WALTHALL COMING IN NEW FOX PICTURE

"The Face on the Barroom Floor" Promises to be Modern Melodrama of Thrills.

BOASTS NOTED CAST

Ruth Clifford, Alma Bennett and Others of Equal Note Support the "Little Colonel."

Henry B. Walthall, who will be remembered as the "Little Colonel" of "The Birth of a Nation," gives one of the greatest characterizations in the history of the cinema in the latest William Fox special production, "The Face on the Barroom Floor," which will be the featured attraction at the Star Theatre Sunday only.

Mr. Walthall gets the psychology of a remarkable story with his usual keenness of perception, and does some exceptional acting in scenes which call for greater subtlety than is ordinarily demanded of the pictorial dramatic quality and one which, from all reports, has been directed with extraordinary skill. Jack Ford, who has staged a number of recent screen successes for the Fox organization, is responsible for the direction of this photoplay.

Walthall is seen as a brilliant and successful artist, a genius who had reached the ultimate heights of triumph in his individual profession. How he is forced to take the downward path until at last he drank the bitter dregs of life, and how he fights his way back to success and a woman's love, forms the basis of a drama replete with thrills and vibrating with emotional appeal.

One of the most sensational storms at sea ever shown on the screen, makes up one of the startling bits of this unusual photoplay, it is announced. The scenes were taken during a real storm along the Northern Atlantic coast, in which numerous boats were crushed on the rocks. How near the boat, on which the storm scenes were photographed, came to being destroyed, is clearly shown in the photoplay.

SHERRYS—TODAY ONLY

"The Greater Duty" Promises G. M. Anderson in His Greatest Role. Quartette of Real Stars in Special Film.

Among the interesting announcements of the producers of the new special photoplay, "The Greater Duty," is one that among the several stars appearing jointly in this unusual offering is G. M. Anderson, one of the earliest stars to build up a world-wide following through the medium of the screen. When Mr. Anderson first became known as a screen personality, few people realized how many millions of people throughout the whole civilized world could be won over by means of motion pictures to be ardent admirers and faithful followers of clever players who were blessed with strong personalities. Like Charlie Chaplin, who was world-famous long before he or his manager realized, G. M. Anderson was known and loved throughout the length and breadth of all lands before the workers in the new art knew how famous it was possible for a screen actor to become. The thousands of letters arriving from fans did much to call attention to the tremendous following he had won but the constantly increasing demand for all pictures in which he appeared was an even more reliable measure of his popularity. In "The Greater Duty," which comes to the Sherry Theatre today, Mr. Anderson is said to play one of the most powerful roles in which he has appeared in his long and successful career.

Dorothy Dalton Has Unique Role in "Fog Bound." Popular Star Has Excellent Part in Her Latest Stellar Picture Vehicle.

The character of Gale Brennan, portrayed by Dorothy Dalton as the star in the Paramount picture, "Fog Bound," is one most unique in motion pictures.

Gale is the daughter of a revenue officer, living with her father on a Florida orange plantation. Next door lives Roger Wainwright, a wealthy New York man, played by David Powell, who has bought this neighboring plantation for the purpose of being near Gale, whom he loves. Things progress more or less smoothly between the two until after a wild night spent at a nearby inn, Wainwright finds himself a fugitive, accused of the murder of Gale's father who had conducted a raid on the resort that evening.

But Gale believes in Roger, who asserts his innocence of the crime. She aids him to escape, but later, when she learns the facts, she gives chase and finds him in his home. Officers of the law are close behind, and the girl has to do some quick thinking. It is a case of being loyal to her dead father or protecting the man she loves. Choosing the latter, Gale determines to shield her sweetheart. With the arrival of the officers comes the climax of the production—a climax that has much to do with making "Fog Bound" a picture different from anything you have yet seen.

TRY SULPHUR ON AN ECZEMA SKIN

Costs Little and Overcomes Trouble Almost Over Night

Any breaking out of the skin, even fiery, itching eczema, can be quickly overcome by applying Mentho-Sulphur, declares a noted skin specialist. Because of its germ destroying properties, this sulphur preparation instantly brings ease from skin irritation, soothes and heals the eczema right up and leaves the skin clear and smooth. It seldom fails to relieve the torment without delay. Sufferers from skin trouble should obtain a small jar of Mentho-Sulphur from any good druggist and use it like cold cream.
