National League is Supporting Landis

Peace in Ranks of Major Leagues Assured Late Tuesday Night

CHICAGO, (AP)—Peace within the major league ranks over the administration of Kenesaw Mountain Landis, baseball commissioner, was assured for at least 1924 when the chief executive of the National League adopted resolutions Tuesday night protesting the combination of their loyal support and opposition approval of his administration.

The action of the National League, disapproved most of the features of the possibility of a union between Commissioner Landis, President Heydler of the National League, and Ben Johnson, president of the American League.

The resolutions approved the fearless and impartial decisions rendered by Commissioner Landis and his uncompromising determination to preserve the highest traditions of the game.

The American League while failing to adopt resolutions either approving or condemning Commissioner Landis' administration, gave no indications of hostility.

The club owners decided to give personal recognition to Babe Ruth of the Yankees and George Sibley of the Browns for their achievements as individual stars in 1922 and 1923. In addition to having their names inscribed on the $100,000 monument to be erected by the league in Polaris park in Washington, D.C., they will be given a special 10-round event, Kid Sharp La Grande, will meet Harry Harris Henderson.

Hoffman will fight Schuler in one of the four round preliminary and Ford will take on Daniels in the other.

Deer and Bird Season May Undergo Changes

NEWPORT, Wash., (AP)—Changes in the lengths of both the deer and bird hunting seasons will be put into effect next year in Puget Sound county as the result of a recent decision of the local county game commission.

This policy was adopted, it was reported, because of the heavy broods made in many recently by cougars and coyotes, reports of which have been received and indicate that the depredations are the worst in the history of the county. For this time of year, it is pointed out, have been heard and outside hunters at work this winter in an effort to rid the woods of cougars.

It was proposed that one be hired in this time. The business was then turned over to the school board of their own.

Gonzaga R. O. T. C. Is Now Being Considered

SPokane, Wash., (AP)—Organization of a Reserve Officers' Training Corps, with a minimum enrollment of 100, is contemplated by Gonzaga, 1918 class, and military training by the fall of 1924 is entirely probable, Father W. J. Fitzgerald, S. J., president of the university, announced recently.

Announced that the faculty favored the plan was made by Father Fitzgerald, who was reported that the plan had met with the approval of the Gonzaga board. It is believed that the R. O. T. C. will not be included in the curriculum next year in the form of an infantry company.

Reformation of the plan was made by Colonel J. C. Whitcomb, commander at Fort George Wright. He offered to assist the college authorities in working out arrangements for the introduction of the military training.

The proposition was considered for a time this year, but inadequate housing and a lack of federal appropriations caused a temporary halt. Next year the university will be better equipped and federal funds are expected to be available, it was stated. The war department, however, and the federal government are expected to be better equipped and an instructor where institutions of higher learning qualify under the R. O. T. C. Enrollment in the course will not be compulsory, it was announced.
