"Who's Guilty" Showing at Arcade Last Time Today.

"Who's guilty?" This is the question asked continually on the streets since "The Acquittal" has been in town. The remarkable universal mystery play, being shown at the Arcade Theatre, tonight for the last time, closes the real chain until the very last flash, suspicion leaps from one member of the cast to the other, and the audience is asked not to tell anyone who hasn't seen the play here. It's impossible to guess until one knows the answer. Norman Kerry, Claire Windsor and an all-star cast enact the gripping story.

Noted Dancer in New Film Showing at Sherrys.

Frederick Ko'Vert, who has gained fame for his eccentric dancing on stage and screen, designed his one hundred and twenty-third costume for his appearance in "Four Friends and Mine," which will start at Sherry's Theatre. Mr. Ko'Vert, although still a young man, has performed more eccentric dances before the mation picture camera than any other person. The remarkable thing about this young dancer is the fact that he was born a cripple, both feet being deformed.

The "Japanese Death Dance" is the name of his specialty in "Four Friends and Mine." The costume, a beautiful, yet weird affair, consisted of 5,000 pieces, every stitch being the result of his own labor. On his face, arms and feet he wore a metal makeup, making the flesh on which it was applied appear in silver.

"Children of Dust" Screen Epic, Coming to Arcade.

How a gruff old man learns to love children and the world when past sixty, is one of the absorbing human angles of "Children of Dust," a First National picture directed by Frank Borzage which will be shown at the Arcade Friday and Saturday.

Rancher Witnesses Conflict Between Two Big Buck Deer

ALTURAR, CAL., (AP)—A Gutman, a rancher, recently was eye-witness to a spectacle not often seen by human beings, that of a deadly combat between two male deer with their horns interlocked.

Gutman, who is deaf, came on the duists in a wilderness near here and was within twenty-five feet of them before he saw them or they sensed his presence. When the bucks noted the intrusion, they ceased fighting and scrambled away, their horns still locked, to a point hardly 100 yds. distant, where they resumed the battle. Gutman did not again approach the animals. Instead he notified the game warden, and the next day an investigation was made. The bucks could not be found, but the trail they had left for miles told eloquently of the terrific battle. In places the ground was torn up as if by a plow and saplings were broken down. At one point the fettered feet had fallen over a cliff 12 feet high.

The game warden predicted that the final chapter of the episode would be written when some hunter found two pairs of whitened horns linked together. Such finds are not uncommon, an indication that fights between bucks often last until both die of exposure or starvation.

S. P. Plans Tunneling In Oregon Hills Soon

EGGUNE, OR., (AP)—The high divide of the Cascade mountains, barrier to commerce and communication between the western and eastern sections of Oregon, will be penetrated with a long tunnel near the west end of Odell lake, according to an announcement of Southern Pacific railway officials.

This is part of the work of developing what is known as the Eugene-Klamath Falls line now under construction by this company, forming a new line between Oregon and California.

Engineers are now arranging for the camp sites near the summit of the mountains and they state that preliminary work on the tunnel, which will be 1500 feet long, is expected to be started in the near future.

TEXAS TAKES TO DOMINOES

"Everybody Doing It Now," Dominoes Becoming Most Popular Indoor Sport.

(By J. Sydney Bushes.)
PORT WORTH, TEX., (INS)—New York has its bucket shops, Chicago its Loop and California its Hollywood, but Texas reveals its dominoes.

Who visions of whirling roulette wheels, nimble-thumbed exponents of the stacked deck and cunning "hot me again" of the black jack table are just that—wild visions.

Texas has gone in for dominoes. Not with the skeptical, half-hearted timidity of those who seek out the mysterious intricacies of the Mah Jong enigma, nor the domino exploitation of the bridge player, but with the copious, unshinied enthusiasm of a Mexican after his chili.

From the most luxurious drawing room of the millionaire stockman and all magnate to the most miserable hovel of indomitable housewives, there resounds the wholesome snick of wood on wood—the domino devotee in action.

Merchants report unprecedented demands for domino sets; and an inability to maintain a substantial supply.

Temp. brew establishments, smoke shops and clubs have installed "domino rooms" and with the advent of seasonal rains and the subsequent deserting of golf links the intensity of interest has been tripled.

Where its addicts formerly played at golf throughout a busy day at the office and at dominoes at night—dominoes now supplant for the entire day.

And its potentialities are not confined alone to recreation—it is widespread huge sums are wagered within the confines of the club and smoke house. Recently it was current talk of a rancher who wagered $2,000 across—and lost.

The Saturday night dice game in the oil fields is sadly neglected. The snick of dominoes, overwhelming the rattle of cubes, is not a fleeting fancy—dominoes has long played a conspicuous role in the amusement repertoire of Texans—but it is only recently that it has gripped the club and home with such burning animation.

So far, experts confide, the gambler has devised no method of "beating the game"—marked dominoes made their appearance in a West Texas resort and game flash. Two men died.

This display of violence is not altogether unusual. During the last four months five fatalities have been attributed to dominoes.

In fact, once a thorough understanding of the game is obtained, addicts never, it holds a relentless fascination that is unequalled in sporting appeal. The following conversation between a lady and a Port Worth physician is told:

"Doctor, I'm continually seeing sports before my eyes. I'm positive I have some incurable organic disorder," the woman argued meekly.

"Tommy-rot and likewise nonsense, my good lady. You have merely been overplaying at dominoes," the doctor responded, and was not to be pressed further.

Boston Transcript: "Let us keep peace out of politics." By all means. Who ever heard of peaceful politics?

CLAIMS REPORT WAS INCORRECT

According to attorney representing the plaintiff in the case of Annie Vandewater vs. George T. Nathan, which was tried before Judge Gustav Anderson of Baker, the decision of the judge as mentioned in the Evening Observer's account of the case on page five of the Saturday issue stating that the judge "annulling the validity and effect of a judgment secured about three years ago" was incorrect because the validity and effect of the judgment were not an issue.

The attorney states that the suit was brought to set aside a sheriff's deed to the defendant to the right and title of the plaintiff in 255 acres of land which the judge found was worth from $120 to $150 an acre.

The judgment was obtained against the plaintiff for failure to pay a $50 note upon which she was surety, and which was given by Harry J. Gilbert and with costs.

The judgment was obtained against the plaintiff for failure to pay a $50 note upon which she was surety, and which was given by Harry J. Gilbert and with costs.

of $100,000 amounting to $407.05. The sole question remaining to the attorney was the right of the plaintiff to recover her attorney's fees. The judge explained by paying the amount of the plaintiff's attorney's fees. The suit according to the attorney was for the purpose of concealing the plaintiff's deed and requiring the money for which the land was sold being with interest which Mrs. Vandewater paid into the court.
