MRS. GOODNOUGH CELEBRATES HER 98TH NATAL DAY

The following article was clipped from the Hardwick, Vermont Gazette of January 17th, 1924. Mrs. Goodnough, mentioned in the article, is the mother of C. D. Goodnough, of La Grande, and many of the older residents of this city will remember her as she spent two years here in Oregon about 22 years ago.

"On Tuesday, some of Mandanna Goodnough's friends and neighbors called to congratulate her in having passed her 98th birthday, which makes her one of the oldest, if not the oldest person in town.

"They brought her gifts, flowers and candy, for which she wishes to extend thanks. Mandanna Goodnough is in quite feeble health, but her mind is clear and she likes to recall scenes of 80 and 90 years ago. She is proud of the fact and tells people how Elias Howe, the inventor of the sewing machine, was a cousin of the family and tells how he assisted in the Civil War and of one time when there was no money to pay the regiment and as he knew the families of some of the soldiers were in need he had a private conference with the colonel and paid the whole regiment. She also boasts that Ebenezer Locke, the man who fired the first gun of the Revolution, was her cousin.

"Sixty-four years ago she was a resident of Hardwick, her husband having died on a farm a little below Jackson bridge. She sold the large farm and bought a smaller one in the town of Walden, where she brought up her family of four children.

"She has crossed the continent and back three times and was in Florida, so her knowledge of her country was more intimate than that of most of the women of her age.

"She has always believed that the world was a place for people to work and her daughter says of her that she was willing to do her share of the world's work and help out some of the ones who were not as willing to work as she.

"She is an example of the sturdy old New England stock that has done so much to make our country what it is. May her last days be passed in peace and happiness."

No One Will Purchase Large Size Paintings.
LONDON, (AP)—Large canvases painted by old masters to hang upon the spacious walls of the rich man's mansion are hard to sell in these days of apartment and small houses. Bond Street dealers say the demand is almost entirely for small pictures, so that prices frequently are in inverse ratio to size.

Post-war social changes are held responsible for the poor market for large paintings.

Foley Pills Brought Relief.
John R. Gordon, Danville, Ill., writes: "I suffered with kidney trouble; could not sleep and was always tired. I got some FOLEY PILLS and after a few treatments I felt better." FOLEY PILLS are a diuretic stimulant for the kidneys; aid in flushing and keeping them active.—Adv.

and will be more content in the country.
E. D.—Will I get my divorce this term of court and alimony too?

Ans.—After some legal difficulties and considerable delay, you will be successful in obtaining the divorce but will be a little disappointed in the amount of alimony.

Ans.—Your trouble has been brought about through external causes of the heart and this has so injured the delicate membranes and tissues which carry out the normal functions that I would advise you to immediately consult a reliable specialist for the disease of the ear and throat.

Ans.—If you will ask this young lady the same question you have asked me you will be married the last week of this coming June. I can only see ahead for you for four years and only see one child in that period of time.

Ans.—It is still in the bottom of the automobile in which you were riding at the time you had it off your finger. The young man who was with you had nothing to do with it.

Ans.—You will do fairly well, but will not remain very long making a change for the domestic life which will prove more successful.

Ans.—See that this would be beneficial, but would advise that you wait until the latter part of the summer before making the change.

Ans.—Where is my fountain pen that is missing?

Ans.—Look in your sister's box of writing paper and you will find the pen where she left it after writing with it.

Ans.—Approximately eight more months.

Ans.—You will eventually get this after considerable legal litigation, I advise you to now care regarding the lawyer handling this.

Ans.—A change at this time would not be advisable. He will do quite well for the next two years and then you will go to the States.

GIRL BITTEN BY RABID DOG

Wolf Creek Aroused by Action of Mad Dog; Canine Is Slain.

NORTH POWDER, (Special)—Out in the Wolf Creek neighborhood a dog belonging to Sam Malone bit Doris Holden. The child had on heavy clothing and thus preventing the bite from breaking the skin and going into the flesh. This dog was killed as was another dog, which seemed to have rabies. It was reported that the dog had bitten other stock on the place but Mrs. Malone said that only one horse was bitten which was penned up waiting for results. A number of other stock and dogs have been killed in that portion of the country on account of rabies, although there has not been any more killed here than at North Powder. Some dogs have been shot here within the last two or three days because they were without muzzles.

The high school play which was given by the senior and junior classes on Thursday night was a laughing success from start to finish. The title of the play was "When a Feller Needs a Friend," and was a comedy, which was greeted with gales of laughter. Each individual gave their parts very well. Hester Fisher made a fine widow, who was always lamenting over the loss of her first husband after she had been married the second time. Marian Ballard filled the role of the flapper very well, Jack Craig impersonated a returned army officer and took his part very well. And all other members of the cast of the play did well. Mrs. Myrtle Mulien, the director of the play has been heartily congratulated for her good work.

The play was well patronized by people of other places and compliments were heard on all sides by the visitors. A nice sum was realized from the sale of the tickets, which will be a great help to the school.

Mrs. Emil Miller entertained a number of friends at her home last week, the occasion being her husband's birthday. A large birthday cake adorned the dinner table and a delicious dinner was served. The evening was spent at cards and a musical program was given, everyone enjoying a delightful time.

Dr. G. J. Ten Brook left for Maxville, where he will take up his work for the Bowman-Hicks Lumber company. He has been here for some time and many regret that he has left this section, but are glad to know that he has a better place.

Dr. W. G. Oliver, now of Sumner, will be in town some time this week to take the place left vacant by Dr. Ten Brooks. Dr. Oliver comes well recommended and will find a good field for his work.

Charles Law spent the week-end in town on business. Mr. Law is now in Portland, where he is taking a course at the Adeco school in the finer arts of the automobile mechanism. Mr. Law is already a master hand at this work but is now taking a finishing course in the business.

Jack Gorham purchased a registered Jersey bull from W. O. Christensen. Mr. Christensen has several head of fine animals and is making a specialty of thoroughbred cattle.

PRESBYTERIAN CLUB TO MEET

KOREAN STUDENTS FLEE FROM JAPAN

TOKIO, (INS)—The schools of Tokio probably will be without the usual contingent of Korean students, if present indications say anything to do with it. Prior to the great earthquake virtually every school of Tokio had its group of Korean students, young people sent to this country by their home districts for higher education. In the days following the earthquake excitement in the capital and elsewhere ran high, and hundreds of Koreans, charged with poisoning wells and attempting to spread discord, were murdered in cold blood by members of the Young Men's Associations and by groups of excited youths. In many cases Chinese and even Japanese mistook for Koreans, and death at the hands of the infuriated mobs.

The outbreak of the Japanese riots caused a wholesale exodus of Koreans from the capital, as they felt their lives would be constantly in danger here, and as a consequence when schools opened in the Korean attendants were missing. Reports in Tokio are to the effect that very few of the Korean students who returned to their homes may be expected to return here.

HONOLULU IS FREE FROM THUNDER AND LIGHTNING.
HONOLULU, (INS)—This city along with its other climatic attractions, is practically safe from the dangers of lightning. This fact was pointed out recently by Thomas A. Blair, United States Weather Bureau Chief, following the first thunder storm here in years. The reason for this lack of electric storms, according to Blair, is that the island is swept almost continuously by a sea breeze, which serves to drive the charged thunder clouds against the central mountain range from where they are deflected upward and discharge their electricity at high altitudes. The recent storm followed an unusual period of heat and drier clouds against the central
