North of Dawson

Is the Klondike, the last brave stand of the pioneer and the adventurer, to pass into the desolation whence it was rescued, some 20 years ago, by the discovery of gold in its frozen fastnesses? The stage coach route from Dawson has been abandoned, says a news dispatch, and therein goes a bit of picturesque history lost to the world.

There have been stage routes, and stage routes, but never was one like that which trailed over the white road north from Dawson City. Swiftwater Bill Gates, Big Aleck McDonald, Skookum Jim, the Indian, Jack Boyle and Thomas Lippy—what a race they were! Their day of fame has passed, and soon the drivers, too, will be but a memory.

Hobo Bill and Big Slim were two of them. Two of the gallant company that plied back and forth in the Arctic night, perched on the speeding sleigh, guiding their horses with marvelous accuracy as they skidded over the snow, packed to the hardness of marble.

These drivers never used horns or bugles. Their only call, their warning as they flew around the corners of the sharp Yukon trail, was the long, piercing, spine-chilling cry of the malamute. They were given a fresh relay of horses every 20 miles, and they always traveled on the dead run. Right of way was theirs.

Now they have reined in for the last time. The trail will be desolate without them this winter. The malamute will cry but no sleigh will come singing after. And in the waste there will be none to hear the cry, for the Klondike will sink, for the winter at least, back into a wilderness where man will not set foot.

The public wants a man to think well of himself, but it becomes mightily bored when he begins to voice his thoughts.

The contention that there are too many automobiles in this country will continue as long as there is any person without one.

The butchers, at least, are more efficient—there never was a time when they could cut so many steaks from an animal.

The work of stabilizing industry would make more headway if others would act first.

THE OLD HOME TOWN

THE JOCKERS WHO PREPARED A SPECIAL BIG PIPE FOR AUNT SARAH PEABODY, LEADER OF THE SOCIETY FOR SUPPRESSION OF PIPE SMOKING, CAUGHT AUNT SARAH IN THE RIGHT MOOD TODAY.

Her Parents

The public has become about as tired of the word "flapper" as of that other overworked term, "efficiency." It probably always regarded the greater part of the talk on each of the rambling variety. The excuse for referring again to the former topic is a word uttered in Chicago by a director of the Christian Family Crusader, which is a reminder that all along it was her parents, rather than the so-called flapper, who needed attention, if there really was anything seriously wrong with her. Just a reminder that it is the parents instead of the young children who are responsible for the products of the home.

"The fathers of America, even more than the mothers," declared the speaker, "are responsible for that Twentieth Century product—the flapper." Many fathers were accused of neglecting to do their part to give a religious atmosphere to the home. "The old-fashioned American family life, with its grace before meals, its Bible readings and its family prayers," it was added, "is as necessary as ever."

Without going into the details of the method, no one is likely to dispute that the parents ought to retain reasonable control of their young and furnish them an example of the right kind of life.

So let there be a general cessation from efforts to place so much of the responsibility of what is wrong with the world upon the shoulders of little girls.

It is never safe to trust the man whose only motive for being honest is that it is the best policy.

Through the agency of the corner drug store a lot of girls are able to make roses bloom throughout the year.

If you cannot interest a man in a proposition to make money he is probably not long for this world.

Editorials From Over the Nation

ANOTHER DENIAL
Marion Daily Star: Kissing is not disorderly conduct—in Waukegan, Ill. Judge Boyle of that city has ruled. A big policeman caught a man and a woman "locked in the embrace of a kiss," they were in an automobile. "Judge," he had both arms around her and he was kissing her smack on the lips," declared the bluecoat, who had arrested the couple on a charge of being disorderly.

"Well, I had just proposed to her," said the yover, "and if a fellow can't kiss his intended I'd like to know what he can do then," declared the young man.

"Do you love this man?" asked the judge, leaning over and taking a long look into the pretty face of the woman.

"I do," she said, blushing, of course.

Well, the judge did not marry them but he turned to the officer, and roared:

"Case dismissed. Kissing is not disorderly conduct."

By way of a little explanation, it might be said that the judge had previously inquired about the moon, and he was told that "she was shining in all her pristine glory." No one knows whether this had any particular bearing on the case, but it may have opened up a sentimental channel of thought for the judge and cast a mellowing influence over his otherwise stern demeanor.

But few judges are sentimental—on the bench. And kissing lovers outside of Waukegan might not find escape from the clutches of the law so easy. Anyhow, it always pays to be cautious—and law-abiding.

Does Your Back Ache?

It's usually a sign of sick kidneys, especially if the kidney action is disordered, passages scanty or too frequent. Don't wait for more serious troubles. Begin using Doan's Kidney Pills. Read this La Grande man's testimony:

C. W. Cain, 145 T avenue, says: "I keep Doan's Kidney Pills on hand all the time. My kidneys were weak and I had attacks of backache and soreness across the small of my back that made it hard for me to stoop. The action of my kidneys was too free, too, but Doan's from the Red Cross Drug Store always relieved these attacks by strengthening my back and kidneys and benefiting me in every way. If I have any sign of the trouble, I depend on Doan's."

Price 60c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Cain had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.

Coyote Rabies Feared.

BEND, Or.—Fear that coyotes in Lake county may have become infected with rabies has been aroused by the attack Sunday morning of a coyote, which came to the very door of W. L. Cook's cabin in Port Rock valley and fought with Cook's dog. Cook's sons clubbed the animal to death and Cook himself arrived in Bend today bringing with him the head to be sent to Portland for examination.

Insurance Man Tells Of Friend's Recovery

"He suffered considerably from gas in stomach and colic attacks, and at times was very yellow. His doctors diagnosed his ailment as gall bladder trouble and that an operation was necessary. Some one persuaded him to try May's Wonderful Remedy. Since taking it, one year ago he tells me he has been able to eat anything. It is a miracle. Who wants it?"

ple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. At all druggists.—Adv.

A rosewood heart covered with a thin veil of silk and saturated with perfume is the latest "sanitary kiss" to eat anything. It is a miracle. Who wants it?

Where Livestock Is Shown at Its Greatest

MANY have not yet come to realize the size, importance and influence the Pacific International Livestock Exposition wields for the welfare and upbuilding of livestock raising in the Northwest. Nor does every stockraiser appreciate the opportunities offered for his own development and profit.

In 15 years the Pacific International has grown to be one of the great livestock expositions of the world, the largest under one roof in America, until this year, November 5 to 16, it will exhibit about 4000 head of purebred dairy and beef cattle, hogs, sheep, goats and horses; also 2500 chickens and rabbits, offering $50,000 in premiums and showing many world's champions as well as other notable stock. The exposition combines:

Gigantic Livestock Exposition
Dairy Products Show
Land Products Show
Northwest Hay and Grain Show
Western Winter Poultry Show
Night Horse Show
Industrial Exhibits
Daily Auction of Dairy and Beef Stock.

More than 100,000 people attended last year. Why don't you attend and come in contact with the breeders and purchased animals that are doing so much for livestock development in the West? Then come in and tell us of your impressions here at the La Grande National Bank.
