Report on State Meeting Given Club

In the general resume of the year's business of the Neighborhood club Tuesday afternoon reports from the heads of different committees included the following account of the State Federation of Women's clubs at its meeting in Medford. The report was given by Mrs. Bruce Dennis, who had been requested to review the important features of the important Medford meeting. It follows:

To close the year's work without some kind of a description of the annual meeting of the State Federation of Medford would indeed mean that we as a club had failed to preserve a record of one of the choicest events in Oregon club history, and I appreciate deeply the honor conferred upon me in the request that I give, to the best of my ability, an account of the Medford meeting.

Of course all realize that Medford is very similar to La Grande in size, that it is located in the hills of Southern Oregon with beautiful setting, and that it contains some of the state's most enterprising citizens—both men and women.

The Medford hospitality in deepened and sincere and to such men as B. E. Harder, formerly of Baker but now a banker of Medford and president of the Commercial club; S. S. Smith, one of the editors of the Medford Tribune; Earl C. Gladis, mayor of Medford, along with many other gentlemen who left their business and professional duties to see that club visitors were properly entertained, is due the profound thanks and appreciation of all federated clubs of the state.

Heartily Welcome Given.

It was on Monday, May 21st that every train brought to Medford numerous delegates. The town was alive with them, and on every hand was that cordial spirit of welcome which pleased the ladies and made the occasion one of harmony and good fellowship.

On the evening of the first day Mrs. Ida B. Callahan, of Coquille, and Mrs. Collins W. Atkins of Prineville, opened the first session exhibiting marked ability as presiding officers. The years of experience in handling parliamentary work plainly placed Ida B. Callahan in a class ahead with the celebrated Thomas Reed as a presiding officer. Address of welcome by the mayor, president of the chamber of commerce and president of the Greater Medford club, all breathed again the eloquent welcome of heart to guests, whereas the response by Mrs. William Bell of Portland, was most cleverly given in the speaker voiced everyone's sentiment in her appropriate words.

The state work as outlined by Mrs. Ida B. Callahan by her "Greetings of the State President," displayed a campaign successfully carried on by the women's clubs of Oregon for foreas as plagues that are menacing the world today. First, absolute disregard for law and order. Second, the awful hatred engendered by man for man and the display of class hatred everywhere since the World war—which he said had taken society back a thousand years. Fourth, the insatiable desire for immediate pleasure.

Fifth, a belief in gross materialism and a lack of faith in immortality and in the spiritual life.

That the youth of today has all these terrible forces as his background, Professor Vining said is enough to make him wonder if the old traditions, and beliefs and customs of the past can be true. The speaker predicted, however, that a great spiritual uprising will take the forces of evil away, banish them and that they will vanish. His closing picture was one of hope and faith in the power for good and of right thinking that must prevail eventually.

While Professor Vining's lecture was the great effort of the meeting without doubt, one must not overlook some of the exceptional talent in Medford which contributed to make the convention a pleasure.

Miss Holberta Ward in costume, sang the "Gypsy Love Song" in a manner that won every lady's applause in recognition of the marked ability of the young lady.

Business of the Convention.

As for the business of the convention, this has been reviewed in the press of the state and all are familiar with the questions discussed and the progress made along lines of consistent reformation.

The Neighborhood club of La Grande, in my judgment, has a splendid standing in the State Federation. Under the able administration of those who have conducted the club in the past few years, the organization has won its place it now occupies in the state, and among those who have done diligent and forceful work is the retiring president, Mrs. A. L. Richardson.

Her successor, who now takes the commanding office of the club, was present at Medford and no lady there gave keener attention to the work than did Mrs. Lynch. All of which will aid her greatly in making the good official which we know she will be the coming year.

As for the "unpleasant" feature of the Federation's elections at Medford, which was so thoroughly aired in the metropolitan press of the state, I am constrained to believe that little attention should be paid to it.

Mrs. Sallie Orr-Dunbar was, so far as I could learn, fairly elected to the office of president. True, there were those who preferred someone else for this high position, just as there always are those who differ when it comes to selection of leadership. The cardinal principle of good citizenship in America, however, is to abide by majority rule and do it gracefully—a thing which should be taught more forcefully in the State Federation if it is destined to accomplish the exalted purpose for which it was founded and not become a vehicle to convey jealousy, rancor and envy.

Loyalty to Officers Needed.

Permit me in closing to say that Mrs. Dunbar, the new president of the State Federation, should have the united support of all, and that Mrs. J. D. Lynch, the new president of the Neighborhood club, is entitled to all local support, in order that these ladies may accomplish what is expected of them.

These positions have long since ceased to be mere formal offices, for with women taking part as they are in governmental affairs, it is plain that upon their own responsibilities which can neither be delegated to others nor be evaded.

J. H. Peare, of this city, attended a delightful wedding at Boise, Idaho, a few days ago, when Frank Pearson, formerly of La Grande, then bookkeeper at Carr's Furniture company and also secretary of the Elks Lodge, but now traveling for a furniture company and living at Boise, was united in marriage to Miss Mary Haffer, also formerly of La Grande, at the Catholic Cathedral by Father Val Hovsen. Ben Bassett, of La Grande, bookkeeper at the J. C. Snodgrass Grocery store, was best man and the bridegroom was Miss Rose Myers, of Boise.

After the wedding ceremony a lovely wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride.

Mr. and Mrs. Pearson have gone to Los Angeles, where they will spend about three weeks, and possibly stop over in La Grande on their return trip to Boise, where they will make their home.

Mrs. Walter Bennett entertained Thursday afternoon in honor of Mrs. J. E. Clark, who is to leave La Grande soon, and Mrs. Donald Nichols, who is here visiting for a short time. The afternoon was spent at "500" at two tables, Mrs. Clark winning first prize and Mrs. Nichols second prize. Others present were Mrs. Fred Smith, Mrs. J. E. Hertel, Mrs. J. Conn and Mrs. E. Remmel.

Mrs. Bennett's house was tastefully and beautifully decorated in accordance with the autumn season, having pumpkin baskets of fall fruits, autumn leaves and flowers. A delicious luncheon was served and the same decorating scheme carried out. Mrs. Bennett proved a very charming hostess.

The Bible study reading circle will resume its semi-monthly sessions, next Tuesday, October 9, at 2:30 p. m., at the home of Mrs. Harriet McDonald, 502 Fourth street. This reading circle, which is entirely unsectarian and informal is now eleven years old and constantly growing both in interest and in numbers. The Bible study this year will continue and finish the Book of Exodus.

Ashland Entertained.

Ashland, it will be remembered, is but a few miles distant from Medford, the two cities being connected by the first hard surface pavement ever built in Oregon outside the cities, and Wednesday was Ashland day.

The club members were escorted to the neighboring city in Medford cars and the greatest care was shown in order that perfect attention might be accorded every guest.

The convention program was carried out to the letter.

At Ashland about noon a picnic luncheon was served in Lithia park, which by the way is probably the finest small city park in the whole western country.

Fortunate in having a number of carbonated springs in the park the Ashland people, with great public spirit, have erected a fine pavilion and other improvements making the place a haven of rest, and in that soft Southern Oregon climate it is considered one of the most delightful spots to be found.

Excellent Lecture Given.

Wednesday evening all visitors were given an intellectual treat in Irving E. Vining's lecture, "The Increasing Menace of the Criminal Mind."

Possessed of oratorical ability rarely found outside of the Shakespearean stage, Mr. Vining urged as one of the remedies for the call of jazz and lust and gross instincts, the establishment of such constructive forces as clubs for boys between the ages of 14 and 21 years. He also asked that the audience further the encouragement of the spiritual life and the promotion for the best in music.

The speaker quoted five great

Poplar Club Convenes After Vacation

Following the annual recess during the summer months the Neighborhood club, which is one of the very active clubs of the city reconvened Tuesday afternoon in its club rooms in the library building.

It was at this meeting that Mrs. A. L. Richardson closed a remarkably successful administration and with thankful words to all members for the co-operation and assistance she had received during the year, turned the gavel over to Mrs. J. D. Lynch, the newly-elected president who will preside over the organization.

Proceedings of Tuesday's meeting included the club song by the ladies with Mrs. O. E. Silverthorn as leader. Minutes were read, motions disposed of as was the correspondence which had accumulated. Four new members were voted into the club, after which Mrs. George T. Cochran, director of the State Federation, announced completion of the club year book and spoke of the excellent work of the committee in charge. She then gave this part of the program over to the heads of the different departments who were Mrs. Turner Oliver in charge of the program on Art; Mrs. J. K. Wright on Literature; Mrs. Harry Zurbick on Music, and Mrs. E. E. Kiddle on Civics.

The following officers, who will preside for the coming year were installed: President, Mrs. J. D. Lynch; First vice-president, Mrs. C.
