Fashion Notes

Heavy Weight Tweed. Paris—It's a tweed suit in which the Parisienne does her shopping and marketing just now—a heavy weight tweed that is suitable for winter.

Step-in Corset. Paris—With her evening clothes, the fashionable woman now is wearing a step-in corset of silk elastic in some festive and often bizarre shade.

If it has any bones at all, it has no more than three.

Barbaric But Striking. London—One woman seen here recently in a soft, dark blue velvet evening gown, trimmed in flame ostrich tips, has a fan and head band to match. The effect, though barbaric, is striking.

Empire Fashion in Lingerie. New York—Some of the newest lingerie is in sheers white hainsook made in the empire fashion, which is coming in again today. Its decoration is fine hand embroidery in wreaths and scrolls of delicate flowers.

Dash of Color in Black. New York—A number of the black cloth gowns so popular at present make up for their color effect by a well-placed dash of color. The dash which takes the form of three Roman stripes, is placed at the skirt hem.

Border on Handkerchief. New York—A white linen handkerchief with a border of finest stripes in a light color is correct now. The monogram in a color matching the stripes is placed in one corner.

Latest in Bead Bags. New York—The latest bags, covered with steel bands, have glass beads in bright tints interwoven with the steel points. This gives to the surface of the bag a beautiful glittering effect, yet one full of a soft changeable color.

Secretary Hoover said Thursday. Moreover, the government has in stock some 10,000 fur pelts which may have to be held for a considerable period before disposing of them. The British, Japan and Russian governments also, the secretary declared, were facing losses as a result of the change in style.

The government Mr. Hoover explained has practically a monopoly on seal fur production by reason of its ownership of the
