Country Editor Broke "Eggs" on Typewriter

NEW YORK, (INS)—A New York editor spent much time trying to decipher a recent letter from a country correspondent, which read as follows: "Dear editor: I am the only man in town with a typewriter, so am in an extremely difficult position—the worst in fact in all my experience as a country newspaper executive. Please send a man at once to make repairs to my typewriter. I have broken the eggs on it." The editor rushed a new typewriter to town with a typewriter, so am in an extremely difficult position.

SOCIETY

The Missionary Society of the Presbyterian church will hold their regular monthly meeting Friday afternoon, at the home of Mrs. Robert Eakin with Mrs. Bullis, Mrs. Herbert Hanna and Mrs. Oscar Panch assisting. Mrs. Alvin Durbin is leader for the afternoon, with "Stewardship" as her subject.

Mrs. Albert Hunter entertained the Iddol club with a luncheon at her home this afternoon. Luncheon was served at one o'clock, after which a delightful afternoon was spent.

Mrs. Sherwood Williams, assisted by Mrs. Lydia Grandy, charmingly entertained the members of the First Union of the Ladies Aid, at her home yesterday afternoon. After a short business meeting with the president, Mrs. C. Dumming, in charge, the afternoon was spent in making plans for the future, one of which is to have a bazaar given in December.

After a very pleasant afternoon a dainty two course luncheon was served.

Mrs. C. E. Short will entertain both sections of the Aid at her home November 21, a special program being planned for that day.

Thirty members of the Presbyterian Ladies Aid met at the home of Mrs. Lynn Bohnenkamp yesterday and spent a very enjoyable afternoon. After a business meeting the afternoon was spent in sewing and social conversation, at the close of which a delicious luncheon was served.

Mrs. Bohnenkamp's home was charmingly decorated in gorgeous chrysanthemums, and with such a pleasant atmosphere the meeting was an absolute success.

An enjoyable time was spent last evening at the home of Mrs. J. H. Mithoff, when she entertained with a surprise party in honor of her daughter, Mrs. Marcus Pugham, who is here from Silverton visiting.

There were about 25 friends and relatives present and the evening was spent at cards and dancing, after which a delightful luncheon was served by the hostess.

Cove, (Special)—The Ladies Guild was entertained by Mrs. A. H. Orton and Mrs. E. H. Thomas at the home of Mrs. Orton Thursday afternoon. An enjoyable afternoon was spent playing "500," after which a delicious luncheon was served by the charming hostesses.

Those present were Mrs. C. Bertach, Mrs. C. Horyford, Mrs. J. Conby, Mrs. L. B. Carter, Mrs. Frank Miller, Mrs. Ella Kelly, Mrs. A. G. Conklin, Mrs. T. R. Conklin, Mrs. J. P. Dean, Mrs. G. E. Baker, Mrs. B. H. Daniels and Mrs. T. C. Herty.

Fashion Notes

Paris.—A few of the somewhat poke bonnet shapes, into which the ribbons sometimes expand, fasten under the chin. The chin strap, without bow or ends, is a distinctly plain affair.

Monkey Fur Popular.

Paris.—Monkey fur has by no means disappeared. It is being used today to outline necks and diagonal drapings and the occasional oddly shaped sleeve.

White Velvet Gowns.

London.—A winter forecast, which includes the late autumn, is to the effect that white velvet evening gowns will be the fashion. They are to be trimmed with bead embroidery in crystal, of jet, steel and diamante.

Styles for Football.

New York.—For the football games today the young woman is wearing a

Velvet and Ermine

Velvets and ermine—traditionally royal—are both very popular this season. Velvet is most in demand for afternoon and evening frocks, but many striking street costumes have been made of the material as well. This model is an adaptation of the very long tunic frock called the Casaque or Casack.

Royalty

Countess Felicia Glayeka, daughter of Countess Eleanor P. Glayeka, formerly Miss Eleanor M. Patterson, prominent in Washington and Chicago society, will be presented to Capital society this winter.

short coat of racoon or beaver or a top coat of camel's hair or wool plaid, with a fur collar. Beneath it she wears a velvet frock for the dinner following the games.

Some Snappy Colors.

New York.—There are delightful colors on the list popular now for evening wear. Among them are an Oriental blue like turquoise, only a bit softened, the softer orange, tones and apricots and bright reds combined with gold.

Neckline is Variable.

New York.—The neckline is among the season's variables. Here and there a V breaks the rule of the balloon, and for evening wear the square neck is returning. It has even been noticed on a few semi-dress gowns.

Tweeds.

Paris, (I.N.S.)—Tweed for the woman as well as for the man is Dame Fashion's favorite for the winter.

Like moire, alpaca and many other resurrected tissues which used to be the smart thing years ago, tweed has taken on a different texture. It is now genuinely beautiful and as suitable for a chic city tailor as a country costume. It is as soft as velvet, having the same supple quality, and is being shown in every conceivable color and many intriguing patterns. There are most delicate-hued shades, soft rose and almond green united with the stripes or checks of contrasting tones. As always, the tweed is loveliest when in a mixture.

And better than ever in these practical days, it is not amiss to know that these tweeds are as durable as they are beautiful. They are as strong in beauty as they are in wearability. What more can be demanded of a material which has the virtue of smartness and solidity.

The fashionable couturiers are using these tweeds in chic tailors, charming street and morning frocks and capes. Some trim them with fur, others do not. Little trimming is needed. The material itself is sufficient, and volla another economy. Morning frocks are straight and simple, with nothing but a leather belt and fresh Imperio collar and cuffs. For travelling there is nothing better than a tweed cape, warm and smart and not easily soiled.

Artichokes Mont Dore.

Paris, (I.N.S.)—Autumn is here and winter will soon be with us. Take advantage of the last few vegetables that remain in the markets. There are still a few artichokes and this is a good way to prepare them.

Cut the artichokes in quarters, take off the leaves and wash well. Melt in a casserole a large piece of butter and add the juice of half a lemon, three spoonfuls of grated cheese, salt, pepper and half a glass of hot milk. Add the artichokes and let simmer for three hours. Watch carefully and moisten with a bit of bouillon if they become too dry.

Cups of Onions Sold.

SALETSI, Or.—More than 100 cartons of onions from the Lake Lahsh district have been sold this year, according to reports received here today. In most instances the growers received $2 a sack for their onions, although recently the prices have slumped materially. Most of the onions have been consigned to the middle western states.

Sweden Imports Russian Aspen Wood for Matches

STOCKHOLM, (AP)—The resumption on a large scale of the shipment of aspen wood from Russia to Sweden just reported on by Svensk Pappersindustri (Swedish Papper Industry) has aroused great interest here. According to the authority, 2,000,000 board feet of aspen wood have been imported from Russia during the first nine months of this year, an amount less than half of that quantity during last year.

All of these shipments of aspen wood have been bought by the Swedish Match Company, which estimates about 120,000,000 board feet per year in its domestic and foreign factories, and it is an ironical fact that much of this wood comes from the forest properties formerly owned in Russia by the Swedish Match Company and confiscated by the Bolshevists.

Although no trade pact has as yet been successfully negotiated between Sweden and Soviet Russia, such country trade commercial commissions to the other, and informal foreign trade in both directions is picking up.
