

A Dressy Hat to Frame a Pretty Face

Of course one must have a dress-up Hat for dress-up occasions! It may be wide and droopy or have a side roll, or turn up sharply in front. panne velvet, Hatters' Plush or a combination of these make the hats look more stunning. Ribbons, in pleats or bows, feathers, and veils are used to ornament these hats.

HUNDREDS SEE WOMAN DIE IN PLANE CRASH

Mrs. Hazel Stillinger Killed, Aviator Hurt, When Machine Falls at Idaho Round-Up.

IDAHO, Idaho.—Mrs. Hazel Stillinger, 25, of Coona Ferry, was instantly killed Friday afternoon about 4 o'clock when an airplane in which she was a passenger fell into a nose dive and dropped 500 feet to the ground in front of the grand stand at the Coona Ferry round-up. About a mile from the town of Coona, the pilot, said to be a former service man, was knocked unconscious but was not seriously injured. No other persons were in the plane.

More than 2,000 persons, who were spectators at the round-up, saw the fatal accident.

According to Jakes, a propeller wire failed just as he was rising from the ground. All efforts to volplane to a safe landing were futile.

When the plane had come to landing after the crash, a man whose name is unknown to spectators started to climb into the fuselage for his trip. When he found that Mrs. Stillinger held a ticket and wished to go next, he withdrew in her favor and allowed her to go on the flight from which she never returned alive.

When the plane crashed to the ground Mrs. Stillinger was crushed by the heavy engine, which broke from its fastenings and tore through the fuselage to the front seat, where she was sitting. Her chest and torso was crushed. She was dead when she was taken from the wreckage.

The pilot was behind the woman. When he was unstrapped and taken from the demolished plane, he was unconscious, but was revived in a few moments and was able to give an account of the accident.

The large two-seater was demolished but did not catch fire.

Mrs. Stillinger, who is said to have lived on a ranch near Coona Ferry, was accompanied to Brannan Thursday by a Post Heidon, also of Coona Ferry.

The body of the woman was taken to the Tally undertaking parlors at Mountain Home, where it will be held pending arrangements for the funeral, which will be made as soon as relatives are heard from, it was announced.

Mrs. Rosale Stillinger, of Boise, a sister-in-law of the dead woman, went immediately to Mountain Home when she learned of the accident. Mrs. Etta Newell, mother of the dead woman, lives in Stewart, B. C., and has been notified, it was announced.

Jakes, who came to Idaho from Boise, has been flying at fair rate. He was known of him in aviation circles at Boise.

Imbler High Beats Haines

IMBLER (Special to the Observer)—Imbler high school football team found Haines easy pickings here yesterday afternoon, rumping away from the field with the score finally standing: Imbler 19, Haines 6.

RUTH HAS SERIES HOME RUN MARKS AS HIS NEW GOAL

NEW YORK (AP)—Home runs have played an important part in the world's series but as yet the record reveal no startling feats of hitting by the greatest hitter of the ball—Babe Ruth. The Yankees started a twirler with the Red Sox in the series of 1916 and 1918 hit, a regular outfielder with the Yankees, he was handicapped by injuries in the 1921 series and for reason was badly off form.

Playing the best all-around game of his career this year, Ruth, once more into his own in the championship struggle and take his place among the hitting immortals of the big league.

Ruth has one homer in his series record, made in 1921. The mark at which he will try to shoot this fall include the highest all-time series total, three held jointly by J. Franklin Baker and Larry Gardner, the highest total for a single series, two, held jointly by eleven players, and the single game record of two, held by Harry Hooper and Benny Kauff.

Elmer Smith, now a member of the Yankees, holds the unique distinction of being the only player ever to hit a homer with the bases full during a series. A feat he accomplished with Cleveland in the 1920 series with Brooklyn. The homer was made off Burleigh Grimes.

The greatest feat in a series clout-er belongs to "Home Run" Baker, of the old Athletics. Curiously enough, all three of Baker's circuit walkoffs were recorded at the expense of the Giants, two of them winning games for the Mackmen. In the 1911 series, Baker's home run off Marquand in the game of October 18, with Collins on base, and the score tied, gave the verdict to the Philadelphia club, 2 to 1. Two years later, a homer by Baker gave the Athletics their winning margin in a game with the Giants, again with Marquand pitching and Collins on the base.

FACTS ABOUT FOOTBALL

(By Observer sports Editor)

Football Not So Dangerous.

A great share of the hue and cry that permeates the air during fall months, especially from the ladies of the land, regarding the "awful danger" of football, is due to either ignorance of the game as it is played today or else an understanding of the actual dangers that exist in the sport.

Statistics have proved time and again the "dangerous" sport of football is less dangerous than baseball and basketball, as far as fatalities are concerned, such writers as Walter Camp, Hook Edgren, and others, have scored the misunderstanding that football is dangerous many times but even yet it is hard to put over the fact.

There is no question that football was, in its earlier years, a dangerous sport. When they had no forward passes and had to make five yards in three downs, resorting to two plays—often the wedge type with one man in front and the whole team pyramided behind him—football was dangerous! But, in the words of Al Rosen, "them days are gone forever."

Today, after the game has been ironed out so that every player must wear protective headgear, shin guards, padded pants, shoulder pads, etc., and with the inauguration of the "over-the-top" game that does away with a greater part of the "mass" plays, football is in reality not so dangerous. One reason that the public continues to think it is lies in the fact that hardly a game passes but some player gets his wind knocked out and is knocked inert for a few seconds. But how many times have you seen some player actually injured? Not many.

In 1923 eleven football players (ten collegians and nine high school boys) were killed in football accidents. The same year more than eleven baseball players were killed. Basketball also ran higher in this respect than football. And boxing took its yearly toll.

It is a probable truth that more young Americans play football than any other major sport—because it is more interesting, requires more actual handwork, requires a high physical ability, and is possessed of the quality of clean sportsmanship. Thousands, tens of thousands play it every year. And a 1922 only 11 were killed.

Merely put, many more people were killed due to accidents that occurred while they were about their regular business duties.

If a few of the doubting Thomases that believe football is a bloody, intensely dangerous, pre-historic game would attend a few more games they would no doubt change their opinions.

Happenings in and Around the School Centers

La Grande High School has so far had a very busy week. Wednesday especially was a day of action. In the afternoon each of the four classes held a meeting. The chief purpose of each was to elect two live wires, a boy and a girl. Everyone was asked to consider carefully before making nominations and before voting. A live wire must have a great deal of spirit and "pop." Only persons of this class should be put in office. The work of the live wire is to keep things going, to give the interest, and give life and activity to the school.

The freshmen held their meeting during the afternoon intermission. Virgil Schoening and Doty Cochran were chosen as live wires.

The Sophomores have, to some extent, outgrown the knee pants and pig-tail stage. They are in for business this year and mean to show their spirit. Their live wires are Eleanor Cleaver and Clifford Bell.

A present the Juniors have the busiest class. They had a lively talk on class rings but have not decided exactly what pattern they will wear. Samples are expected to arrive soon. Fry outs for the Junior play have been made and poster committees for both the play and candy sales are busy. The first candy sale will be held Saturday afternoon at the game.

Another Junior meeting will be held Thursday when all members can be present. In the meantime everyone is carefully considering whom to elect for live wire. Live wire election will be the purpose of the meeting.

The seniors are allowing the juniors to do all the active entertaining this year, so they have no particularly serious questions for discussion at the present.

Live wires elected by them are Eugene Metcalf and La Nita Gaskill.

In an assembly which was held Monday evening, Hugh E. Brady spoke to the students on the immigration question. The American Legion offered a seven hundred and fifty dollar scholarship in any college at prize for the best essay on "Why America Should Prohibit Immigration for Five Years." Several smaller prizes have been offered also. The object of the lecture was to give the students information which will help them with their essays.

An assembly was called Wednesday morning. The Reverend A. W. Jones of the Christian Church gave a very

He talked on the three essential things in life, physical and mental well being and spiritual development. The assembly was then turned over to the student body president, Clark Price. He urged the students to buy their student body tickets which, he reminded them, would be on sale that noon in the hall.

A school yell leader was elected. Of those voted upon Dossie Zimmerman received the largest number of votes.

The A. G. S. executive committee met Tuesday night to discuss business. It was decided to give the Freshman girls a picnic at the beginning of next week. The "Big Sisters" will be expected to bring the lunch and show their little sister a good time. The picnic will be held during the noon hour.

The members of the Spanish Club met Tuesday night to elect officers. Joe Pank was elected president, Ed Wood Hall vice-president, and Margaret Baker secretary. A committee was also chosen to plan a party which will be given soon.

Miss May Nell has taken charge of her classes in the high school. She has just recently arrived from Japan, being one of the survivors of the earthquake.

The first tryouts for the Junior play were held Monday for the girls and Tuesday for the boys. Many tried out for the seventeen parts which the cast calls for. The coach of the play, Miss Bennett, will have another tryout for the girls Wednesday and one for the boys Thursday. This tryout will decide the cast of the play.

The play, "Ain't What's Her Name," is clothed in a deep mystery through which no one has penetrated so far. There are deep weird tales of a secret HIGH SCHOOL NEWS to give an air of mystery. After the plots have been unraveled the play
