German Culture Threatened
By Prohibitive Cost of Baths

BERLIN (AP)—German culture is seriously threatened by the high price of soap. An ordinary cake of toilet soap costs thirty million marks October 5, which was about 16 American cents estimated on the rate of exchange for that day. Laundry soap is proportionately high, and the press is filled with complaints that the average family cannot maintain decent sanitary conditions in the home under such prices. Starch and other laundry supplies are also soaring.

Public baths are operating only sporadically because of the scarcity of coal and many of the private bath parlors have also shut down. Few apartment houses have any hot water. A central heating has been generally abandoned and the price of coal and gas make baths a luxury in the average home.

Passing of Early West
Noted in Making Big Film Showing at Sherrys Today, Tomorrow.

The passing of the old West into oblivion was made evident when David Smith, the noted Vitaphone director, began seeking sites for the action in his new production, "Pioneer Trails," which will be shown at the Sherry Theatre today and tomorrow.

As "Pioneer Trails" is a dramatic story of the days following the gold rush of 1849, Director Smith required locations typical of those existing during that period. Scouts were sent out throughout the Western States to find sites in keeping with the time of the story. This meant that the old plains untarnished by wire fences, macadam roads and telegraph poles and mountains untrammelled by winding roads and telegraph lines be found.

For more than a month a dozen men scouted Utah, Wyoming, Nevada, Colorado, Oregon, New Mexico and North and South Dakota in vain. Civilization had pushed its way through all this territory and left its imprint upon it.

Just when Director Smith was beginning to despair of finding a locale suitable for the production, one of his scouts reported that the recesses of the Chatsworth Mountains, seventy miles from a railroad, were suitable.

It was only by accident that this location was found.

The entire company of players, together with lighting equipment and other apparatus necessary for the taking of motion pictures, were transported to Anne's Crossing, the nearest railroad station. From there the equipment and actors were taken by burro train to the recesses of the Chatsworth Mountains where the company encamped for two months during the filming of the picture.

An entire town was constructed on this site to reproduce accurately one of the more historic towns that boomed during the gold rush. The town of Burnt Boot was set up with colleges, general store, saloon, sheriff's office, all constructed of logs and rough hewn pine boards.

This trip to the mountains was made by Director Smith for the sole purpose of keeping his film accurate and presenting his story realistically. Alice Calhoun and Calton Landis, two of the most popular stars, will be seen in the leading roles in this unusual photodrama of the early West. In the supporting cast are Otis Harlan, Bertram Grassby, Virginia True Boardman and Arzie Herring and other notable players.

Elinor Glyn's "Six Days"
Opens at Arcade This Afternoon.

A colorful and highly picturesque original screen story has been told by Elinor Glyn, the famous English writer, in "Six Days," which will be the attraction for three days at the Arcade theatre, beginning today. "Six Days" was produced for Goldwyn Pictures Corporation by Charles Brabin, one of the most highly esteemed directors in the industry. In her new story the famous author of "Three Weeks" has developed a story that is rapid and absorbing in action, with characters that appeal to the sympathies and with thrills and romance that lend themselves to the picture form of presentation.

Guida Bergere made the adaptation and the photography was in the skilled hands of John Mesenall. The settings were by Cedric Gibbons, the Goldwyn art director. The cast contains many well-known names. Corinne Griffith, a star in her own right, is featured as Lalline Kingston, and Frank Mayo, who has been a star for a number of years, is co-featured as Dion Leslie. Others in the cast are Myrtle Stedman, Claude King, Monte George, Spottiswoode Aitken, Charles Clary, Evelyn Walsh Hall and others. Lalline Kingston is taken to Europe after the financial failure and death by suicide of her father, by her mother. The latter plots to marry her daughter to the wealthy Englishman, Sir Charles Chelwyn, but after their engagement has been announced, Lalline falls in love with Dion Leslie, who is in reality Sir Charles' son by a famous actress who had deserted him. In a sightseeing tour over one of France's battlefields, after visiting the grave of her brother, Lalline is captured in a German dugout together with Dion Leslie and the priest who acted as their guide. Facing certain death at the end of a few days, Lalline and Dion are married by the priest. How they are rescued and Lalline, believing Dion dead, is married to Sir Charles and later claimed by the latter's son, forms a highly dramatic and absorbing climax in what is regarded as one of the year's biggest pictures.
