ELGIN LOSES BOX FACTORY; WRECK PLANT

Paris, Ore.
It is not certain that the entire equipment will be taken from Elgin but it is known that the new owners have no intentions of operating here.
Loses Big Asset
The removal of the box factory is the loss of a big asset to Elgin and one which will not be replaced. The sale reflects the bank of a heavy burden, and as long as the plant was to remain idle it did no good to the town, but it's wrecking makes it sure that nothing will ever come of the plant that could be rated as an asset to Elgin.

FRUITS AND VEGETABLES FLOW TO AUSTRIAN CAPITAL

VIENNA. (AP)—Farmers' carts again are to be seen in the market squares of Vienna, a circumstance which means that the farmer today is perceiving the necessity of bettering himself if he wants to dispose of his products. With this will come competition, and a plentiful supply of fruits and vegetables for the city dwellers at lower prices.
Some are the days when Vienna housewives, rain or shine, had to troop out, to the farms laden with city tinery for the farmers' wives which they turned over for the privilege of digging a few pounds of potatoes, while the farmer stood aloof, smoked city cigars and made sarcastic remarks.
If they live in a far country, they are "poor unweaved heathen." If they live in your neighborhood, they are "infernal nuisances."
You can say one thing for this kind of peace; it doesn't hurt anybody.

CRIME WAVE IMPELS BEGAL GOVERNOR TO WARN PLOTTERS

CALCUTTA. (AP)—In pronouncing the Bengal Legislative Council, Lord Lytton, the Governor, voiced a note of anxiety and warning regarding the recent reoccurrence of violent crime in Calcutta and other parts of the province. These outbreaks are attributed to the work of secret revolutionary societies, having as one of their aims the assassination of government officials.
"The crimes of violence which have in the last few months deeply shocked the public of Calcutta have been generally assumed to have been the acts of ordinary criminals. The latest murder in the post office at Bankertola and the trial and conviction of one of the gang who committed the murder has revealed to the public the workings of organized revolutionary societies of which Bengal has had such an unhappy experience in the past. The revival of a menace, which many will remember as a hideous nightmare, and which everyone had hoped had gone forever, has created a situation in which the government will require, to an exceptional degree, the support of the public.
"The contaminating influence of these gangs of fanatical idealists, who adopt terrorism through robbery and assassination as their weapon, is a danger to the younger generation from which no family can feel altogether immune.
"Six weeks ago the latest victim of this sinister conspiracy told in the dock the story of how he was sought out by those whom he acknowledged as his leaders and ordered to join with others in a robbery which led to the murder of a perfectly innocent man. It is the impressionable youth of Bengal who are seduced and recruited by this insidious organization. It appears to all those who remember the dark days through which Bengal passed from 1912 to 1916, to all those who have sons of their own to protect, to rally to support of the government and to help us stamp out this disease before it grows to dimensions which will make it difficult to cope with.
"This is no case of mere political

CURVES MOOT QUESTION, SAY DRESSMAKERS

By Ethel Marshall. (U.S.S. Staff Correspondent)

LONDON.—To curve, or not to curve, is a question puzzling many women today.

Many dressmakers are in a state of equal bewilderment. They do not know whether to advise clients to select dress styles which show the curves of the figure, or styles which disguise the figure as an ironing board or drain pipe.

The battle of the lines of fashion has reached an acute stage. Directly it seemed settled that for a year or two women would be long and straight, and that there appear creations of puffs and curves, and the rumor goes up that the dictators of fashion demand rounder women.

A considerable number of women who count for something as fashion leaders have already appeared wearing clothes which accentuate roundness of figure and give a suggestion of plumpness, with alluring curves.

Whether they will triumph over the long-straight-line woman, however, is very much a matter for guessing.

A leading West End dressmaker says he does not think that curved fashions, either those of extreme fullness or those of the figure-revealing order, will lead fashion with modern women.

"If women decide for such fashions they will soon adapt their figures to greater roundness," he says. "Fashion makes figures, and all women's figures are by no means what they appear.

"Apparent shape varies according to the style of clothes worn. It is mostly a matter of good cut and well-chosen styles.

An instance of this was given by a leading actress who wears a very straight-line dress on the stage. Her actual figure is not of the straight order at all.

"My maid frequently has to work me down into the dress," she said. "It is only necessary to watch well-dressed women to realize how the curvaceous figure has become the figure of fashion.

The woman who cannot achieve apparent chestiness, hipfulness and general fitness makes no secret of her despair. The woman who has the cash to put herself into the hands of a first-class dressmaker can usually have her figure disguised.

One of the queer paradoxes of today's fashion is the passing of feminine interest in the waist, so far as inches are concerned, anyway.

The slender, rounded waist is one of the most attractive parts of curved fashions, but whereas women used to demand a waist within 20 inches, they nowadays do not object to a waist on the other side of 20 inches.

A leading West End dressmaker was asked by a woman for dresses that gave a more accentuated straight line to her appearance. She was told that if this were done it would necessitate a cut that would give her an appearance of greater girth than actuality.

"You can give me a 30-inch waist if you like, but I must have round and straight lines" was in effect what she said.

Rounder women may come into fashion this winter, but, if so, they will be seen mostly indoors.

Very full-skirted and crinolined frocks, dresses with huge bustle trunks on the back of them, clinging-to-the-figure modes, with trailing draperies, cannot possibly be fitted into the women's 1923 outdoor life of tubes and huses.

Platter women are a distinct asset to the traffic problem.

There is a geometrical sound about the battle of curves and straight lines, and it is interesting to know that at least one London dressmaker works entirely on geometrical principles. She says that every dressmaker needs a knowledge of the science to deal with women's figures.

opposition, or criticism of the government, or sedition propaganda. It is a conspiracy of dangerous, fanatical criminals among whom violence is an acknowledged creed and terrorism a deliberate policy, whose agents are trained in robbery and murder, whose victims are selected without motive or discrimination, and who constitute a danger to every household in the country. I have every confidence that when this is realized the whole educated opinion of Bengal will demand that vigorous and effective measures shall be taken to exterminate the evil."

LONDON IMMORAL? NO, AVERS CANON

LONDON (INS)—Although the Bishop of London found much support in his charges that London parks are full of immorality, he has been more frequently attacked.

Canon Duffell, rector of Clapham, taken issue with the Bishop of London and declares that "spooning" couples should be allowed to use the parks and open spaces for their romancing.

"There is undoubtedly in existence in our open spaces in London at the present time a vast amount of social evil, the product of lux ideas bred by the abnormal life led by men and women during the Great War," the Canon declared.

"There must be a clear line drawn between the legitimate and illegitimate use of these parks, and I don't take the particular point of view at all. That has been responsible for much harm.

"I see no harm in young people who are courting using the parks during the summer months for the purpose of courting.

"I should like to give the fullest possible opportunities to young people to do their courting, and I am certainly not going to count the larger number of young couples who are to be seen on the ground on Clapham Common on a summer evening, and say that represents the cause of immorality.

"A distinction should be made between vulgarity and immorality."

Arizona Town 7 Times Victim of Bursted Dam.
PHOENIX. (INS)—The little Mormon settlement of St. Joseph, on the Little Colorado River, is facing a hard winter as a result of recent storms and floods which raised the waters of the stream so high that it swept out the dam which provides water for irrigation and domestic use.

The little colony of St. Joseph was one of the earliest white man's settlements in Arizona, and the pages of its early history are marked with blood and disaster. On six previous occasions the dam has been torn out. Now that it has been destroyed for the seventh time, some of the elders of the little flock are beginning to wonder if it is wise to rebuild, but the younger members say they will.
