TAKE YOUR CORN TO A PODIATRIST

It's More "Effete," Believe Those Who Minister to Pedal Extremities.

By Thomas Wrightley, International News Service Staff Correspondent.

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—Born to the podiatrist lately? No, it is not a new term for bootlegger, but it is the dignified way to refer to a doctor of the foot, in other words, a chiropodist.

The twelfth annual convention of the National Association of Chiropodists in recent convention here well nigh split up over the new term. A thousand delegates took sides as to whether chiropodist or podiatrist should henceforth be painted on the shingles of the foot doctor.

Dr. Emanuel Demour, of Chicago, led the chiropodist faction, defending the older term on the ground that chiropodists had won the support, sympathy and admiration of the public. His faction pointed out that a person with a troublesome corn would limp right by a podiatrist sign and keep hunting for cheering sign of chiropodist.

On the other hand the podiatrist faction declares that chiropodist means nothing more nor less than an old-fashioned "corn doctor" and they want to get away from this rather vulgar connection with corns and bunions.

Dr. R. H. Gross, registrar of the first institute of podiatry of this city, brought out before the convention that wearing absurdly high heels is a menace to the health of American women. "High heels," he declared, "cause a woman to stand in such a way that her health is often undermined and the result is often nervous diseases of the type of hysteria."

Dr. Gross said heels should not be more than one-half inch in height. William M. Gerard, of Iowa, advocated a footprint system to supplement the fingerprint system in the detection of criminals. From the size and shape of a man's footprint, even with shoes on, many things as to his size and characteristics can be determined, he stated.

BRITAIN HAS ABSURD 'LAWS'

Farcical Regulations Used During World Conflict Not Yet Repealed.

(By L. N. S.) LONDON, Aug. 17.—War regulations, now become farcical, still largely exist in Britain. After 9:20 in the evening it is illegal to sell strawberries and cream, or it is perfectly legal to sell strawberries and ice cream.

It is unlawful to sell cigarettes or tobacco after 8 p. m., but a saloon keeper can legally sell either if he serves a meal at the same time. At the same time, if he should sell a biscuit with a glass of wine he is committing an offence.

A restaurant may lawfully serve a cooked sausage up to any time, but a hand over an uncooked sausage would be a breach of regulation. After 9:20 a shopkeeper can sell all he soft drinks and ice cream he likes, long as they are consumed on the premises, but if he sells them to be taken away he is committing a crime.

Members of Parliament are agitating to have these absurdities swept away. The easiest way to turn a screen far into an emotional address is to "at her salary."

Some for Sunday. Why not have one ice cream for your Sunday dinner. It is too hot to make deserts and ice cream in brick form - an excellent dessert and it looks appetizing and pretty on the table.

BLACK STAMPS TO BE POSTAL TRIBUTE TO LATE PRESIDENT

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17.—President Coolidge has approved the issuance by the postoffice department of a memorial stamp bearing the likeness of the late President Harding. Designs for the new stamp, which will be of 2 cent denomination, were submitted to the president by Postmaster General New. It will be black in color, the only black stamp issued by the postoffice department.

Heavy Fine Imposed. DUSSTLDORF, Aug. 17.—The Belgian authorities, it was announced Thursday, have imposed a fine of three billion marks on the city of Dulsburg as a penalty for the bomb explosion on a train near that city late in June. Ten Belgian soldiers were killed and two score others injured.

Understands Problems. "On the other hand," continued Mr. Babson, "President Coolidge also understands the problems of the masses. He himself was born poor, has always been poor and is poor. His father was born a Vermont farmer and was working in the hay field the day before he became president of the United States. The last time I talked with him he was especially troubled with the condition of the western farmer and said, 'We must do something for the western farmer. What is the sanest and best thing we can do?'

No one better realizes than he that agriculture is the basis of American prosperity and that with 33 million people dependent upon agriculture for their income we must have prosperity in the west before we can have it in the east.

"The home life of the new president was illustrated by the news item which appeared in the papers on the eventful morning of Friday, August 2. The Associated Press dispatch read:

"Mr. Coolidge came down stairs in his slippers, entered his father's sitting room, lit the lamp, and read the telegram telling him that he was president of the United States. Those simple words, 'slippers,' 'sitting room,' 'lit the lamp,' tell the whole story. Business has nothing to fear from the man with that environment and with such friends. Moreover, best of all, he is grounded on those fundamental principles of religion which put the church and the home before even agriculture, labor, commerce, or anything else.

Big Interests Safe. "This means that the agricultural and business interests may feel safe regarding the White House. Regarding what selfish politicians may attempt to do in congress, there will be a same man at the wheel. Unconscionable or unjust legislation will not be passed by riding over President Coolidge's veto. He plans to help the framers of the constitution act to be repealed or crippled. He will do something for the veterans, but will not permit the passage of a bonus bill which will be harmful to the nation as a whole. He will stand for the strengthening of the federal reserve board, the railroad labor board, the federal tariff commission, and other bodies working along sound economic lines.

The Wallowa lettuce crop will be harvested over a period of 30 to 35 days. It is hoped that Mr. Fleener will be able to line up most of the retail market along the line, and it will mean fresh lettuce to local people, and an encouragement to the neighboring industry. An enormous amount of money is spent on head lettuce in every town while the demand is not as heavy as at earlier seasons. It is still a welcome and healthful part of any home menu.
