Tom Mix in "Soft Boiled" at Star Three Days—Starts Friday.

In his first special production, Tom Mix, as the hero of "Soft Boiled," has undertaken to enter the actual comedy field for the first time in his varied career. The William Fox production, directed by J. G. Blystone, comes to the Star Theatre for three days commencing Friday and advance criticisms promise that thousands of laughs will be the result.

Exciting sequences which we have recently seen.

The characters in the story have the feeling of reality and charm which they had in the spoken play. Eleanor Boardman, fresh from her triumph in "Souls for Sale," plays the leading feminine role with exuberant charm and understanding.

"Three Wise Fools" Opening at Arcade Theater Today.

A picture that will delight everyone who sees it opens a three days' engagement at the Arcade Theatre today. It is Godwin's first King Vidor production, "Three Wise Fools," fashioned by the director himself from the successful stage play by Austin Strong as produced in New York by John Golden and Winchell Smith. This comedy drama had a three year's run on the Broadway stage. The screen version sets before the eye several incidents that were just hinted at, or which took place off-stage, in the play version. One is a spectacular jail-break in which the heroine's father escapes with two other convicts who had staged the flight. The jail delivery, by armoured motor-car, is one of the most others to make "Three Wise Fools" a living, breathing screen masterpiece. Actor roles are excellently cared for by Irinsley Shaw, Fred Emmett, Zasu Pitts, Lucien Litterfield, Martha Mattox, Fred J. Butler, Charles Hickman, Craig Hiddle, Jr., Creighton Hale and Raymond Hatton.

"Three Wise Fools" is a remarkably fine and artistic picture; it has charm and romance, comedy and dramatic thrills and the big spectacular jail-break. Catch it up as one photoplay you will thoroughly enjoy.

NO SYNTHETIC COW

SWISS COUNT GETS JOB IN PAPER MILL

FITCHBURG, Mass. (U.S.S.)—Found a count working in a paper mill as a mill hand.

His Count von der Weide.

Baron Jean de Montenech, secretary of the League of Nations, is a cousin to the count. He recently married Helen Gould, daughter of Frank Gould.

His ancestry in the Swiss nobility can be traced back to the days six years after Columbus discovered America. At the outbreak of the French revolution his family dropped the use of the title. The World war and consequent financial reverses brought young Jean to this country.

Two years ago the youth bade good-bye to his aged mother and father and sailed for this country. He spent his first six months in New York and in the Western States. He then came to Fitchburg where he was employed by the Fitchburg Paper company as a mill hand. Jean can be found any day at the mill learning every detail of the paper business.

"America is the greatest country in the world," he says.

His reason, he says, for learning every detail of the business is because some day he may return to his own country and, with a financial backing, may establish himself in the paper business there.

MUCH WATER CONSUMED BY LONDON POPULATION

LONDON, (U.S.S.)—Although there are approximately 14,000,000 beer houses and saloons in London, the population used more than 85,000,000,000 gallons of water last year, or more than 25 gallons a day per head, according to the London Water Board's annual report.
