HARDING URGED EDITORS TO AID

Sought their assistance in Ending Wars; Lauds Plan of Newspapers to Ascertain Public Opinion Upon Problems.

NEW YORK, (AP)—A letter from Warren G. Harding, written June 15, exhorting newspaper editors to use their power to end war and described as "the legacy of a newspaperman-president, to the press of his country," was made public Sunday night by Walter Wellman, journalist and author.

In his letter, sent through Mr. Wellman to the editors of American newspapers, Mr. Harding counseled the same note he struck when, gazing with misty eyes upon the cascades of American dead borne back from the battlefields of Europe, he exclaimed, "It must not be again." "I am informed," wrote Mr. Harding to his fellow editors, "that some of you are considering a plan to use the power of the great American press to ascertain the opinion of the people upon the problem of American life in world recognition for the abolishing of war, the setting of international law with tribunals instead of battlefields as a last resort, and creation of a system of international co-operation without super-government or encroachment upon the independence of any nation, designed permanently to preserve peace, neighborly relationships, economic stability and prosperity among all the peoples of the world.

"That this plan to elicit American opinion is to be participated in by newspapers in all sections of the country, without regard to political affiliations and that no partisan purpose of any sort is to be sought by it; that the various vital phases of the problem are to be carefully and impartially presented to readers as aid in forming their judgment appeals to me strongly. I have long since become convinced that the United States should not and will not enter the much discussed League of Nations, but that continuation has not destroyed the hope that there may be found a way to world association and attending world understanding.

Sympathized With Plan. "With this plan to set the American people to thinking more seriously and clearly and expressing their conclusions concerning the international due of our republic, I am in full sympathy. It is an admirable, useful work and I hope you carry it to all the readers in the land."

One reason for the delinquency of population in Europe is the fact that natives don't race trains to a crossing.

interviews since he agreed with President Coolidge to make a final attempt to avert the industrial tie-up, said little Sunday. Only the barest outlines of the governor's plans for the meeting became evident in his afternoon talk with newspapermen. He will greet the four leaders of the miners' union and policy committee of anthracite operators when they arrive at his office; make a brief address, detailing the circumstances under which they will have been brought together after three or four previous fruitless attempts at an adjustment—and then proceed to discussion being closed soon. What he will say to the visitors in the afternoon will not disclose until the meeting actually begins.

Governor Pinchot has at least practically unlimited quantities of statistical data bearing on anthracite. It has been generally surmised that at some point in his representation he would undertake to show the parties to the pending contract that they will both stand in danger of permanent injury from a suspension September 1, since the consuming public, forced to use cheap substitutes for anthracite, may never renew the demand for anthracite to its present strength. Miners' union officials who will attend the session are thought to be coming with the strictest limitation placed upon their power to act. John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, will not be present, and Phillip Murray, its vice-president, and Rinaldo Cappellani, C. J. Golden and Thomas Kennedy, the anthracite district presidents, will arrive in Harrisburg only in time to enter the session.

Observers of the union's proceedings consider that the call for a work suspension now out will not be withdrawn until Mr. Lewis personally has passed on any settlement proposals. Spokesmen for the union insist that a proposition made by Mr. Lewis to the United States coal commission in New York 10 days ago, under which the miners would be permitted to work if the operators would install the "check off" for collecting union dues, abolish all but eight hour-working places in their service, and agree in "principle" to make a wage increase, is the minimum which the organization can take. It was also said that the shutdown of some mines September 1 could not now be avoided even should Governor Pinchot Monday win the leaders over to a postponement.

Properly certified orders recalling the suspension could not be got out in time, union officials said, to reach all the scattered mining camps before that date.

Washington Behind Pinchot. WASHINGTON (AP)—Professing confidence in the outcome, official Washington awaits the opening Monday of the conference at Harrisburg, called by Governor Pinchot to seek a settlement of the controversy which threatens to shut down the anthracite mines September 1. The Pennsylvania executive will have not only aid in the form of data gathered by federal fuel agencies, administration spokesmen declaring that "the moral support of the federal government if he finds it necessary to impose a stronger argument than the logical aspects of the situation.

Retiation by representatives of both operators and miners that nothing had occurred to change the decisions expressed at earlier parties, has failed to shake the optimistic view taken by President Coolidge and his advisers. While the refusal of the miners to submit the issues to arbitration and the equally flat declaration of operators to agree to the demand for increased pay, submitted by the employe group, seemed to constitute a deadlock, the White House and coal commission clinging to the belief that Governor Pinchot would be able to force an equitable compromise.

Data Sent Mediator. Acting upon instructions from President Coolidge that every aid be given Governor Pinchot, data and conclusions derived by various government bureaus have been sent to Harrisburg for use in the conference.

Two members of the staff at the coal commission who were instructed in preparing the recently published report on production costs will be present.

In the event the threatened anthracite shutdown becomes a fact the government will have ready a comprehensive program for dealing with the "national emergency" which it has deemed would result. Existing stocks of fuel substitutes have been listed routes for transporting them designated and a system of priorities over less urgent freight arranged. Actual distribution of these supplies to individual consumers will be worked out at a meeting in New York Tuesday or representatives of states which use the bulk of domestic hard coal.

HARVEST TIME ON IN GRANDE RONDE

(Continued from page 1) vested and in the sheds and warehouses at which time an actual estimate as to yields can be made. But with some of the crop still in the fields observers can only guess at the probable yields.

Spring Wheat Coming. Spring wheat as a rule is giving much promise. Usually the yield is less than realized from wheat planted in the fall out a good crop is expected.

Oats, barley and other grains are doing as well proportionately as is spring and winter wheat. Part of the oat crop is already cut but the greater portion is either being cut or is yet untouched. Prize oat fields are noticed in many sections of the Grande Ronde.

Hay Crop Satisfactory. Alfalfa is doing well this year. A good first cutting was secured by the greater number of hay raisers and the second cutting is now up where the hay has an early start. Where conditions are favorable a third crop of high quality is expected until the weather ruins prospects.
