

PIERCE VISITED LAKE MONDAY

HOT LAKE. (Special)—Wholesale clearing out of boats by the government at reduced prices is resulting in a splendidly equipped yacht for A. Weston, a guest this week at the Hot Lake sanatorium. Weston, whose home is in Olympia, Wn., purchased several boats at Mare Island at the recent auction. One of these, an officer's cutter, he is converting into a pleasure boat. He and his family will start in it for Alaska early next May and spend the summer months cruising the coast. Weston is president, vice-president and every other officer in the Olympia Tug and Barge company. He operates on Puget Sound four large barges, two smaller ones and three tugs.

M. B. Corcoran, a prominent farmer in the Twin Falls, Idaho, district, is among the recent arrivals at the sanatorium. Though he says that fruit ranching is coming and more to be the prevalent type of farming in his community, Mr. Corcoran is a stock raiser. He raises dairy cattle on the farm on which he, himself lives, and has also stocked those which he rents with Holsteins.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Spengler, whose farm south of Baker makes their nearest postoffice, Peen, are two other Idaho residents taking treatment here now.

Mrs. Ray Norval, who spent several weeks here in the fall when her little daughter was taking serum treatment for a mad dog bite, is again registered at the sanatorium. She accompanied her father, J. A. Berchfeld here when he came over from La Grande the first of the week.

Governor Walter M. Pierce stopped at the sanatorium a few moments Monday morning to call on Dr. Pfy. He was on his way to Baker to deliver the Armistice Day address there.

E. A. Moore, stage manager for the Legion theater of Walla Walla, Wn., was among the Tuesday arrivals at the sanatorium.

Two other Walla Walla residents who reached here the same day are Mrs. Ella Brotherton and daughter, Miss Mary Hazel Brotherton. Mrs. Brotherton is manager of the Grovo hotel.

P. J. Nolan, salesman for the Lang & Company, wholesale grocers of Portland, has come to Hot Lake for treatment.

A pension has just been given Patrick Joy, who registered here from Kootenai, Ida., for forty years' service which he has spent with the Northern Pacific. Joy, who has been agent on the branch line running from Lewiston, has been in a position to keep close tabs on the tourists and reports that the Selway National forest is drawing an increasingly large number to that section of Idaho every year.

Ardent hunters have been coming in from all parts of the northwest this fall, says Joy, to try to bag their allotted share of the game which is plentiful there. With Mr. Joy is C. H. Schofield, a Kootenai blacksmith.

Mrs. Nettie Jones, who came here from Pendleton the first of the week, was accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Sadie Collins and by Mrs. Ruth Roler.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Levy are both taking treatment at the sanatorium this week. Mr. Levy is a prominent merchant in Spokane, Wash.

To both visit friends in La Grande and take treatment at the sanatorium, Mrs. Fred Duth has come down to the Grande Ronde valley from her present home in Enterprise. The Duths, who made their home in La Grande for several years, are continuing in Enterprise their former occupation—managing a bakery.

J. M. Whitstone is a recent Portland arrival at the sanatorium. Mr. Whitstone was formerly a lumberman in the coast camps.

F. A. Mauro has been a Spokane guest at the sanatorium. An Italian by birth, Mauro is now helping educate the American people to the diet of his country by heading a company which manufactures several miles of macaroni daily. The U. S. Macaroni

The skirts of new dresses have a tendency to bunch their fullness either in front or at the sides. The extra material is usually taken up in pleats as in the frocks sketched. The side-pleated model has an interesting waistline treatment. The second has a long tunic which parts in front to show the pleated panel there.

company is the name of the firm of which he is president.

Preparing for a tour of the eastern and southern states which he starts next week, G. W. Garrison, of Orofino, Idaho, is taking treatment at Hot Lake. Mr. Garrison will spend the winter months in Alabama, his former home.

D. C. Booth, an Ontario farmer, is here with his wife. Mrs. Booth is a patient in the hospital.

The head of the teachers' training department in the Baker high school, Miss Grace Frost, was a week-end guest at the sanatorium. Miss Frost had been a surgical patient here in the fall and was back for consultation.

Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Taylor are here from Grass Valley, where Mr. Taylor is agent for the O-W-R. & N.

For five years a traveling salesman for a Chicago house which otherwise employs only men, Mrs. C. K. Avery was a guest of Mrs. Grace Barrie at the sanatorium Sunday. Not only is Mrs. Avery the only woman whom the catmoot company sends on the road, but she has for two years held first place among the fifteen traveling representatives of the firm in amount of sales.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Repp of Snohomish, Wn., are both taking treatment here. The Repps own a large farm.

The report that grading was completed last week on the proposed railroad from Crane to Burns and that falls are being laid this week has been brought to the sanatorium by C. W. Mace. Mr. Mace, whose home is a 1000 acre ranch east of Burns, is here with his wife, a surgical patient. Mrs. Mace's mother, Mrs. Ella Matney, also of Burns, is registered here too.

Miss Vera Glah, of Payette, Idaho, who was a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Wren Barrie in La Grande last week, spent the week-end at the sanatorium. Mr. Arthur Menard, superintendent of the service at the Hotel Davenport in Spokane, reached the sanatorium

Wednesday and will take treatment here for several days. The Hotel Davenport was Dr. Pfy's home during the time he was practicing in Spokane. Members of the management there are frequently guests at Hot Lake.

Cane, Found by Road, Wins Hawaiian Prize

KAHULUI, Island of Maui, T. H., (AP)—A stray piece of sugar cane, picked up on the highway by a homesteader and planted by him in order that his children might have something on which to nibble, may lead to the solution of one of the most difficult problems facing the sugar men of Hawaii, according to agricultural experts at the Maui county fair.

The cane, of the variety known as H-199, was exhibited by Manuel Rego and won a first prize. It was considered the most remarkable exhibit at the fair.

A year ago Rego picked up two pieces of the cane on the road while driving to his mountain-side home. He was not a cane grower and did not know that the H-199 variety had been evolved by chemists to grow only in the lowlands and that it was supposed to demand an exceptionally large amount of water. His farm is at an elevation of 2,000 feet in a district that receives an annual rain-fall of only between 40 and 50 inches, mostly in the winter months, with the summers decidedly arid.

He planted the cane and paid no attention to it. In 11 months it had grown into the two most remarkable stools that drew a special prize at the fair.

Sugar experts pointed out that any cane that will thrive so vigorously at an elevation of 2,000 feet, without particular attention, without fertilization and without irrigation in a dry district, possesses tremendous commercial possibilities, and that it may be the cane that planters have spent large amounts of money to evolve.

The impression made by the accidental cane was so great that the exhibit has been removed to the Kalahele settlement of the Hawaiian Homes commission on the island of Molokai by Thornton Lyman, superintendent of the experimenting farm for further experiment.

More than 200,000 persons were examined during the year, and these figures do not by any means reflect upon the caliber of Civil Service applicants in general," said Deming.

"Taking the stand that character, as found in applicants for the Federal service, is in every respect as important a qualification as ability, the commission has exercised every precaution to guard against the entrance of those who cannot be trusted," said Deming.

TELL TRUTH WHEN AFTER U. S. POSTS

WASHINGTON, (I.N.S.)—Following close upon the arrest and conviction of two Washington men for swearing to false information in making applications for Federal positions William C. Deming, president of the United States Civil Service Commission has cautioned applicants not to take liberties with the truth when seeking government positions.

"During the last year, Deming said, 333 persons were added to the commission's 'barred list' for swearing to false information concerning their age, health and education.

The majority of these barred persons, he said, were declared unsuitable for jobs; the same number forged medical certificates, giving themselves a clean bill of health. Twenty-eight were discovered cheating in the examination room; only two were found disloyal to the government.

"More than 200,000 persons were examined during the year, and these figures do not by any means reflect upon the caliber of Civil Service applicants in general," said

Deming. "But it is evident that there is still a surprisingly large number of people who think the government can be easily deceived. On the contrary, the government's ways of determining the truth are so many and so certain that the Civil Service Commission has experienced little difficulty in eliminating the unfit."

"Taking the stand that character, as found in applicants for the Federal service, is in every respect as important a qualification as ability, the commission has exercised every precaution to guard against the entrance of those who cannot be trusted," said Deming.

"Taking the stand that character, as found in applicants for the Federal service, is in every respect as important a qualification as ability, the commission has exercised every precaution to guard against the entrance of those who cannot be trusted," said Deming.

"Taking the stand that character, as found in applicants for the Federal service, is in every respect as important a qualification as ability, the commission has exercised every precaution to guard against the entrance of those who cannot be trusted," said Deming.

"Taking the stand that character, as found in applicants for the Federal service, is in every respect as important a qualification as ability, the commission has exercised every precaution to guard against the entrance of those who cannot be trusted," said Deming.

"Taking the stand that character, as found in applicants for the Federal service, is in every respect as important a qualification as ability, the commission has exercised every precaution to guard against the entrance of those who cannot be trusted," said Deming.

"Taking the stand that character, as found in applicants for the Federal service, is in every respect as important a qualification as ability, the commission has exercised every precaution to guard against the entrance of those who cannot be trusted," said Deming.

"Taking the stand that character, as found in applicants for the Federal service, is in every respect as important a qualification as ability, the commission has exercised every precaution to guard against the entrance of those who cannot be trusted," said Deming.

"Taking the stand that character, as found in applicants for the Federal service, is in every respect as important a qualification as ability, the commission has exercised every precaution to guard against the entrance of those who cannot be trusted," said Deming.

"Taking the stand that character, as found in applicants for the Federal service, is in every respect as important a qualification as ability, the commission has exercised every precaution to guard against the entrance of those who cannot be trusted," said Deming.

"Taking the stand that character, as found in applicants for the Federal service, is in every respect as important a qualification as ability, the commission has exercised every precaution to guard against the entrance of those who cannot be trusted," said Deming.

"Taking the stand that character, as found in applicants for the Federal service, is in every respect as important a qualification as ability, the commission has exercised every precaution to guard against the entrance of those who cannot be trusted," said Deming.

"Taking the stand that character, as found in applicants for the Federal service, is in every respect as important a qualification as ability, the commission has exercised every precaution to guard against the entrance of those who cannot be trusted," said Deming.

"Taking the stand that character, as found in applicants for the Federal service, is in every respect as important a qualification as ability, the commission has exercised every precaution to guard against the entrance of those who cannot be trusted," said Deming.

"Taking the stand that character, as found in applicants for the Federal service, is in every respect as important a qualification as ability, the commission has exercised every precaution to guard against the entrance of those who cannot be trusted," said Deming.

"Taking the stand that character, as found in applicants for the Federal service, is in every respect as important a qualification as ability, the commission has exercised every precaution to guard against the entrance of those who cannot be trusted," said Deming.

"Taking the stand that character, as found in applicants for the Federal service, is in every respect as important a qualification as ability, the commission has exercised every precaution to guard against the entrance of those who cannot be trusted," said Deming.

"Taking the stand that character, as found in applicants for the Federal service, is in every respect as important a qualification as ability, the commission has exercised every precaution to guard against the entrance of those who cannot be trusted," said Deming.

"Taking the stand that character, as found in applicants for the Federal service, is in every respect as important a qualification as ability, the commission has exercised every precaution to guard against the entrance of those who cannot be trusted," said Deming.

"Taking the stand that character, as found in applicants for the Federal service, is in every respect as important a qualification as ability, the commission has exercised every precaution to guard against the entrance of those who cannot be trusted," said Deming.

"Taking the stand that character, as found in applicants for the Federal service, is in every respect as important a qualification as ability, the commission has exercised every precaution to guard against the entrance of those who cannot be trusted," said Deming.

"Taking the stand that character, as found in applicants for the Federal service, is in every respect as important a qualification as ability, the commission has exercised every precaution to guard against the entrance of those who cannot be trusted," said Deming.

"Taking the stand that character, as found in applicants for the Federal service, is in every respect as important a qualification as ability, the commission has exercised every precaution to guard against the entrance of those who cannot be trusted," said Deming.

"Taking the stand that character, as found in applicants for the Federal service, is in every respect as important a qualification as ability, the commission has exercised every precaution to guard against the entrance of those who cannot be trusted," said Deming.

"Taking the stand that character, as found in applicants for the Federal service, is in every respect as important a qualification as ability, the commission has exercised every precaution to guard against the entrance of those who cannot be trusted," said Deming.

Deming. "But it is evident that there is still a surprisingly large number of people who think the government can be easily deceived. On the contrary, the government's ways of determining the truth are so many and so certain that the Civil Service Commission has experienced little difficulty in eliminating the unfit."

"Taking the stand that character, as found in applicants for the Federal service, is in every respect as important a qualification as ability, the commission has exercised every precaution to guard against the entrance of those who cannot be trusted," said Deming.

"Taking the stand that character, as found in applicants for the Federal service, is in every respect as important a qualification as ability, the commission has exercised every precaution to guard against the entrance of those who cannot be trusted," said Deming.

"Taking the stand that character, as found in applicants for the Federal service, is in every respect as important a qualification as ability, the commission has exercised every precaution to guard against the entrance of those who cannot be trusted," said Deming.

"Taking the stand that character, as found in applicants for the Federal service, is in every respect as important a qualification as ability, the commission has exercised every precaution to guard against the entrance of those who cannot be trusted," said Deming.

"Taking the stand that character, as found in applicants for the Federal service, is in every respect as important a qualification as ability, the commission has exercised every precaution to guard against the entrance of those who cannot be trusted," said Deming.

"Taking the stand that character, as found in applicants for the Federal service, is in every respect as important a qualification as ability, the commission has exercised every precaution to guard against the entrance of those who cannot be trusted," said Deming.

"Taking the stand that character, as found in applicants for the Federal service, is in every respect as important a qualification as ability, the commission has exercised every precaution to guard against the entrance of those who cannot be trusted," said Deming.

"Taking the stand that character, as found in applicants for the Federal service, is in every respect as important a qualification as ability, the commission has exercised every precaution to guard against the entrance of those who cannot be trusted," said Deming.

"Taking the stand that character, as found in applicants for the Federal service, is in every respect as important a qualification as ability, the commission has exercised every precaution to guard against the entrance of those who cannot be trusted," said Deming.

"Taking the stand that character, as found in applicants for the Federal service, is in every respect as important a qualification as ability, the commission has exercised every precaution to guard against the entrance of those who cannot be trusted," said Deming.

"Taking the stand that character, as found in applicants for the Federal service, is in every respect as important a qualification as ability, the commission has exercised every precaution to guard against the entrance of those who cannot be trusted," said Deming.

"Taking the stand that character, as found in applicants for the Federal service, is in every respect as important a qualification as ability, the commission has exercised every precaution to guard against the entrance of those who cannot be trusted," said Deming.

"Taking the stand that character, as found in applicants for the Federal service, is in every respect as important a qualification as ability, the commission has exercised every precaution to guard against the entrance of those who cannot be trusted," said Deming.

"Taking the stand that character, as found in applicants for the Federal service, is in every respect as important a qualification as ability, the commission has exercised every precaution to guard against the entrance of those who cannot be trusted," said Deming.

"Taking the stand that character, as found in applicants for the Federal service, is in every respect as important a qualification as ability, the commission has exercised every precaution to guard against the entrance of those who cannot be trusted," said Deming.

"Taking the stand that character, as found in applicants for the Federal service, is in every respect as important a qualification as ability, the commission has exercised every precaution to guard against the entrance of those who cannot be trusted," said Deming.

"Taking the stand that character, as found in applicants for the Federal service, is in every respect as important a qualification as ability, the commission has exercised every precaution to guard against the entrance of those who cannot be trusted," said Deming.

"Taking the stand that character, as found in applicants for the Federal service, is in every respect as important a qualification as ability, the commission has exercised every precaution to guard against the entrance of those who cannot be trusted," said Deming.

"Taking the stand that character, as found in applicants for the Federal service, is in every respect as important a qualification as ability, the commission has exercised every precaution to guard against the entrance of those who cannot be trusted," said Deming.

"Taking the stand that character, as found in applicants for the Federal service, is in every respect as important a qualification as ability, the commission has exercised every precaution to guard against the entrance of those who cannot be trusted," said Deming.

"Taking the stand that character, as found in applicants for the Federal service, is in every respect as important a qualification as ability, the commission has exercised every precaution to guard against the entrance of those who cannot be trusted," said Deming.

"Taking the stand that character, as found in applicants for the Federal service, is in every respect as important a qualification as ability, the commission has exercised every precaution to guard against the entrance of those who cannot be trusted," said Deming.

"Taking the stand that character, as found in applicants for the Federal service, is in every respect as important a qualification as ability, the commission has exercised every precaution to guard against the entrance of those who cannot be trusted," said Deming.

"Taking the stand that character, as found in applicants for the Federal service, is in every respect as important a qualification as ability, the commission has exercised every precaution to guard against the entrance of those who cannot be trusted," said Deming.

"Taking the stand that character, as found in applicants for the Federal service, is in every respect as important a qualification as ability, the commission has exercised every precaution to guard against the entrance of those who cannot be trusted," said Deming.

"Taking the stand that character, as found in applicants for the Federal service, is in every respect as important a qualification as ability, the commission has exercised every precaution to guard against the entrance of those who cannot be trusted," said Deming.

"Taking the stand that character, as found in applicants for the Federal service, is in every respect as important a qualification as ability, the commission has exercised every precaution to guard against the entrance of those who cannot be trusted," said Deming.

"Taking the stand that character, as found in applicants for the Federal service, is in every respect as important a qualification as ability, the commission has exercised every precaution to guard against the entrance of those who cannot be trusted," said Deming.

"Taking the stand that character, as found in applicants for the Federal service, is in every respect as important a qualification as ability, the commission has exercised every precaution to guard against the entrance of those who cannot be trusted," said Deming.

H. & S. Electric Co.

APPLIANCES AND LIGHTING FIXTURES
EDISON MAZDA LAMPS
MOTOR REPAIRING AND REWINDING

107 Depot St. Phone 393-W

JAMMING

Friday and Saturday

WE WILL SELL

40 Pounds

LUSCIOUS EXTRA FANCY BEURRE ANJOU

PEARS $1

By buying direct from the Growers Exchange you can get nearly any wanted variety of choice packed apples for

50c Box

La Grande Brokerage Co.

Fir and Jefferson Phone 595

LUMBER

JUST WHAT YOU WANT
JUST WHEN YOU WANT IT

Primary Essentials of Every Lumber User

Bowman - Hicks Lumber Company

For Mill and Box Wood Phone Main 517
J. L. Munhall

Big Reductions

ON LADIES' AND CHILDREN'S COATS

Jones & Rabone
DEPOT ST.

NOSE CLOGGED FROM A COLD OR CATARRH

Apply Cream in Nostrils To Open Up Air Passages.

Al! What relief! Your clogged nostrils open right up, the air passages of your head are clear and you can breathe freely. No more hawking, sniffling, mucous discharge, headache, dryness—no struggling for breath at night, your cold or catarrh is gone.

Don't stay stuffed up! Get a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm from your druggist now. Apply a little of this fragrant, antiseptic cream in your nostrils, let it penetrate through every air passage of the head; soothe and heal the swollen, inflamed mucous membrane, giving you instant relief. Ely's Cream Balm is just what every cold and catarrh sufferer has been seeking. It's just splendid.

ANNUAL CHRYSANTHEMUM SALE

Your Only Chance To Buy Them At This Price This Season

One Day Only Saturday, November 17

Cash Only At This Price

500 Beautiful Chrysanthemums at the Special Price of 25c Each

100 Of the Immense Prize Mum's at 50c Each

None Charged or Delivered

Cherry Florists

None Charged or Delivered