

Armistice Day Reflection

The civilized nations of the world are united in that on this day their hearts are flooded with recollections of the Great War. The war that astounded and horrified civilized peoples! And their sympathies reach out to their lost manhood that ever have lead nations to victory because they remained true to the divine guiding power.

Stanford Beats Oregon; Vandals Victorious Over Aggies; Trojans Losers

MULTNOMAH FIELD, Portland, Ore. (AP)—Stanford university defeated the University of Oregon football team here Saturday 14 to 5. The Cardinals scored touchdowns in the first and third periods, while Oregon showed its only real offensive in the fourth quarter when Chapman kicked a goal from the field.

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Cal. (AP)—The Stanford football team upset all calculations Saturday when they romped home with a shutout against the University of California first year football team, winning 12 to 0. It was the first victory of a Stanford eleven against its greatest rival, California, since the university returned to American football six years ago. Before, a substitute made both touchdowns.

REATTLE (AP)—The University of Montana surprised football fans here Saturday by pushing the short end of the score up to 14 while Washington was making 20. Frequently using forward passes for short gains, the Grizzlies dazzled Husky second string men, who were not replaced by regulars until the game was more than half over. The Montanians were the first college team to score the Husky goal this year.

Trojans Score on California Bears COLLEGIUM, LOS ANGELES (AP)—The University of California football warriors triumphed over the University of Southern California eleven here Saturday before a crowd estimated at 72,000, score 12 to 7. The crowd broke all records for attendance at an athletic contest in the west. The Trojans earned the honor of being the first team to score on the Bears this season with a series of forward passes terminating with three line plunges.

Except in the final minutes of the closing period when the Trojans made their desperate and successful driving effort the Bears proved their superiority in nearly every department. With the punting consistently advanced that of Otto Anderson and the Bruin forwards out charged the strong U. S. C. line and again.

NEBRASKA BEATS NOTRE DAME (Press)—Nebraska's football team beat Notre Dame Saturday afternoon, 14 to 7.

The team that humbled the Army Princeton and Georgia Tech, found its end runs, its off tackle plays and its line smashes important before the heavier Nebraska line and the Cornhuskers broke up or intercepted forward passes at critical points with a regularity that nipped at the incipient drive every aerial assault.

The Nebraska scored at the start of the second quarter and again at the beginning of the last period, with Dave Noble, husky halfback, carrying the ball both times. The first touchdown came when Noble broke through his right tackle and ran 24 yards across the Notre Dame goal and the second followed a blocked pass from Rufus Dornitz, Nebraska fullback, which Noble caught on the enemy's five yard line and carried over with a header of his back. Herb Dowitz added one point after touchdown and his brother the other—both on place kicks.

Notre Dame's touchdown came in the final moments, after the only successful successful Notre Dame passing attack of the game. Gerry, substitute for Layden, crossed the Nebraska goal after catching a short pass from Stuhldreher from the Huskers' 20-yard line.

Cultivation of Almonds And Walnuts Developing

SPOKANE, Wash. (AP)—Cultivation of almonds and black walnuts in the Spokane valley may be developed into a profitable industry, according to H. R. Burritt, in charge of the mineral inspection work for the department of the interior of the northwest with headquarters in Portland. He has made frequent trips through this section and states that the soil appears to be very favorable and is similar to the gravelly soil found in almond growing districts. Plantings on a large scale were not advocated by Mr. Burritt, but the fact that natural conditions were good, he said, made it appear that the venture might be tried out in a small way. "I would like to see some valley grower experiment with almonds and walnuts," he said. "At Centerville and Brigham City, Utah, cultivation at an elevation of 4,000 feet is carried on successfully. The Centerville nursery has developed a hardy strain of almonds and if such trees were planted here, I believe that local growers might find an ideal crop for their lands."

AIRPLANES CANNOT CUT-UP OVER CITY OF SPOKANE NOW

SPOKANE, Wash. (AP)—Low flying and stunt performances by airplanes over this city will be barred if plans now contemplated by the city commissioners are carried out. It will be necessary, members of the council declared, for planes to be identified by license plates. County authorities have under consideration for some time, according to Commissioner Wheeler, if necessary, an endeavor to have a state law passed to this effect will be made in the next session of the legislature. Spectators at football games here recently have been alarmed at chances taken by flyers not more than 100 feet above their heads during the Gonzaga-Alumni game, a plane swooped down over the field causing the players to scatter in the belief that it was falling. "It has its uses, but it falls miserably as a substitute for gold in backing paper currency."

THEATERS

Sherrys Showing "Main Street" Today For Last Time. Film Is Delightful One.

"Main Street" with all its flavor and rural charm, the peculiarities, humors, polemics, high and low spots, is recorded with uncanny skill and genius in "Main Street," which opened yesterday at the Sherry Theatre with Florence Vidor and Monte Blue in the feature roles.

"Main Street" in the novel form by Sinclair Lewis, was the most widely discussed book ever published in America, not excepting even "Uncle Tom's Cabin"; it dealt with the life of the small town and aroused more comment pro and con than anything of its kind.

It is a long time since the screen has seen anything like the ensemble of actors assembled in "Main Street"—a distinguished cast that gives flesh and life to the action. Think of Florence Vidor, Monte Blue, Harry Myers, Noah Henry, Louis Fazenda, Robert Gordon, Josephine Crowell, Gordon Griffith, Gus Harlan and Alan Hale.

Here's Drama That Is Real; Hero Is Hung In "Legally Dead" At The Theater.

"Legally Dead," the Universal all star attraction at the Star Theatre, takes us to the portals of the next world—and then, thank heaven, it stops! What might have been turned into a piece of hokum by some other author and director is kept straight and presents a theme of timely appeal to the public.

The hero is a newspaperman with a conviction that most victims of capital punishment are innocent. To better study the state's "guests" in the penitentiary he commits burglary and gets a sentence. Of course, not being a hardened criminal, he gets pardoned, but out of his prison experience grows a set of circumstances which finally send him back again when a detective is killed, charged with murder. "Circumstances" convict him and he is hanged. What the hero hangs is—

Absolutely—but that is where the day's news and science's newest suggestion come in. Adrenalin, the greatest discovery of the world of science, upon which the world's press has been printing stories by the dozens, is used to bring him back to life.

Universal deserves a good deal of credit for filming this as the story, it is instead of making the plot an end and beginning, about what the hero says "on the other side." As it is, the story is thoroughly logical, backed up in every detail by the day's news and the nature of it makes it essentially

COLLEGIANS HASH THE ENGLISH WORD

FUGENE, Ore. (AP)—That the average college man's English both written and spoken, is poor, is the declaration of W. F. G. Thacher, professor of advertising at the University of Oregon, in an open communication in the columns of the Oregon Daily Emerald, student paper. Professor Thacher stated that the outstanding criticism of the average college man is that he is not equipped with a sound acquaintance with the English language.

Professor Thacher had previously questioned various business and professional men on the qualifications of the college graduate and he found in most instances that the chief objection was faulty English. He said he believed the criticism just and suggested that only by maintaining against loose grammar can it be properly corrected.

The criminal world and the penitentiary figure strongly in the story, which was written by Charles Furthmann, now associate scenario editor at Universal City and formerly, for fifteen years or more, an investigator of crime with state's attorney's offices of Illinois. Milton Sills of "Adam's Rib" and other big pictures, plays the chief character of the story—the "subject" of the adrenalin test. He is supported by a distinguished cast. A two reel comedy rounds out this excellent program that will be presented today and Tuesday at the Star Theatre.
