Floor of Pacific Still Rocking
REWARD, Alaska, (AP)—Disturbances at the bottom of the northern end of the Pacific ocean have not come to an end, according to Captain John Newland, master of the steamer Labouche. These activities have been evidenced in the past by the appearance and disappearance of islands.

At a point 26 miles southeast of Cape St. Elias, where the chart said there should be a depth of 1,100 fathoms, Captain Newland recently found only 15 fathoms. Cape St. Elias is the southern end of Kaskin Island, 136 miles east of Seward.

Beggars Flock to Leipzig
LEIPZIG, (AP)—Beggars, unknown here before the war, have been overrunning the city this winter and causing the police much concern.

Investigators have estimated that each house in Leipzig was visited on an average by 12 beggars each day, many of them children. All those who asked for something to eat were not actually hungry, however. The police discovered several sets of men and women who begged all day for meat and bread, and sold the food thus collected from push carts in the streets at night.

LESS COLLEGE SPENDTHRIFTS

By Les Coulter, International News Service Staff Correspondent.

NEW YORK.—What has become of that grand old American institution, the Preceding, large-out-distributing college boy who spent money faster than his father could earn it?

Where is that picturesque character, so long exploited in fiction and feature articles, who helped to support the families of hard-working taxicab drivers, waiters and chauffeurs by his lavish distribution of tips?

The evidence at hand overwhelmingly indicates that he is no longer with us.

Confirmation of this sad state of affairs may be obtained from the people who are supposed to benefit from the extravagance of the generous college boy.

Chauffeur spots 'Em.
In a restaurant near the campus of Columbia University in the heart of New York City, the Mecca of pleasure seekers and free spenders, there is an observant waiter called Charlie. The waiting place is patrolled by all classes of people from the Panhandle Pete type to the successful salesman, so that Charlie is well qualified to gauge the relative generosity of college boys measured by tips.

"These rich-rah boys," Charlie remarked enthusiastically, "are stiff. You know what a stiff is—a guy who never leaves a tip. The only silver your college boy leaves on the table is the spoon, and he would make away with them if we gave him half a chance."

"To make it worse, he doesn't tip even if he has a girl with him," continued the waiter in aggrieved tones. "Lots of men come in alone and don't remember the waiter, but it's a pretty cheap sport who who doesn't leave a tip when he has his girl along. Your college-boy fools around until his girl has left the table and then follows her without giving the waiter a tumble."

Taxicab Complain.
The waiter's estimate of college boys' generosity is strongly supported by taxicab drivers.

"I have long ago given up hope of expecting a large tip from students," replied a grizzled driver when interviewed on the subject.

When one of them takes a girl home from a dance his average tip to the driver is a dime. For a decent tip give me your middle-class workman who is taking his wife home from the weekly trip to the theatre."

Two conclusions may be drawn from the statements of the waiter and the taxi driver—either the modern college boy is just naturally a "tightwad" or else he cannot afford to give tips.

Miss Ethel A. Bred, who runs the Student Employment Agency at Columbia University and is therefore in a position to estimate the financial resources of the average student, upholds the latter view.

"Seventy-five per cent of the boys are working their way thru college at Columbia," she said, "and a great majority of these have a hard time making both ends meet. Of course, every normal kid likes to have his money, but he has to have them as economically as possible. I should say that a boy who is making only $15 or $17 a week, which is about the average here, would be unable to indulge in tipping to any great extent."

London Pays Big Income Tax
LONDON, (AP)—The revenue mite in the city which is controlled by the Corporation of London, contributes one-quarter of the total income tax of the Kingdom," said H. T. McAuliffe, chairman of the Finance Committee of the city corporation.

A total of $1,720,000,000 was collected in income tax in the United Kingdom in 1920-21.

German Is Dropped.
MILWAUKEE, Wis.—Although the state teachers' association recently passed an order to remove teaching of German in Oregon public schools, the move has not received any encouragement in this section.

Schools Asked For Time.
SALEM, Ore.—Heads of practically all of the higher educational institutions in Oregon held a conference here and went on record asking that the celebration of the centennial give them until September, 1925, to meet certain added requirements for standardization imposed for the years 1924 and 1925.

It was explained at the meeting that none of the educational institutions is opposed to the requirements of the board, but that more time will be needed in which to effect the changes.

BEARS PUT RAILROAD SIGNAL MAN TO ROUT
LEWISTON, Pa. (AP)—Cecil E. Bell, block operator at a lonely railroad station near here, one dark night recently received orders for a freight car at his station within a few minutes. He stepped out to await the arrival of the train and literally walked into the arms of two huge black bears, who made astonishing advances. Bell didn't even take a second look, but leaped back into the tower. The freight was soon within a short distance, when the engineer spotted the white. The bears fled panic-stricken into the woods; Bell gingerly delivered the orders and fairly flew back into the tower.

SYMPATHY URGED FOR DOPE FIENDS

CHICAGO, (AP)—Instead of punishment being meted out to persons addicted to drugs, whole-hearted sympathy and extensive cooperation should be extended to these unfortunate, according to Dr. Herman S. Randerson, Chicago health commissioner.

In a speech before a board recently, Dr. Randerson also pointed out that each year more than 100,000 children are born to parents who are addicts. This is a problem, he said, which demands the highest skill of the medical profession.

It will be necessary, he said, to study the social, industrial and economic aspects gradually eliminated.

"Opium, cocaine, morphine and other habit-forming drugs have reached out and clutched thousands of boys and girls within their tentacles," Dr. Randerson asserted. "Where in other years only adults were victims today the influence of drugs is found in many grammar and high schools, children, 12 years of age, and others in their teens have been found to be addicts."

"Nowadays the use of drugs is not confined exclusively to the underworld. Prominent persons, even those who move in the highest strata of society, now 'fill the dope.' Of course, the degradation of their afflictions—and dope victims include many professional men and men highly respected in the community—attenuates the ranks of the underworld."

'SHEIKS' HELD AS VAGABONDS

Judge Rules Man Can't Have Time to Beautify Self and Hold Position, Both.

By W. F. Sullivan, (L.N.S. Staff Correspondent)

KANSAS CITY.—Sheiks who spend their time in powdering their eyebrows and rouging their cheeks (they really do it) are "vague."

Municipal Judge M. J. Kirby, in the Kansas City North Side court, so held when Len Ledford was brought before him and relieved of a bottle of brillianine for the eyelashes and a jar of almond cream rouge.

The judge's opinion of the conduct of the man is that any male who spends his time in grooming his eyebrows and rouging his cheeks to make his face resemble a parakeet is none other than a vagrant, and is held out to Ledford a fine of $500. This means a year in jail for the "sheik," who was unable to pay the fine.

"No man can have time to use cosmetics and hold down a job," Judge Kirby said in making his decree.

Ledford was arrested on the street by Sergeant Nat Aldridge, who noticed the former rolling his sheikish eyes and attempting to open conversation with girls passing by on the sidewalk.

Explaining to the judge, Ledford said he had been reading comic books and how the girls were raving about movie heroes and "sheiks" who peep.

"I'd been having hard luck with the girls, so I thought I'd try a little dabbling on," Ledford said to the judge. "And you'd be really surprised how they fall," he added smugly.

The smile faded a moment later when the "sheik" was adjudged a "vague."

Imported Bread Cheaper
KRONACH, Upper Frisco, (AP)—Some business concerns have brought bread into Kronach from Czechoslovakia for the purpose of supplying their own workmen, being able to save one-third of the cost by so doing. Food is coming across the Czechoslovakian border at many points since the exchange collapse in Germany upset prices.

HIGHWAY SAVINGS

Corvallis Gazette (Times) Staff Highway departments throughout the country have been able to save considerable money this season by reason of the mild winter which has scarcely occurred. The man who spent in past years to keep main roads open, has been saved $100.

The information will be gratifying news to the taxpayer, but the fact that the winter has thus far proved mild should not result in any abandoned engines on the part of road officials to general annual possible traffic to open as a result of inclement weather. There is time yet for hard winter weather, and road men should be held in readiness to open the highways almost as soon as the snow falls.

Kinto have adopted a revolutionary policy, deciding that in future these services will be given to the living instead of to the dead. From days immemorial the first duty of the priests of these temples has been to care for the dead and to preside at funeral services. Hereafter, however, they will devote themselves to the social welfare of the people.

This is a significant change in the Buddhist policy in Japan, and may revolutionize, in the opinion of people here, the whole world of Buddhism.
