of the splendid and useful animals.

Salmon Spawning.
The salmon are just starting to spawn, in the upper riffles of the North Fork. There is a big run of them this season, and several have been caught while the open season was on.

The deers are all gone to higher and more isolated places in the mountains. Only a few tracks of the animals are noticed here and there, crossing the country from one band to the other—but they are nearly settled now in one big band on some spots where there is no activities.

The Mountain species of grouse are well up on top of the ridges this season—there is an excellent opportunity for the sport who likes hard climbing to spend his Sandays inhaling the pure breeze of Oregon mountains.

The creek is about down to normal. It stayed high very late this season—there being some snow left in the mountains at this late date—so the fishermen reports.

The trout angling has been more than good this spring and summer, as it is reported by the master fisherman of this locality.

Lon Mitchell and wife, anglers of Union, are camped a quarter mile below the cabin at the Forks. Lon comes home every day with his limit of allowed sizes. He reports that he don't see much difference as to the amount of trout in the creek.

SAGE TEA DANDY TO DARKEN HAIR

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Bring Back Color and Lustre to Hair

You can turn gray, faded hair beautifully dark and lustrous almost overnight if you'll get a bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound at any drug store. Millions of bottles of this old famous Sage Tea Recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, are sold annually, say well-known druggists here, because it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that no one can tell it has been applied.

Those whose hair is turning gray or becoming faded have a surprise awaiting them, because after one or two applications the gray hair vanishes and your locks become luxuriantly dark and beautiful.

This is the age of youth. Gray-haired, unattractive folks aren't wanted around, so get busy with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound to-night and you'll be delighted with your dark, handsome hair and your youthful appearance within a few days.

as he says "To fish in these streams, it takes work and there is not much difference in catching them in the labor attached to each catch, as one must go from one rock to the other, for each fish"—but, we must remember that Lon is an expert fisherman—he naturally thinks it's easy.

Steel Vaults Guard High Grade Alcohol In National Museum

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15. (AP)—Extraordinary precautions for the safeguarding of their supplies of alcohol are taken by the various departments of the government which use this commodity, now so much in demand for the making of what is styled "sympathetic" intoxicants.

Officials of the departments and bureaus declare the systems they have installed have operated so successfully that their losses have been negligible, confined to the theft of a pint here and a quart there. And so close is the check, they assert, that frequently even these small quantities are traced and the offenders punished.

At the National Museum, which in the preservation of specimens sent to it from all parts of the world, uses only the very highest grade of alcohol, the liquid is kept in a steel vault to which only one employee other than the staff officers has access. The key to the vault is kept under a separate lock.

Supplies are drawn on requisitions and the uses made of the alcohol are carefully traced and checked. The museum officers say that there are losses from evaporation and spillage, but that in their system these are carefully estimated and due allowance made.

The Navy Department, which probably is the largest user of alcohol in the government, also has worked out an elaborate system for the safe-storing of its supply. The total used is about 1,000,000 gallons annually, half of which goes into the manufacture of smokeless powder. At those stations and depots where the volume of alcohol on hand warrants, the liquid is kept in special steel tanks in rooms under lock, with the keys in the possession of commissioned officers or trusted civilian employees.

On ship board and at the smaller stations the supplies also are in the custody of commissioned officers. In all cases the liquid is furnished on requisition and a check up of its uses made to see that none is diverted.

Similar systems are in operation in the Department of Agriculture, the Bureau of Standards, the Bureau of Fisheries and other federal agencies using alcohol in their daily operations.

Why the Good Old Remington Pump Gun Still Outsell all Others

There's a new 20-gauge model, too—the best of the light-gauge guns. See it at your dealer's

ASK any of your friends who shoot a Remington 12-gauge Pump Gun—there are lots of them—what it is that has made this the favorite 12-gauge ever since Remington brought it out in 1900—the first solid-breech hammerless repeating shotgun ever produced.

Or better yet—if he'll let you—borrow his Model 10 and take it out in the fields or down by the water for an afternoon and try it for yourself.

Fire arms experts always comment on the precision and finish of the Model 10—the result of 245 separate inspections in the Remington plant.

And they remark that the receiver is machined out of solid steel—instead of made of stamped steel metal or a cored casting as is done with many shot-guns.

But the man who goes out for a day's sport or to get a few ducks or rabbits for supper isn't so apt to say anything about these technical features.

He'll tell you that the Remington Model 10 shoots harder and straighter than any other 12-gauge he ever had in his hands, has an action that never balks or clogs—and seems to get better the longer he uses it.

If you're in line for something specially good in a 20-gauge—Get your dealer to show you the new Remington Model 17. This is a hammerless, solid-breech pump action, too, Chambered for 2 1/4 inch shells which gives it the power and range of a 16-gauge. It is comparatively new—but already many old-timers swear by it as a "real man's gun."

The first time you get a chance go to the gun rack at the store and look at these Remingtons. Your dealer will be glad to tell you anything you want to know about them.
