

OPINIONS ON RUSSIA WILL ALL DIFFER

RUSSIAN OBSERVERS—MOSCOW, (AP)—Soviet Russia has been so full of American visitors, commercially, politically and artistically inclined, during the past summer that more versions of the "truth about Russia" are likely to be aired in the United States during the coming winter than ever before.

Divergent views have been expressed here, and views equally divergent will be carried away. Some of the American visitors who talked only with disgruntled business men, or whose own pet schemes went awry because of some government code depriving, probably will call Russia all sorts of names and paint the country as a huge Bolshevik viper waiting to sin kiss Marikan fangs in to the world.

Visitors artistically inclined found painting, music, the drama, and the ballet in Moscow better than anywhere in the world, and these impressions will color all these have to tell their friends.

Many others found the Soviet government firmly planted on strong feet, with no evidences in sight of an overthrow, while not a few were impressed by the great size of the country and its future possibilities.

The findings of the needle in the haystack would be, simply itself, compared to reaching unanimity of opinion about the desirable and undesirable traits of Russian Bolshevism.

Apple Pomace Said to Equal Corn Silage as Cattle Fodder—WASHINGTON, (AP)—Apple pomace, the residue of ground apples after the cider has been pressed out, can be profitably used as food for wintering cattle, the Department of Agriculture announces. Thousands of tons of this pomace is wasted each year. When moist pomace can be used fresh or ensiled it yields a cattle food comparable with corn silage. Its most profitable utilization depends upon its preservation by dehydration and producing it as a commercial food. Feeding trials with dairy cows proved dried-apple pomace to be equal pound for pound of dry matter to good corn silage. The material was fed wet and replaced the corn silage in a ration including grain and hay.

An Infallible Guard

HEIMDALL, according to Celtic mythology, was the perfect sentinel. His hearing was so acute that he could hear the wool growing on a sheep's back. His eyesight was so keen he could see everything that happened even though it occurred while he slept.

Advertising, if you use it properly, is an infallible sentinel for you. It guards you against fraud and inferiority. It protects you against making unwise and unsatisfactory purchases.

Merchants and manufacturers who advertise must give full value because they have good names to protect. The makers of well-known products and the stores that sell these products often value the names at millions of dollars. They cannot afford to jeopardize the worth of these names by selling any but goods of full measure and fair price.

So, you can bank on this. Advertised goods must be as advertised. That is why it pays to deal with advertisers and to buy advertised products.
