INSTALLATION SERVICES HELD

Two Orders Install Officers at Summerville on Saturday Eve; Many Visitors Present.

SUMMERVILLE, (Special)—The I. O. O. F. and Rebekah of this place held a joint installation in their hall Saturday evening. Many members and visitors were present to witness the beautiful ceremony. John J. Wagner and Mrs. Mary Woodell were the installing officers, and after the new officers had taken their various positions the crowd was delightfully entertained by a radio demonstration by the Andrews brothers of Imbler. A delicious banquet was served before the close of the evening.

Jim Lewis was unfortunate enough to cut his hand while hammering during the week. He immediately went to La Grande for medical aid. The wound has given him considerable pain.

Rena Choate is staying with her grand parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Choate for school convenience. Mrs. John Cantrel is suffering from a severe attack of neuritis. Mrs. Wilbur Brock and family spent the latter part of the week looking after business interests in La Grande.

George Hardy was a business visitor in La Grande Thursday. Reverend Yokum filled the pulpit at the M. E. Church Sunday.

Mrs. E. Fisher spent the week end in town visiting at the home of her daughters, Mrs. Archie Ingram and Mrs. Etta Whitcomb. Many of the farmers have been filling their ice houses recently, preparing for the hot months next summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Hlin Hensley and family and Carol Wagner spent Thursday evening very pleasantly listening to the radio at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hamilton.

Carl Cowan was transacting business in Imbler Saturday. Some of the school children were sick with severe colds this week and unable to attend school. Mr. and Mrs. Ray Hig were Sunday visitors at the D. R. McKinnis home. Wayne Fragile and Ray Baker were business visitors in town Friday. J. E. Woods and C. W. Fisher were transacting business in Elgin Thursday.

ROYAL FAMILY CRITIC BACKS HIS COLUMN

BERLIN, (AP)—In spite of his ostension by his own family and all officers of the old German army, Count Zedlitz-Trutzschler says he is still convinced that he was right in publishing his book, "Twenty Years of Life at the Kaiser's Court," which created so much excitement among families which were associated with the imperial house.

The count says he wrote the book with the intention that it be not printed until 1924, and caused it to be sealed with instructions that it be held until that date. But when the former emperor published his memoirs, and other officers and statesmen printed books in violation of old traditions, the count felt it was his duty to bring out his book and let it contain or deny the statements of other men concerning the same period.

"I thought it was fairer to stand the storm my book might raise than to force one of my sons to do so," says the count. "Whoever reads my book without prejudice will realize that I have no desire for renunciation, but simply wish to serve my country, be it republic or monarchy, by persuading men to speak their convictions and not to believe them because of personal advantage, as did many of the officials about the emperor."

To the men who boycott him because of the book which put Hindenburg and many other prominent figures in the light of erasing, fawning sycophants in the presence of the former emperor, Count Zedlitz-Trutzschler says: "But you, my friends, who now bar me from society, beware! The weapon you are using against me is most unethical. It may cause many in the future to be silent instead of telling the truth. Not everyone is ready, as I am, to live and die alone."

Americans have little in common except the ambition to run a filling station.

The thing that makes war inevitable is the conviction that war is inevitable.
