LADDER IS BROKEN; MEN FALL IN OIL

On companies answered the alarm and fire hoses were thrown for four or five city blocks on each side of the refinery, which adjoins the resident district and has been many costly fires. Due to it being the scene of several conflagrations many families have deserted their homes.

The captains and the men were on a ladder extended above the top of the tank of adjoining burning oil. The oil in this tank was being drawn off when the ladder broke and the men fell into the tank.

Authorities believe that fumes arising from the oil overcame the struggling firemen. They sank almost instantly.

The bodies were recovered later through a hole in the bottom of the tank.

BLOCKADING OF TAMPICO POSTPONED

ing northward from Canal zone west to add by strength of numbers to the determination that American commerce is to be protected in southern waters.

Official: Silent.

There was no break in Washington during the day in the official silence that has marked the attitude of the American government in connection with the Tampico blockade. At no time has any administration official gone further than to say that vessels had been ordered to Vera Cruz. In the case of the Richmond, it has been added that she would take aboard the men from the Tacoma, who were put ashore immediately after the wreck. It has also been said formally that no orders had been given for any of the eight warships now assembling at Vera Cruz to proceed to Tampico or any other port.

Administration officials feel considerable relief in having received word of the arrival of Admiral Murgler aboard the Richmond at Vera Cruz. Not only has the predicament of the men of the Tacoma involved some embarrassment in dealing with the blockade problems, but the navy department has had occasion to feel anxiety in regard to the plight of Captain Sparrow and the small detachment of his crew which remained with him aboard the Tacoma. With the Richmond standing by, there is no longer great reason for uneasiness as to the men either ashore or aboard the wreck.

Protection for Shipping.—The Richmond also reports a very definite change in the situation relating to the blockade at Tampico. The Washington government now has available in Mexican waters a fast and powerful warship which can be relied upon at need to protect American merchant shipping from any violence. Should rebel vessels actually intercept and attempt to employ force against any commercial ship flying the American flag there is every reason to believe that Admiral Murgler is in possession of instructions from Washington which give him wide discretionary powers to deal with the situation. It would take him only a brief time to reach Tampico.

COMMITTEES WILL PROBE QUESTIONS

The sub-committee has before it the resolution of its chairman, Senator Borah, Republican, Idaho, proposing a senate declaration in favor of the recognition of the present Russian soviet government.

Tempot Dome Probed.—The senate public lands committee which for some months has been inquiring into the issue of the naval oil reserves, will receive Monday the report of Senator Walsh, Democrat, Montana, who made a special trip to Florida to examine Edward B. McClean, Washington newspaper publisher, with reference to the hundred thousand dollar loan which Albert B. Fall, former secretary of the interior, said Mr. McClean had made to him to improve and enlarge his New Mexico ranch after the lease of the Tempot Dome oil reserves had been negotiated with the Sinclair interests.

The Muscle Shoals question which has been before congress for several years, will come up again Tuesday before the house military committee. In addition to the original question of the purchase of the Muscle Shoals plant, the committee will have before it the bid of a group of southern power companies for the leasing of the government plant on the Tennessee river.

Having concluded its public hearings, the house ways and means committee Monday will resume its study of tax reduction.

Take Up Tax Schedules.—After disposing of some odds and ends of the administrative features of the Mellon bill, the committee will devote itself to the tax schedules in an effort to complete the bill by the end of the session. The reduction bills are to be made all along the line.

The agricultural committee of both the house and senate will continue to devote their attention to farm relief measures while the senate interstate commerce committee is considering amendments to the transportation act designed to lower freight rates on commodities produced and used on the farm. The interstate commerce commission has asked for a report from the interstate commerce commission as to the present condition of the railroads under the Esch-Cummins law and this information will be the basis for consideration of the various amendments to the existing law, which are before it.

The only important legislation pending before either the house or the senate is the annual appropriation bill for the interior department which may come to a vote in the house before the weekend. No outstanding measures await the action of the senate which can do nothing on tax reduction or the annual supply bills until the house has acted.

HAVE DARK HAIR AND LOOK YOUNG

Nobody Can Tell When You Darken Gray, Faded Hair With Sage Tea

Grandmother kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and attractive with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect. By asking at drug store for "Wyleth's" you will get a large bottle of the old-time recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, all ready to use, at very little cost. This simple mixture can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

Well-known druggists say everybody uses Wyleth's Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied—it's so easy to use. You simply dampen a comb or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, it is restored to its natural color and looks glossy, soft and beautiful.
