They Start Young
Over in East Russia they begin training soldiers early in life. Look at these youngsters, more boys. They are parading the same rigid course of training as older soldiers. Photo made near Clarksville during a demonstration in which 10,000 soldiers participated.

HAKEE—First E. Hakee, state director of the American Legion, said at the formation of the organization at the first meeting held in 1918, March 15, 1919, following the close of the World War, in his address at the meeting of the Legion Post No. 41, last night, that then reviewed the growth of the organization since in the United States and in Oregon, also of the work being done for veterans.

Other speakers of the evening were Richard Langford, William Kelly, Ray Lindholm, Frank Rogers and Leslie Boyd. Boyd, executive director of the American Legion, said in appreciation of the efforts of the organization during the past year.

"Meeting the year with a 'new year's' spirit and closing with a membership of more than 200," Boyd mentioned, "in the growing development of the year for which much of the credit is due."

ROAD CONDITIONS —IN EASTERN OREGON

The state highways in Eastern Oregon are in excellent shape, considering the heavy snowfall experienced during the past two or three days.

The local division office of the State Highway Department reported that the highway over the Blue Mountains between 12 Grande and Pendleton is open and passable but in very dangerous, due to the fact that during the roadway to be exceedingly slippery. All four chains should be used.

From Bend, Main's 12as in Portland no snow is reported and the roads are said to be in excellent shape.

The La Grande-Walla Walla highway has been kept open continuously, although for a short time the road was closed by snow on the 28th. The state from Joseph comes through on schedule this morning, however.

Investigation recently made of the road between Pendleton and the old Oregon Trail and the La Grande-Walla Walla highway:
