FOOD SHORTAGE ALARMING GERMANY
 whom their party is everything and their country nothing, capitalize their misery of the people for their purposes. The spectre of civil war hovers over us every day and every hour. Serious newspapers contain articles coolly discussing all its possible phases and changes, and strategy in the "coming unheaven" are thrashed out with such astounding cold-bloodedness that one gains the conviction it is inevitable. It would be untrue to declare that the policy of the recently deposed Cuno government was blameless for these conditions or that the possessing classes and the various political parties had done their duty in the same degree as the government, employees and wage earners of the Ruhr and Rhineland have done it. It is humiliating but true that just as the World war, so in the Ruhr war certain profiteers have prospered in an indescribable degree. And the greatest and gravest mistake of the Cuno government was this: That it did not proceed against these human hyenas with all the rigor of the constitutional means that the law provides. But the art of the greatest statesmen will not suffice to save Germany if in France blind hatred is not replaced by sound economic reasoning and action. The "French Rhone border and the amalgamation of the French ore with the German Ruhr coal may find France's military and economic hegemony in Europe, but in the long run the death of Germany, which these French aims imply, will be the forerunner of the destruction of Europe. To demand the fulfillment of the Treaty of Versailles—especially in the sense in which France demands it—means, in the final analysis, to court the destruction of Europe. It is "five minutes of twelve" for Germany's internal policy as well as for all those who have the peaceful reconstruction of Europe at heart. If no saving "deed" is recorded before the clock in the "world tower" strikes twelve then the social order of European civilization will crash to pieces, and over the resultant chaos will float the red banner with the hammer and sickle.

U. S. WILL NOT HASTEN DEBT FUNDING PLAN
 He said also to be of the opinion that legislation postponing the date of the debt commission, due to expire in another year, would be necessary. Taking a gloomy view of European affairs, politically and economically the secretary was said to see no hope of an immediate settlement of the reparations tangle and to believe that until that question is disposed of there is little chance of improvement in Europe's economic situation. The connection between the involved reparations problem and the payment of debts to the United States, particularly by France, was declared to be regarded by Mr. Mellon as close. The head of the treasury told friends that he saw no way in which effective assistance could be given Europe by America. Regarding the situation in Germany, Mr. Mellon was uncertain. He said several German bankers expressed to him their fears of complete dismemberment of the republic but his own view was not disclosed. Describing the progress by France in construction work, Mr. Mellon said that in many instances the devastated sections gave the appearance of our "western boom towns."

DEER HUNTERS GET TWO BUCKS
 stop the deer hunting. At any rate, La Grande sportsmen had faith in the announcement of the opening of the season yesterday and they flocked to the hills, anxious to bag a deer or two. A lot of "em flocked back without any surplus deer over their shoulders but two, at least, brought back bucks. Bill Mitchell of Island City killed a buck, which is in storage in Herman Rosch basement today, and Mr. Hater, of Rock Creek, likewise knocked one over—killing it near George Wade's residence on the other side of the river. Maybe some others got a deer but if they did they forgot to tell the world about it. Many hunters are still in the hills.

NEW YORK TO FRISCO TEST TO BE MADE
 have this aerial express mail service. After that test, Uncle Sam will decide whether transcontinental flights are to become mere routine, and mail plane service from the Atlantic to Pacific be made permanent. The flying schedule approved Monday night calls for 30 hours elapsed flying time on the westbound trip and 28 on the eastbound. The hours' difference represents the effect the prevailing western winds are expected to have on airplane flying at this time of year. Cleveland, Chicago, Omaha, Cheyenne, Salt Lake and Reno are the principal cities at which the mails will alight to refuel or shift pilot, machine and cargo. Little Night Flying. The only night flying will be between Chicago and Cheyenne. This piece of course will be blazed with electric light, with incandescent buoys and even more powerful light-houses, to guide the pilots through darkness, fog and storm. The flying schedule, announced Monday night by Postmaster Morgan in this city follows, all time being standard: Westbound—Leave New York 11 a. m., eastern; Cleveland, 4 p. m., eastern; Chicago, 7 p. m., central; Omaha, 12 midnight, central; Cheyenne, 4:30 a. m., mountain; Salt Lake, 9 a. m., mountain; Reno, 2:15 p. m., Pacific. Arrive San Francisco 4:15 p. m., Pacific. Eastbound—Leave San Francisco 6 a. m., Pacific; Reno, 8:15 a. m., Pacific; Salt Lake, 2:30 p. m., mountain; Cheyenne, 6:45 p. m., mountain; Omaha, 1 a. m., central; Chicago, 5:45 a. m., central; Cleveland, 10:30 a. m., eastern. Arrive New York 3:15 p. m., eastern. Postmaster Morgan also announced that postage would be 2 cents an ounce or fraction thereof, during the five-day test. Only letters specially addressed "via air mail" would be accepted, he said. Everything was in readiness Monday night for the hop-off from New York. Pilot C. Eugene Johnson, who takes the air from Hazelhurst field on Long Island, was impatient for the morning. Gas, oil and water for the leg from New York to Cleveland had been taken aboard, and the machine was under heavy guard in her hangar. Tuesday morning, 21,000 special delivery letters, including complimentary stamps and weighing 575 pounds, will be rushed by mail truck from the New York postoffice and stored aboard. Then a few first edition afternoon papers will be taken on, and at 11 a. m. the take-off. Pilot Johnson took to his cot early. He planned to be up with the sun, to give his ship "a final inspection."

Machine Under Guard.

SIX-HOUR DAY IS NEARING
 much less than eight hours a day. A man working for himself is his own director. He controls his own hours of labor. He may work no hours a day. He may work any number of hours a day. He may work, as nearly as possible, 24 hours a day. It is his own affair. The farmer, by the nature of his calling, gets up early in the morning and goes to bed early in the evening. Between the rising in the morning and the retiring at night he works just as he is inclined. The farmer is no different than other humans. But he lays out his own work. He has more interest, naturally, because he is working for himself.

Harmony Essential.
 "Some wise one has said that everything in this world has changed except human nature. Now human nature is a great study. How to create an interest in life—how to create rest, enthusiasm and ambition —how to create the most happiness for the most people is some little problem.

"My picture of 'Hell' is largely strife—contentions, bickering, quarreling, snarling—which goes on in families, in communities, in states and in nations. It is, in truth, a lack of harmony. And so in industry. The nearest 'Heaven' we shall get in this 'Harmony.' How to establish it and how to maintain it! And that man or combination of men who deliberately seek to destroy harmony and goodwill in an enemy of mankind—is an emissary of the devil—and ought to be shunned by all decent, right-thinking world can be spelled out by the word people."
