BANQUET IN EVENING IS MEET'S END

ful talk and in beautiful words spoke the feeling in his heart on the sentimental side of life; upheld the traditions of the old Oregon Trail painting a picture of the crowded cities of the east where it people buy, know and realized the broad Oregon country's welcome would come to locate where climate and surroundings make life worth living.

Mr. Dana dwelt upon the fact that roads have much to do with people's lives. He demonstrated that almost every great act of man was associated with some kind of a road, and then he brought forth again the intelli-which Rev. J. Nelson Harris, an the nation as a whole and the Pacific west, in particular.

Rev. Keith, pastor of the First Methodist church, led the banqueters in singing one verse of "Near My God to Thee" after which Rev. J. Nelson Harris, an Episcopal minister from Portland, dismissed the assembly with the benediction.

LUNCHEON WAS SUCCESS.
 At noon yesterday the Chamber of Commerce entertained all the out of town people at a luncheon in the I. O. O. F. hall which was a decided success. A. W. Nelson acted as chairman of the meeting and very ably made things go with lots of snap. A. B. Cherry saw to it that every one present wore a beautiful red carnation with compliments of the Cherry Florists, and the luncheon served was very fine. Herbert Cuthbert, publicity manager for the Portland Chamber of Commerce, spoke on advertising and told of the work being done by Portland to bring people into the state. He said he was spending $55,000 of Portland money in a campaign to induce people to come to Oregon.

 C. E. Lester, formerly of the Evening Observer but now managing editor of the Portland Telegram, gave a good "coming home" talk which was appreciated by Mr. Lester's many friends. He said La Grande was one of the outstanding communities of the state where hustle and good will prevailed and in closing he predicted a bright future for this city and her people.

MEACHAM IS PRESIDENT FOR 1924

Twin Falls, Idaho, resulted in announcement by Mr. Wood that the completion of this trip was now under consideration.
 Judge Daly, in a short address dwelt upon financial aspects of road building both pro and con.

The Highway
 "The Old Oregon Trail is the highway from the east to the west," positively asserted A. S. Dudley, manager of the state chamber of commerce. He spoke glowingly of the future of the highway and bore out his statement in more than one way that was proof to his audience that his claims were water-proof.

Mr. Dudley pledged the support of the state chamber of commerce toward the culmination of the ambitions of the association, specifically along publicity lines. Plans of his organization were discussed.
Reverend Hughes Speaks.
 Reverend H. S. Hughes, formerly Presbyterian pastor at Union, but now in Coquille county contributed one of the most interesting speeches of the day. Ministers of the gospel are always orators and Reverend Hughes is above the ordinary. He emphasized the great home-seeking trail in a manner that met instant approval and concluded with the recitation of the following poem:

IN OREGON,
 The moonlight falls the softest—In Oregon;
 The summer days come ofttest—In Oregon;
 Friendship is the strongest,
 Love's light glows the longest,
 And you always feel the youngest—In Oregon.
 Life's burdens bears the lightest—In Oregon;
 The home fires burn the brightest—In Oregon;
 The kitchens are the cleanest,
 Our appetites the keenest,
 And the ham is always leanest—In Oregon.
 The melons grow the roundest—In Oregon;
 The bankers are the soundest—In Oregon;
 The game is always gamest,
 The wardens are the lamest,
 And the bulldozers are the tamest—In Oregon.
 The news is always newest—In Oregon;
 Politicians are the fewest—In Oregon;
 The water is the clearest,
 The wine is never dearest,
 Yet it often acts the queerest—In Oregon.

Plan Membership Drive.
 An Old Oregon Trail membership drive will be adopted throughout the states through which the trail winds its westward way sometime in the future, according to an adopted motion made. Incidentally members present at the time promptly gathered around Secretary Nelson and showered him with silver dollars to be used for their membership during the present year.

The inauguration of a ten-cent membership for children also met with favor.

May Trek East.
 The Old Oregon Trail has been traversed many times from east to west but from west to east, via a prairie schooner, would be different. And from indications that is exactly what will happen sometime soon.

The object of such a trek will be to enlist new members in the movement and to create new enthusiasm in towns that have not yet been touched by the spirit of the trail.

Pocatello Seeks Meeting.
 Pocatello, Idaho's chamber of commerce, through J. B. Brady, extended an invitation to the association to hold the 1925 annual meeting in Pocatello. No other invitations were heard and the matter was referred to the executive committee for a decision at some later date.

The prevailing opinion however, is that some town in Idaho, probably Pocatello, will be given the choice.

Pass Resolutions.
 Resolutions were passed as follows: One of appreciation to Walter E. Meacham, one of sympathy to Mrs. Warren G. Harding, one appreciating the action of the highway commission in pledging their support to the movement and others.

Nominations Made.
 A nominating committee, identical in personnel as the budget committee, retired to an adjacent room and returned with nominations for office of directors.

Three men, John W. Langdon, Walla Walla, H. B. Van Duser, Portland, and H. A. Lawson, Baker, were recommended for two-year terms as directors, and six men were recommended for one-year's service on the directorate. They were Walter Meacham, Baker; C. L. Cadwell, Union; Dr. W. T. Phy, Hot Lake; I. U. Temple, Pendleton; J. B. Brady, Pocatello and Paul T. Shaw, Portland.

The officers of the association are selected from the ranks of the directors.

Irish Man of Letters Sought Humble Burial

DUBLIN, (INS).—The late Edward Martin, who died in Dublin recently, though possessed of many thousands sterling and well pleased in the world of letters, he ing a founder of the Abbey Theatre, with Senator Yeats and Lady Gregory, directed that he should be buried in a pauper's grave with before his body was assigned to the city it should be sent to the Dublin University to be used for research work.

Golden Man Uncovered In The Valley of Kings magnificent treasures the excavators in this tomb have brought to light.

The mummy case is perfectly intact. It is described as one of the most wonderful of its kind that ever has been found.
 The pharaoh is represented in high relief, covered with sheets of solid gold, more than twice life size. His serene and beautiful face exquisitely incised with glittering eyes of amethyst and a long up-curved beard of solid gold. The tall and sceptre which the king grasps in his crossed hands are of gilded wood more than three feet long. From the waist down the broad wings of goddesses meet across the knees to shield the pharaoh from danger.

When the lid was raised the mummy case was found to be covered with three thicknesses of linen, brown with age. This linen when rolled up disclosed to the bewildered eyes of the excavators, as one of these present told a correspondent of the Associated Press, "a gleaming golden man."
 The mummy case stands in a coffin on what seems to be a wooden slouch on which doubtless priests dragged it to the valley of the kings.

To picture the scene of this tremendous find, one must visualize a narrow, low-roofed vault the walls of which are decorated with rather garish religious scenes which King Ay had painted in honor of himself and his predecessors in the foreground a group of guests bareheaded, in shirt-sleeves and unmany thousands sterling and well pleased in the world of letters, he
