New Orleans friends, sat with her attorneys, she sat calm and paid close attention to the trial. Mr. Candler was present while the letters were being read.

Outlines Plaintiff's Case.
In a statement to the jury which was selected in five minutes, Mr. Howell outlined the plaintiff's case, detailing the various stages and courtship proceedings, the engagement, the alleged breaking of the engagement by Mr. Candler and his subsequent refusal to name persons, who he charged had given him information that Mrs. De Bouchel had been visited by two men in her room at a hotel in Atlanta during a Confederate re-union in 1919.

Mr. Howell opened the plaintiff's testimony with the reading of the letters Mr. Candler was said to have written to Mrs. De Bouchel. He had not completed reading the letters when court adjourned until 10 o'clock Thursday morning.

Of 12 letters introduced in evidence Wednesday, eight addressed Mrs. De Bouchel as "My Dear Sweetheart." Others began "My Very Precious Sweetheart," "My Own Dear Sweetheart," "My Dear Sweet," and "My Own Sweetheart."

Mr. Howell, in reading the letters, announced that those he was reading were only representative letters selected from a number written almost daily to Mrs. De Bouchel over a period covering several months.

The first letter read was dated August 6, 1922, a few weeks after Mrs. Candler and Mrs. De Bouchel became engaged. In it written "what I most desire at you become formally my wife as early as possible date April 1." He mentioned an on he extended to Mrs. De Bouchel to visit Atlanta, during and discussed the furnishing of a home here for their wedding.

He mentioned that he was to their life together, and the letter stated: "I wish you to have as he required to insure your future. I am very sorry for thinking about that that I can write as since I passed day."

Says His Prescription Has Powerful Influence Over Rheumatism

Mr. James H. Allen suffered for years with rheumatism. Many times this terrible disease left him helpless and unable to work. He finally decided, after years of aimless study, that no one can be free from rheumatism until the accumulated impurities, commonly called uric acid deposits, were dissolved in the joints and muscles and expelled from the body.

With this idea in mind he consulted physicians, made experiments and finally compounded a prescription that quickly and completely banished every sign and symptom of rheumatism from his system.

He freely gave his discovery, which he called Allorhu, to others who took it, with what might be called marvellous success. After years of trying he decided to let sufferers everywhere know about his discovery through the newspapers. He has therefore instructed the Red Cross Drug Co. to dispense Allorhu with the understanding that if the first pint bottle does not show the way to complete recovery he will gladly return your money without comment.
