Fashion Notes

Oxford is Returning.
Paris.—There is a noticeable return today of the Oxford shoe, low of heel, sturdy of toe, and altogether practical. So far it has not been womanly worn, but the smartest Parisiennes have one pair for afternoon strolling.

Gauze Fan, Decorated.
Paris.—Many a chic woman nowadays carries a quaint little gauze fan. Its fan part is made up chiefly of gauze ruffles in which marks of lavender flowers are hidden.

Halter Collar.
London.—An interesting halter collar, seen at a recent fashion show in the Savoy, had long ends—that is, a dozen of them. These fell below the hem of the dress and were tipped with velvet flowers.

Current Colors.
London.—Dull gold, almond green and the soft gray of albatross are favorite decorative colors this season.

Back to Early Victorian Days.
New York.—The little puff sleeves, sometimes seen on the evening frocks, and the wide, swirly skirts are reminiscent of the 1820s. The effect is heightened by the cameo on a black velvet ribbon, worn at the throat or wrist.

Two-Toned Clothing.
New York.—The vogue for two-toned clothing is being expressed today in hose. Some of the "nude" tinted stockings are covered with pinkish red spots of varying sizes, looking—It must be confessed—a little like a bad case of mosquito bites.

PIERCE ISSUES THANKSGIVING PROCLAMATION

SALEM.—Proclaiming Thursday, November 29, to be a day of thanksgiving and prayer, Governor Pierce calls upon all citizens of Oregon to "assemble in their accustomed places of worship to give thanks for all the blessings and pleasures that we enjoy."

"These beautiful autumn days remind us that conforming to the custom of our fathers we should set apart a day of thanksgiving and prayer to Almighty God for blessings bountifully bestowed," the proclamation of the governor reads.

"The past year has been one of exceptional prosperity for many. Our neighbors on every side have bought freely of timber, which is our greatest natural resource. Crops of all kinds have been more bountiful than ever. Our flocks have yielded an abundant return. Practically everybody could find work at remunerative wages."

Respect for Law.
"Respect for law and order during the past year has vastly improved in our beloved state. A great moral awakening is taking place. Officials who have sworn to uphold the constitution and the law have come to realize that the Eighteenth amendment is a part of the constitution of the United States, the fundamental law of the land."

"The abundance of our crops, fruit, grain, vegetables and grass, have been far more than sufficient for our people. Freely we have supplied from our overflowing granaries, flocks and orchards for those less fortunate. God has certainly supplied an abundance. Whatever failure has been the result of unequal distribution which is man-made."

"The people of Oregon are indeed grateful for the blessings showered during the years gone by."
"I, Walter M. Pierce, governor of Oregon, therefore do proclaim and declare Thursday, November 29, A. D. 1928, as a day of thanksgiving and prayer, and I further recommend that the people of this great commonwealth assemble in their accustomed places of worship to give thanks for all the blessings and pleasures that we enjoy."

Enlightened Age.
"We should ever remember and be ever thankful for the fact that we are living in the most eventful, the most beautiful, the most wonderful period in human history. We are just beginning to discover the secrets of nature that have been locked up for so many centuries. The deeper we penetrate into the mysteries of nature the more firmly are we convinced that there is a divine hand governing, guiding and shaping all human effort."

"On this Thanksgiving day let everyone make a new allegiance to the divine ruler, that in every way possible we will do everything in our power to keep unimpaired all the freedom and the blessings that we have and enjoy, and do everything in our power to give them to our children, unimpaired, so that they may have and enjoy the fruits of the most beautiful land and the most beneficent government that ever existed."

Evangelist Faces Charge.
SALEM, Or.—William Duncan, alias General Gaines Lockler, who has been engaged in evangelistic work here for some time, was arrested today charged with molesting an 11-year-old girl. His hearing was set for tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. Duncan according to the police, formerly conducted a barber shop in Albany, but came here some time ago and obtained employment in the paper mill. Evangelistic work was a side issue with him, the officers said.

MEDFORD, Or.—The grand jury continued today its investigation and hearing of witnesses in the Siskiyon tunnel murders and attempted train robbery, of which the D'Autremont brothers of Eugene are accused. It is expected that the grand jury will conclude its probe of the case by tomorrow noon.

George Hotel To Bloom.
HOOD RIVER, Or.—A crew has begun extensive landscape gardening on the Columbia George hotel grounds. Immediately in front a large rustic stone fountain will be built.

The overflow from the fountain will form a small stream to cross a miniature nine-hole golf course complete with bunkers and all on the triangular lawn. George Owen is in charge of the landscape gardening. A zigzag 100-foot iron staircase will be constructed east of Phelps creek falls. Way-Guin-Guin falls, down to the O.-W. D. & N. track.

O. A. C. Club Formed at Astoria.
ASTORIA, Or.—At a meeting here last night of the alumni of the Oregon Agricultural college steps were taken to organize an O. A. C. club. Joseph Dyer was chosen president and a committee on organization was named as follows: Treasurer, Hilley Albert Anderson; W. H. Wootton; C. W. Leighton; Miss Hazel Folkerson; Mrs. Floyd Foster; and Miss Sophia Thomsen. Astoria; Miss Helen Rudolph, Seaside; and E. G. Bates, Gearhart.

THEATERS

"The Greatest Menace"
Showing at Sherrys Last Time Today—Gripping Film.

A clean knock-out was scored at the Sherry theatre last evening when J. G. Mayer's thrilling photo-drama, "The Greatest Menace" scored a great triumph over the drug systems that are wrecking the physiques and minds of Young America today. One dramatic punch after another is landed on the drug traffic by Mr. Mayer's splendid production and it not only points out the terrible effects from using drugs but cautions the world against a vice that is being fought by nation, city and state.

"The Greatest Menace" according to the picture, is dope. And this same deadly poison that is surreptitiously delivered to the users by the routes known to the narcotic operators forms the keynote of this screen story. The District Attorney of a certain section is on record as out to obliterate the drug and their notorious systems at any cost. The gangs plan a battle that reaches far and wide in his weapon. The system smashes a son of the District Attorney. It stoops so low in its efforts to block the Attorney's fight that it has the boy arrested on a murder charge. Now a sister of the disgraced youth steps in and loyally conducts him through his trial and what happens later is all told dramatically by the motion picture camera. There are some well-worked up surprises and exciting twists that keeps the audience on the tiptoe of expectancy.

The picture is finely acted. Ann Little does some of the best work of her film career. As the feminine attorney, who tackles the dope ring and finally beats them in the fight for her brother's life, she displays real histrionic ability. Robert Glendon as the brother, puts his heart and soul into the interpretation of the doped Northrup was badly as the head of the dope ring. Wilfred Lucas was excellent as the District Attorney. Reba Mitchell did some excellent acting as the girl drug-fiend. This was a thinking role but one that Miss Mitchell did with distinction. Praise must also go to Andrew MacLennan, Mildred June, Mr. Kirby, Gordon Miller, Lew Meahan and Jack Livingston for the capable handling of their respective roles.

Nita Naldi to Appear
In "Lawful Larceny"
At Arcade Theater
Tuesday and Wednesday.

As a result of her work in "Lawful Larceny," an Allan Dwan production for Paramount, which comes to the Arcade theatre Tuesday and Wednesday, Nita Naldi will deserve to be called the "Scarab Queen" of the movies. She wears the ancient Egyptian beetles in her hair, on her dresses, set in bracelets, and on her hands and feet. In fact, she is literally covered with scarabs in every scene in which she appears in the picture. Director Dwan conceived an Egyptian motif for Miss Naldi in this picture and it is carried out to the last scarab. All of the scarabs which Miss Naldi wears had to be borrowed from private collections in New York and have an intrinsic value that is hard to estimate. One green scarab which adorns one of her lovely gowns is valued at $2,500. She wears one head-piece with sixty-five scarabs in front and fifty-three in the back, which has an estimated value of $10,000. One of a dozen different pairs of shoes which Miss Naldi wears in the picture has green scarab buckles. "Lawful Larceny" is a dramatic domestic drama featuring Hope Hampton, Nita Naldi, Lew Cody and Conrad Nagel. It is filled with thrilling incidents and the story has great heart appeal.

TURN HAIR DARK WITH SAGE TEA
IF Mixed with Sulphur It Darkens So Naturally Nobody Can Tell

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grandmother's recipe, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, even color, which is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage. Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the messy mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product, improved by the addition of other ingredients, called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft lustre and appearance of abundance which is so attractive.

Carnation will be "the cream of the feast" Thanksgiving Day. It will give delicious flavor to pumpkin pie; it will "cream" the soups and vegetables; whipped, fluffy, it will grace many dishes as a topping; it will add new zest to the home-made candy, and—above all—it will bring to the Thanksgiving coffee that mellow, creamy richness that has no equal.

Carnation gives thanks for the loyalty of old friends and the enthusiasm of new. The Carnation way is to make and keep friends by deserving them.

After that noble bird, the turkey, the dish most typical of Thanksgiving is pumpkin pie. The following recipe is especially good:

Carnation Pumpkin Pie
3/4 cup ginger
1/2 cup brown sugar
1 tsp. cornstarch
1 1/2 cups cooked and strained pumpkin
2 eggs
3/4 tsp. salt
1 cup water
1 tsp. cinnamon
1 cup Carnation Milk

Mix in order given and bake in one crust until firm. This recipe makes one pie.

Pie Crust
3/4 cup flour
3/4 cup shortening
3/4 tsp. salt
Cold water to moisten

Sift salt with flour. Cut shortening into flour with a knife or work in quickly with tips of fingers. Use enough cold water to make the particles of the mixture adhere together. Turn on a lightly floured board and roll thin, handling as little as possible. This recipe makes one pie crust.

An enjoyable addition to the Thanksgiving feast is a dainty fruit salad, with a dressing of whipped Carnation Milk. In fact there are many ways in which fluffy whipped Carnation can be used to advantage. You can whip Carnation Milk quickly and easily by following these directions:

Whipped Carnation Milk
Place can of Carnation Milk unopened in pan of cold water; put on stove and let water come to boil. Let it boil for five minutes around can. Then take out and chill by placing can in ice. Open can and pour contents into bowl set in cracked ice and whip with egg beater until stiff. This should only take about one minute. Flavor with vanilla and sweeten to taste by adding powdered sugar.
