RUTH'S PITCHING OUT DID BATTING IN WORLD'S SERIES

NEW YORK, (AP)—George Herman Ruth, known to fans simply as "Babe," the outstanding star of the major leagues this season, whose bat and all-round ability contributed largely to the winning of the third pennant by the Yankees, played his first championship game with the Baltimore International League club April 27, 1914.

Baltimore played Buffalo that day. Ruth pitched, allowing six hits, passing four men and striking out four. Baltimore won, 6 to 0. Baltimore's second sacker was Neal Ball, the first major league player to make an unassisted triple play. Ball had made his triple killing five years before while playing with Cleveland against the Boston Red Sox.

Ruth made his first appearance in the majors on July 11, 1914, with the Boston Red Sox, as a pitcher. He pitched seven innings against Cleveland, being taken out so that Duffy Lewis could pinch hit for him. The Red Sox won, 4 to 3, Ruth getting credit for the victory. He struck out one man and passed none.

The 1916 series between the Red Sox and the Brooklyn Superbas was Ruth's first championship experience. He defeated Brooklyn, 2 to 1, in 14 innings on October 5, holding the Dodgers' runless for the last 12 innings. In the 1915 series between the Red Sox and Chicago Cubs, Ruth won two games. On September 5 he turned back the Cubs without a score, 1 to 0 and his runless innings' record for world's series was increased to 22. Four days later he again defeated the Cubs, 3 to 2. The brace of Chicago runs came in the eighth so that Ruth increased his runless inning record to 29.

Ruth's all-round ability as pitcher, outfielder, first baseman and wall-loper extraordinarily had drawn him to the top of the star list, and in 1920 he became a member of the New York American League club. In his last season with Boston he had hit 29 home runs. In his first season in New York he swung his bat into 54 homers, a new all-time mark, and in the following year increased this record to 59.

Last year, due to many days of enforced idleness, hit batting averages dropped. He accounted for 35 home runs, however. All this year he has been around the top of the batting list in both leagues. He has been a flash on the bases, a great bulwark of defense in the outfield, and proved a stimulant generally to the play of the Yankees.
