Beautiful Dinner Dance Given

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Stange gave a charming dinner dance last evening at the Country club in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Fred King, of Portland, who are house guests at the Stange home. The Christmas spirit was in evidence everywhere and a Christmas tree, beautifully decorated and lighted, furnished an exquisite center piece for the dinner table. A delicious dinner was served, which corresponded with the holiday atmosphere, with covers placed for 50 people.

After dinner dancing was the feature of the evening, with excellent music, furnished by Loney's five piece orchestra. During the evening favors were given those present.

Mrs. Moore, wife of Dr. Moore, of Portland, was also an out of town guest present. She is a house guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Carr.

Hints for the Housewife

from an educational and psychological standpoint. Women who passed the examination will be able to superintend Girls' Reserve work when they leave the university to teach in foreign fields.

Miss Pearson is a sophomore in the University school of sociology.

The Junior Missionary Society, of the Methodist church, will meet Wednesday, December 19, with Miss Lois Nelson as hostess.

The Ladies Society of B. of L. P. & E. will hold their regular meeting, Saturday evening, at 7:30 o'clock, at the U. of P. hall. A good time is anticipated.

The Mission Band of the Presbyterian church, will be entertained at the home of Miss Lydia Hollister, 1501 Cedar street, Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. All members are most cordially invited.

Holiday Suggestions.

(By Helen Harrington Dawling)

No Christmas in the home town is complete without attending the Christmas bazaars at the churches, candy booths in charge of the high school girls, and Christmas bazaars for those less fortunate.

Many of us start months ahead to plan our gift list, then we eagerly start our embroidery and sewing. At the last minute there is always someone who has completely slipped our mind, and it is not always easy to choose a suitable gift in a hurry.

Food is always acceptable—the time taken in its preparation is always appreciated and no gift can be made more Christmasy than a wrapped fruit cake. A book of menus and recipes for one who is just starting out in her own home, or even for a home manager of experience, is not only practical but most acceptable.

For this Christmas, I have suggested two menus and several recipes. If, at any time, additional menu suggestions, recipes, or questions on table etiquette are sent to the writer, in care of this paper, they will be promptly answered.

Christmas Menu—1.
Oyster Soup Crisp Crackers
Celery Hashed Potatoes
Roast Stuffed Turkey Giblet Gravy

Brandy Sauce
Crackers and Cheese Coffee

Orange Cream Cake.
3 cups pastry flour
3 level teaspoons Baking Powder
1/2 cup butter
1 1/2 cups granulated sugar
Yolks of 3 eggs, well beaten
Juice of 1 orange in cup—fill cup with water (making 1 full cup moisture)

White of 1 large egg. Juice of 1 large orange; 2 cups of confectioner's sugar. Put egg and orange juice in deep bowl, add sugar gradually, beating long and hard, until creamy and of consistency to spread. Spread on cake when cool.

Marguerites.
2 eggs
1 cup brown sugar
1 cup flour
3/4 level teaspoon baking powder
Pinch of salt
1 cup pecan nut meats
Beat eggs slightly, add other ingredients in order given. Fill small buttered tins two-thirds full of mixture, and place pecan nut meats on each. Bake in a moderate oven fifteen minutes.

Fashion Notes

Printed Challis.
Paris.—Printed challis is seen here and there this winter, as the foundation for afternoon frocks, for the little bolero jacket now sometimes worn, and for a scarf with the informal gown. The new printed patterns are very beautiful.

Gypsy Handkerchiefs Now.
London.—They call them gypsy handkerchiefs now instead of boleros, and these new ornaments really are copied from the brilliant kerchiefs of the Roumanian gypsies. In georgette or silk, these kerchiefs are draped across the shoulders of dance frocks.

Enormous Flower on Hip.
New York.—One enormous flower—popped on the left hip toward the front, is the only decoration on various new gowns shown today for both evening and afternoon wear. These flowers come in beautiful colorings, the big leaves and petals sprinkled with brilliant.

It's a funny civilization that kills off all the birds and then wonders bitterly when Providence arrlicts it with insects.

Suit Coats Very Long or Very Short

The smart New York woman wears a suit whose jacket is either very short or very long. The box coat is favored by the younger set since its straight boyish lines are especially becoming to slim youth. Older women prefer the long suit coat with straight, dignified lines.

PUTMAN'S THE STORE OF GIFTS

The Store of Gifts invites you to make ready for Christmas here. It has a feeling that you will be satisfied, for all things that go from woman to woman have been carefully selected and attractively arranged for your choosing. There are new gifts and the dear old ones always appreciated. May your shopping tours be entertainments and your gift lists filled superbly.

SOMETHING WEARABLE Is a Precious Gift to a Woman

Provided with just an inkling of her tastes one may present one's friend with something delightfully attractive to wear. There are so many giveable things in apparel and not all of them by far, are high priced. A dainty blouse, a sweater, handkerchiefs, silk hose—these are things she'll love. Pretty underthings, too, take a large space on the list of things she has a permanent longing for more of.

Petticoats

Make Pretty Presents
"Something substantial" is certainly given when a Silk Petticoat is the present. New ones are uncommonly attractive with plaited flounces or scalloped hems.

$3.75 to $9.75

Night Gowns

"What a dream!" she'll exclaim who opens the holly box that holds one of these crepe de chine or Supreme Silk Nighties. Lace trimmed yokes and softest colors—flesh, maize and Nile—make them fit for the veriest lingerie lover.

$6.25 to $13.50

Silk Hose

The kind that wears! Lace clocked, chiffon or medium weight. A gift that will please any woman.

$1.00 to $3.50

Bath Robes

Oh! So warm and comfy these cold mornings, for Sister, Mother or Dad. Make very practical gifts.

$3.75 to $9.75

La Grande Theatres

Wonderful Types Selected for Movie Now Showing at Sherrys Theater.

Some wonderful types have been secured for the Vitagraph Special Production, "The Ninety and Nine." Many of the scenes are about a small town, where the straight-laced inhabitants have no place for a youth who goes wrong, or rather whom gossips have it his left the straight and narrow path. For the town's people it was necessary to secure many types—the village rooster, the straight-tongued father, who would cut off his offspring without a murmur; the kind-hearted mother who would do anything for her child, and the village good folks, who usually did more harm than good—all had to be secured. David Smith, who is a master at securing types succeeded in getting a community and not only that, but he induced these characters to perform weird bits of business in keeping with their personalities. In this way he made each player a star in his or her particular line. Each played has intricate business, and there is no role in the entire production, which has some two or three hundred players, which was too small for a special part of business. Each role stands out distinct and clear cut, but perhaps the most interesting role is that of the village half-wit, Hud Bryson, played by Arthur Jamison. His interpretation of the village half-wit stands out in bold relief and especially clever is the scene with the heroine, Colleen Moore, in which he offers her a toast. Comedy showing, "Oh! Daddy."

Hoxie's New Western Play Coming to Star Theater Saturday and Sunday.

"And some say that motion picture stars take no chances!" This was Lone Pine's exclamation when his people observed the wild ride down the side of a mountain staged by Jack Hoxie for the big night scene in "The Red Warning," Universal Western attraction which comes to the Star Theater Saturday and Sunday, starring Jack Hoxie.

Hoxie started at the top of a hill about a mile from the little California town and rode his horse at a dead run down the steep slope into town, carrying a flaming torch. The town folks knew that it was Hoxie, for he and his beautiful white horse were steadily visible against the skyline. There wasn't any chance for the substitution of a double, for the horse never quit running from the time that the start was made until Jack pulled up at the village store and spoke "howdy" to the crowd that had assembled there.

It was a case for unusual riding skill and daring, really a stunt for a "trick rider" and called for a surefooted pony. Jack has all the attributes necessary for the rider, his pony has never been known to stumble.

The ride comes in an anticlimax in the picture, the signal for the ranchers to start on the big chase after the cattle rustlers.

A two-reel comedy will also be shown.

The triumph of love and the surgeon's knife over the policeman's club in the redemption of a fearless crook forms the fertile soil from which springs the remarkable story in "Skin Deep," Thomas H. Ince's special production at the Arcade theatre today and Saturday.
