Courtland S. Dines Is Shot by Chauffeur of Mabel Normand, Star

Miss Normand's employ for six months. He is said to have come from New York where he worked as a chauffeur.

LOS ANGELES (By the Associated Press)—Surgeons attending Courtland S. Dines, predicted that he would recover from a bullet wound inflicted by Joe Kelley, alias H. A. Greer, Mabel Normand's chauffeur. Kelley freely admitted the shooting, appearing in the police station and saying that "I shot a man."

Dines, Miss Normand and Edna Purviance were spending the evening in the Dines apartment.

Kelley appeared and insisted upon seeing Miss Normand leave. An argument arose and resulted in the shooting.

"Dines started to grab a bottle and there the trouble started," Kelley said.

Miss Normand and Miss Purviance were found at the apartment, endeavoring to give first aid to the injured man. Both were held for questioning but were later released.

Affectionate Scene

Before their release an affectionate scene occurred in the hospital where Miss Purviance implored Dines not to die.

Kelley was said waiting outside for Miss Normand. When another time for the appointment came he went in to remind Miss Normand of the hour.

"I just shot him. I was so nervous the damn gun kept on shooting," he said.

Dines Engaged

DENVER (AP)—Friends of Courtland S. Dines here declare he practically admitted his engagement to Miss Purviance while here three weeks ago. He made no specific admission but accepted the congratulations of his friends without denial. It is declared.

ED STAPLES IS DEAD IN BAKER

Ed Staples was an outstanding character in the history of the Grande Ronde valley with the construction of the railroad through the valley. When the O.-W. was building in he was a tie maker working under H. W. Steele, contractor. When Mr. Staples tendered his report, clearly written and exceptionally well prepared, Mr. Steele hunted him up and made him bookkeeper. When the road was finished and the residue of the construction period was gathered at Hilgard, made a wrecking depot. Mr. Staples was placed in charge.

Later he became a stockholder and bookkeeper in the M. & M. company at Island City, holding his interests until the concern moved to La Grande. Then he bought in with J. K. Romig in a grocery store business later selling his interests to Mr. Snodgrass, the father of J. G. Snodgrass now engaged in a grocery business here.

Mr. Staples then went to Haines where he became interested in a mercantile establishment. Shortly afterwards he became associated with the Baker Implement Co. in Baker.

The deceased was at one time a large property owner in the Grande Ronde valley.

Harrisburg Man Sidelined

HARRISBURG, Or.—With the top of his head blown off by a shot gun, James Burge, 58, was found in his bed at his home, five miles east of town. He left a brief note to Mrs. Claude Vasson to take charge of his affairs. It is believed the suicide took place Friday night.

Mr. Burge was an extensive turkey raiser. He had resided in this vicinity about 14 years. He was a widower. Two sons live in the middle west.

Antelope Herd Surprised

Federal Trapper in Nevada

RENO, Nev. (AP)—O. C. Woods, a federal trapper, reports that recently he was intent on skinning a coyote when he looked up to find himself surrounded by a herd of several hundred antelopes. As they milled around him, eyes fixed on him, he counted 318 of the creatures.

A recent animal census taken by federal trappers estimated the number of antelopes in this vicinity at 1,500. This animal, however, is said to be vanishing rapidly, and the herd in northern Washoe county, Nevada, is reported to be the largest in the United States.

Girl Dares Icy Storms To Stake Mining Claim

could "smell" snow in the air and the snow they referred to was not the ten to fifteen feet of dust-dry ice particles previously fallen, but impending snow that might sweep down on the wings of a blizzard. It was the blizzard they feared, not the 1,500 foot climb on snowshoes to the optional platinum field, four miles distant.

And in blizzard 10,000 feet above sea level is a thing to be feared. A strong man is frequently lost and frozen before he even reaches his danger.

But Miss Christman had made up her mind to stake out a platinum claim. The recent visit of the State geologist, his promise to return with the going out of the winter snows, and the struggling in of prospectors had fired her fanciful dream of wealth and fixed her purpose. She started out in the morning with the dreaded, light-hard abnormal, but the weather suddenly cleared, and by night she was back in the little mountain hamlet, having staked out her claim in the Platina Park and suffered no serious ill effects from the exposure.

It was a bitter cold and dangerous trip, however. Not so difficult in the thick pine woods, but in the open spaces the wind raged, and the air was filled with stinging snow, and perhaps Miss Christman might have fared worse, despite her pluck and the fine determination that refused to concede anything to feminine frailty, had it not been for the chivalrous impulse of one of those same gawky prospectors who had sought unsuccessfully to dissuade her from the per-of the board resented his activities on Capitol Hill, to which unfavorable publicity was in part attributed, and he is now without a position.

R. H. Coker, cousin of the late President Harding served both as a minister of the gospel and in the capacity of a business man in La Grande for nearly four years. He is well known in this city and his son James Coker, prominent in attending the La Grande high school.

Rev. Coker came here to occupy the Christian church pulpit but soon afterwards entered the retail piano business and established what appeared to be a considerable trade on week days.

After a visit to Washington to call on President Harding, Rev. Coker returned to La Grande and shortly he and his wife left for Washington to reside, when his federal position became assured.

Wiesbaden Theatre Rebuilt

WIESBADEN, (AP)—The late theatre of Wiesbaden which was well patronized by officers and doughboys when the American troops were in Coblenz and which was badly damaged by fire last March, has been rebuilt and, it is claimed, has the most modern stage in Europe.

Special precautions against another fire have been taken throughout the house. On the stage alone 300 automatic fire alarm connections have been installed.
